NEW SHOW TODAY

The sweetest and loveliest of heroines, entangled in the deviltries of old Florence in the days when this most beautiful and wicked of cities shuddered under the plots, the revolts and treacheries of cut-throat adventurers.

A SPECIAL MUSIC SCORE
Arranged by RAYMOND BALLARD
CRATERIAN MASTER ORGANIST

Read what BOB SWAYZE, Motion Picture Critic of THE OREGON DAILY JOURNAL of Portland, says:

The picture "Romola" at the Columbia theater this week is unquestionably one of the screen's most distinctive achievements. With all sincerity of purpose I place it beside "The Covered Wagon," "The Ten Commandments," "The Thief of Bagdad," and other pictorial masterpieces. And I give it one other credit—the acting in it surpasses any other acting I have ever seen on the screen. Nor have I glimpsed more beauty, more tragedy, more pathos, more thrills blended in one film. In it is enough material to make a whole dozen of ordinary program pictures.

But my advice to you is to see "Romola," unless you wish to miss one of the great pictures of the cinema.
