

MADDEN CLAIMS CRIMINAL WASTE ARMY AND NAVY

Chairman of Appropriations Committee Declares Millions Are Being Squandered in Air Service — Drastic Reforms in Method Demanded

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(A. P.) The army and navy were charged today by Chairman Madden of the house appropriations committee with squandering millions of dollars in a "purposeless, meaningless, endless experimental orgy" in technical aircraft development.

Testifying before the president's air board which resumed hearings after a recess of several days, Mr. Madden declared technical development of aviation could no longer be "safely left" to the military services if the United States was to take its place "among the countries of the world in the air."

"If credit is to be given witnesses who have preceded me," he asserted, "the experimental and development work conducted by the army and navy since the war has been productive of very little, if any advance, toward a plan which might be accepted by congress."

Citing testimony by Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, that 262 pursuit planes, purchased by the army had been found deficient in vision requirements, Mr. Madden said he had "heard some thing of a charge of criminal negligence, but that borders on criminal waste."

"Think of buying 262 pursuit planes that a pilot had difficulty of seeing out of!" he exclaimed.

Failure of the army and navy to spend their money "intelligently" in the air service, he declared is not "unique," as similar extravagant development get-nowhere programs are being carried on in tank development, artillery development and the chemical warfare departments.

Mr. Madden submitted a plan for developing the army aviation at a cost of $87,500,000, which among other things, would provide for discontinuance of all aeronautical engineering and design work by the two military services with the abolition of the naval aircraft at Philadelphia and the army engineering aircraft development. He would place the designing and construction of the planes in the hands of private manufacturers with the responsibility of performance and design and with the military services furnishing only the specifications desired.

Mr. Madden suggested the following program:

"Fifteen hundred new airplanes of various designs at $20,000 each, could be purchased annually, amounting in the aggregate to $30,000,000. Ten ground service men for each airplane, which is more than ample to properly care for the airplanes, at $1,000 each, per enlisted man, which I think would be a fair average to cover his army pay, his clothing, subsistence, would cost $22,500,000.

"Fifteen hundred officers, or one officer for each of the 1,500 airplanes, would cost approximately $7,500,000.

"If these airplanes are each flown 300 hours a year that would be an approximate mileage flown of 450,000,000, many times the mileage of these past years, a liberal estimate to the cost of maintaining them and their power plants could not exceed 50 cents per mile, the labor having been provided for in the enlisted man estimate; or a total of $22,500,000.

"Five million dollars would be a liberal estimate for the maintenance of all the flying fields necessary as bases of operation for these 1,500 planes.

"A total of $87,500,000 as against $85,000,000 now being expended for which we have received nothing."

PIRATES WIN FIFTH GAME

Men Coming Back To Churches, But Women Go Astray

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(A. P.)—The modern man is on his way back to the altar of worship, but the modern woman is dally going more astray, Cardinal Hayes believes.

"We are gravely disturbed about our good women, especially our young women. Within a short time there has been a radical upset of principles that has eaten into the very home and desecrated the fireside. The church is praying most earnestly that our good women may be saved from the disaster that is impending," he declared yesterday.

"Alongside of that there is the most promising sign of the time, and that is that the men are coming back to the altars."

STRAWBERRIES ARE SHOWN BY TUMALO PROJECT CENTERS

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 12.—Ten farmers of the Tumalo irrigation project in central Oregon were guests of the members' forum of the chamber of commerce today. They brought with them fresh strawberries, cream, potatoes, lettuce and honey products of their farms, which were served to the business men as a demonstration of what can be raised on the lands of the project which the land settlement department of the chamber is aiding in settling.

Manager Arthur Foster of the land settlement department of the chamber told of the Tumalo project and the success the settlers are achieving. He said the chamber is launching on a campaign to aid in the settlement of the project.

He introduced the farmers who had contributed to the luncheon.

The Favored Four—Already Chosen by Tens of Thousands!

Bearing the same standards of surpassing value which characterize its companion car, the famous Chrysler Six; built by the same skilled Chrysler craftsmanshp and of the same high quality of alloy steels; of the same distinctive beauty of color and line—little wonder that the new Chrysler Four is sweeping the country.

Literally sweeping the country, for Chrysler production has been forced by public demand to the great total of more than 800 cars per day.

Tens of thousands of new owners have chosen the Chrysler Four in the four months since its announcement in comparison with both fours and sixes of equal or greater price.

So velvety smooth is its power flow even at the lower speeds, so lightning-like its effortless acceleration, so free from resonance and any sense of vibration, that the Chrysler Four is acclaimed as the ultimate development of the four-cylinder principle.

To ride in this car is to want it. We are eager to have you see it—ride in it—drive it! Let your own eyes tell you of its beauty. Test its supreme performance and its inviting comfort.
