VANILLA EXTRACT LEADS TO 60 DAY JAIL SENTENCE

Because of his badly inebriated condition on vanilla extract which caused his car to go off the Pacific highway three miles north of the city at about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and tilt in a dangerous angle in a ditch, whereupon he went calmly to sleep inside the car, Francis Adair, about 50 years old, an Ashland restaurant proprietor, was given a sentence of 60 days in the county jail, a $100 fine and had his driver's license revoked for one year, in Justice Roe's court at Jacksonville late yesterday afternoon.

The arrest was made by Allison Moulton, assistant district attorney, in his capacity as deputy sheriff, although Chief of Police Adams of this city was at the scene at the same time, but had no authority to make the arrest, being outside the city limits.

It is seldom an intoxicated man is haled into court while still under the influence, but under the circumstances Mr. Moulton thought it wise to introduce an innovation.

It seems that when Adair's car went into the ditch that individual deemed it a good time to curl up and go to sleep. Then a woman from the vicinity phoned in to the Medford police station that she had passed a man asleep or dead in a car along the highway. Thereupon Chief Adams drove hurriedly out to the scene and was just awakening Adair when along came Assistant District Attorney Moulton, who was driving home from Ashland.

When thoroughly awakened by the two officials the befuddled Ashland man was at first inclined to be quite abusive and started to make wild claims as to his identity, at times claiming he was a Texas bad man, a United States marshal from Texas, even going so far as to pretend to search for his badge, and finally claiming to be a prominent citizen of Ashland. On him was found one full bottle of vanilla extract and an empty bottle of the same fluid.

Adair was finally huddled into the assistant prosecutor's car and hurried over to Justice Roe's court at Jacksonville. En route he juggled a hand full of $20 gold pieces and ever and anon proudly proclaimed that he was going to court to get a light fine.

MANN'S STORE HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Another birthday for Mann's big department store has rolled around and John C. Mann is celebrating with a great anniversary sale this month. In fifteen years Mann's store has grown from a small establishment to a great organization, handling everything from men's and boys' wear to women's wear and millinery and employing 40 people. The store now occupies two floors of the building at Central and Main street and has entrances on both Main and North Central street.

John C. Mann, owner and manager of the store is active in Medford civic and church activities and prominent in business circles here. His success has been remarkable and his present store stands as a tribute to his ability as a merchant and business man. He is actively assisted by John Moffatt in the women's department and Charles Campbell in the men's section. According to the records of Mann's store 112,556 customers bought merchandise at this store during the 1925 season, which evidences the popularity of this big department store in southern Oregon. One of the features of the birthday celebration is a giant birthday cake.

COMMUNICATIONS

Chamber of Commerce Delighted. To the Editor:

It is gratifying in the extreme to be able to congratulate the city of Medford on its wonderful response in this, its latest step, which I believe to be the initial one in the progressive movement for a greater city.

An overwhelming majority has fallen in step with the spirit of progression and nothing short of a national calamity, and it is a debatable question at that, can materially change this.

If we build only for the present and consider too seriously the problems of the past, we woefully lack the vision for the future and cease to be the inspiration to the generations to follow.

Had we any less resources we might set our sails a bit closer to the winds, but with the fullness of the orchard, the forests, the grain fields, the stock ranges and the various natural bounties, the picturesqueness and the beauties of the climate, give us the utmost confidence.

We are glad to have had a part in this, our latest step in the building of a greater and better city.

ROBERT W. CLANCY.
 Pres., Chamber of Commerce.

The Stage

Of the many meritorious attractions that have appeared in Medford for years past, probably the most genuinely all around pleasing one was the famous American comedy "Lightnin'" with Thomas Jefferson in the title role, which so charmed a capacity audience at the Craterian theater last night with its wholesome cleanliness, clever plot, lines and humor, never flagging interest and general excellence.

The appealing, lovable old character, "Lightnin' Bill Jones," around whom the story revolves, as played by Thomas Jefferson, with his magnetic personality, will long live in local memory. Mrs. Frank Bacon and Miss Bessie Bacon, widow and daughter of the author of the comedy, who for years until his death was its star, also contributed greatly to the success of the play, especially the daughter in her eccentric comedy character.

Mr. Jefferson responded with a neat curtain call speech at the end of the third act.
