$105,000,000 SPENT ON THE COAST BY TOURISTS IN 1925

Inducing thousands more of tourists to travel over the Pacific Highway is the purpose of the Pacific Highway association and the Pacific Coast Travel magazine, as explained last night at the meeting of the Medford Merchants' association by Capt. Harry L. Wells, editor of the magazine.

According to the government figures there were over 174,000 visitors to Rainier National park this year," said Capt. Wells. "The Automobile club of Southern California estimates a total in excess of 100,000 machines entering Southern California this year, with 400,000 people. It also estimates that each machine remains on the coast—chiefly in southern California—70 days and spends an average of $10 a day. This makes 7,000,000 days, or a total of $70,000,000 spent by them on the coast somewhere. Other machines enter California by Nevada gateways and still others come into Oregon and Washington. Estimating these at half as many, it gives us a total of $105,000,000 spent by the eastern tourists along the Pacific coast this year, and more in prospect for next year.

"The purpose of the Pacific Highway association is to get as much of this money as possible expended in the towns lying along this greatest of all highways. We propose to do this by reaching these tourists with the highest grades of pictorial literature. I am on my way north now gathering data and selecting photographs for the preparation of a fine illustrated booklet in folder form of the entire highway from Canada to Mexico. We have established centers of distribution of our literature at both end sof the line and also in between. When this booklet is ready we propose that not a single car entering any of the Pacific coast states shall miss receiving one. We propose to sell them a trip over this highway from north to south or south to north before they plan any other way to spend their time.

Our magazine issues 25,000 copies every month. The issue just off the press, copies of which will be in Medford tomorrow at the Chamber of Commerce, contains a description of the entire highway and a large number of pictures of scenes along the route. It also has a story of Mount Shasta. The next number will have a story and pictures of Crater lake as reached from Medford. These magazines all go into the hands of actual travelers.

"Our main office for reaching the hundreds of thousands of visitors in lower California is in the Chamber of Commerce building in Los Angeles. We expect to send north many thousands of tourists who have had no idea of taking this wonderful trip, and to sent them all through Medford."

Capt. Wells went into the details of publicity work of the association quite fully and showed the actual cash value to every town of the tourists travel passing through it. He left this morning for the north and expects to address business organizations in all the chief towns of Oregon and Washington. He speaks before the Portland Chamber of Commerce next Monday.

An interesting incident occurred yesterday at the Kiwanis lunch which he attended. C. C. Wells, deputy United States marshal, was in attendance. Twenty-six years ago he was a member of the company of the Oregon regiment commanded by Capt. Wells in the Philippines, and they had not met since. Although of the same name they are not relatives. Mrs. Wells is with Capt. Wells on this trip.

A Scoutmaster's training school is being organized for the purpose of giving those interested in the Boy Scout program an opportunity to learn the ne wmethods of training for boys of twelve years or over. The first meeting will be held October 22. special effort will be made to enlist men qualified for boys' leaders with the idea of forming new troops in the city and giving them proper leadership.

The next Court of Honor will be held October 29th, all Scouts who have prepared for advancement during the summer will be reviewed and awards presented at that time to those who pass the requirements. A large number are expected to try for advancement in rank at that time.

Boy Scouts of Troop No. 1, Wallace, Idaho, have taken over two claims in the Coeur d'Alene mining district and will form what is known as the Lucky Scout Mining company. The directors and officers of the company will be Scouts, the improvement work and all developing of the mine will be done by members of the troop. This is one of the most novel projects so far attempted in the Scout organization, and will if successful, lead other Scout troops in other sections to dig for wealth and knowledge of things under the earth.

The joint meeting of the Boy Scout troops of Medford, held October 3rd, in the First Methodist church, was such a success that it has been decided to make a joint meeting a monthly event, the next one to be November 6th, in the Recreation hall of the First Methodist church, a number of inter-troop contests will be a part of the program, no troop will know in advance the nature of this contest, only that the events will be based on Scout requirements.

This will be the first of a series of contests to be held at these monthly meetings, the total scores of each troop will be added to the score obtained at a quarterly inspection and a prize awarded to the troop which wins. The prize will be of such a nature that it will not become the permanent property of any troop until won twice in succession. Further details will be announced at the regular meetings.

At Hunt's Craterian.

"Kiss Me Again," closes at Hunt's Craterian tonight.

It is a delightful, vivacious comedy that deals, rather unusually, with the marital experiences of Marie Prevost and Monte Blue in their roles of Loulou and Gaston Fleury. Marie, incurably flirtatious, finds that the noted musician, Ferriere, as played by John Roche is a marvelous tonic for the boredom of marriage, and when Monte discovers her preference for the pianist, he very cooly offers her her freedom to pursue Cupid according to her own desires. But naughtiness isn't so thrilling when it is accepted so complacently, and Loulou's flighty heart is soon consumed by jealousy and suspicion as to Gaston's activities in the field of romance.

House Peters at Rialto.

In his latest starring vehicle, "Headwinds," at the Rialto today, House Peters as a wealthy yachtsman brings to the screen a brand new idea of a lover and of love.

Love is perhaps the oldest theme in existence and has been exploited by everybody in every walk of life since the beginning of the world. Yet, withal, "Headwinds" deals with an old theme from, if not exactly new, an extremely entertaining point of view.

Peters is surrounded by an unusually strong cast, including Patsy Ruth Miller, who plays the leading feminine role, Arthur Hoyt, William Austin, Richard Travers, Lydia Yeamans Titus Togo Yamamato, George Kuwa and K. Nambu.

A Spats family comedy, an International News and Bertrand Wortman Ne additional features on the bill.

BIG BUTTE SHEEP, CATTLE WAR IS AIRED IN COURT

The suit of the Big Butte Horse and Cattle association against Alex Anderson, which has been hanging fire in the circuit court for two years, was heard before Circuit Judge Charles M. Thomas Monday. The right of Anderson to graze sheep on a cattle range is the issue. The defendant is alleged to have grazed sheep on a strip of spring range. The association contested his right, and took it to court in 1923.

Testimony was introduced to show that range over which sheep graze is thereafter unsuitable to cattle grazing, because the sheep eat the grass so close to the ground the cows cannot get hold of it. The inherited aversion of cattle to graze where sheep have roamed was also brought out. The land in controversy first was used as a range in 1870.

Practically all of the leading cattlemen of the Butte Creek district were in attendance as witnesses and spectators, and there is considerable interest in the outcome of the case in the eastern portion of the county.

Don R. Newbury appeared as counsel for the defense, and Reames and Reames for the plaintiffs.

All the county offices were closed Monday, on account of Columbus day.
