

EXPERIMENTS IN SLEEPING MADE BY PROFESSORS

PITTSBURG, Nov. 7.—(A. P.)—Pittsburg has twelve "experimental sleepers," who nightly, while resting in the arms of Morpheus, are aiding scientists in tests which are expected to make this world a better place in which to sleep.

A technical study of the psychology of sleep is being made by scientists of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research and a dozen boys, students at the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Institute of Technology are the "subjects." Dr. H. M. Johnson, noted for his scientific work and formerly of the faculty of Ohio State University, is in charge of the work.

The twelve boys sleep in specially constructed beds, mounted on gimbals which permit of easy lateral motion in the two horizontal planes, in opposition to the tension of light springs, and to each bed is attached a recording apparatus which indicates every change of posture, both as to time and extent. The recording apparatus attached to each of the experimental beds will chronicle the degree and time of movements of the sleeper, which will indicate periods where there is not complete relaxation.

The experiments will be made after a sufficient number of "readings" are obtained, to give a working basis, using various types of beds and bedding in an effort to find the most desirable and sleep-inducing condition.

Using the standards obtained as to the rate or depth of sleep, it will be a matter of record taking, the scientists say, to determine the relationship between sleep under one condition or another, under certain types of bedding and in certain types of beds, under degrees of fatigue and other problems.

The scientists will be aided in their work by the chronoscope, an instrument invented by Dr. Johnson, which records such conditions as mental alertness and the determination of fatigue or efficiency.

STANDARD OIL WILL AID AIR MAIL

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—(A. P.)—The Standard Oil company announced today that selections will be made within the next few days of the towns in which the company buildings are to be marked for the guidance of airplane pilots in the scheme worked out by the company and the United States army for better developed airways.

Towns along the present air routes from San Diego to Seattle which the company has buildings suitable for the guide sign purposes will be selected.

The company is working in cooperation with the army air service in marking the routes. The guide signs will be the name of the town painted on the roof of the building. A large number of the company's big warehouses are available for the purpose.

LT. WOOD WILL NOT FIGHT DIVORCE

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 7.—(A. P.)—After a conference today between counsel for Lieutenant Leonard C. Wood, son of Major General Leonard Wood, and for Mrs. Katherine W. T. Wood, it was announced that the lieutenant would not contest the divorce action brought by his wife. It was said amicable arrangements regarding the custody of the children, opportunities for Lieutenant Wood seeing them and other points at issue were agreed upon. The details are to be worked out later.

Lieutenant Wood, who came here last night, returned to New York.

REVERENCE INSTEAD OF REVELRY, WINS

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(A. P.)—In deference to the popular outcry the great ball arranged for Armistice night in Albert hall has been postponed and the hall will be used instead for a religious commemoration service.

A controversy has been raging for the last few days over the propriety of celebrating the armistice anniversary with revelry.

Consequently the ball has been deferred until November 12 and the Prince of Wales has indicated his intention of attending, which he declined to do if it were held armistice night.

Notice to Contractors.

Notice is hereby given that the City Planning Commission will hold a hearing on Monday, November 9th, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock p. m. in the city hall on the petition of the city council to consider the reclassification of a portion of the following street from a Residence District Class I to a Business District Class III:

A portion of North Riverside avenue between Jackson and Maple streets.

WISCONSIN WINS HOLSTEIN PRIZES LIVESTOCK SHOW

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 7.—(A. P.)—Two of the big Holstein trophies of the Pacific International Livestock exposition were awarded recently.

The Segia Matador Walker trophy cup for the best breeders' young herd of Holsteins, offered by the Carnation farms of Seattle, was carried away by the Pabst-Holstein farm of Oconomowoc, Wis.

This cup was twice won by John L. Smith of Spokane, once by the Hollywood farm of Seattle and once by the Jefferson county asylum farm, Wisconsin, and the winning by the Pabst-Holstein takes it away from the northwest for a second time.

Pabst-Holstein also carried away this morning the John L. Smith silver tea set trophy for the best Holstein produce of dam bred by the exhibitor.

This $1000 trophy was presented in 1921 by the eastern delegation of Holstein fanciers, which visited the exposition, with the stipulation that after three winnings by one exhibitor it should become his permanent property.

John L. Smith made his third winning on the trophy last year and this year hunk the trophy up once more as a permanent annual award.

The beef stock, sheep and pigs from the boys' and girls' club exhibits were sold at auction today.

COMEDIAN TINNEY DRINKING HEAVILY

MINNEOLA, Ill., Nov. 7.—(A. P.)—Mrs. Edna Davenport Tinney's divorce suit against her husband, Frank Tinney, comedian, was heard today by Supreme Court Justice Riegelman. Decision was reserved.

George A. Hopkins, counsel for Tinney, in opposing Mrs. Tinney's application for alimony of $750 a week said the comedian, who is now in London, had been without a job for three months because of his drinking. This made it impossible for him to pay such alimony, the lawyer said. He told the court that Tinney formerly made $2500 a week appearing in London music halls and night clubs.

Hopkins made no answer to the statutory charges on which Mrs. Tinney based her divorce suit. Imogene Wilson, chorus girl, was named as co-respondent.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO PARDON GIRL

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 7.—(A. P.)—Governor Friend W. Richardson indicated in a letter made public today that at present he would not pardon Miss Charlotte A. Whitney, social service worker, whose conviction of violating the criminal syndicalism law has just been upheld by the United States supreme court.

The letter was written to Upton Sinclair, the author, who had requested executive clemency in behalf of Miss Whitney. The governor asserted that he would uphold the syndicalism law as impartially as other laws. Miss Whitney was found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for membership in the communist party.

Since the supreme court declined to interfere, many petitions for pardon have been presented by organizations and individuals.

BURTON K. MOVES TO DISMISS CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(A. P.)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, democrat, Montana, prosecutor in the senate Daugherty investigation, asked the District of Columbia supreme court to dismiss indictments charging him with conspiracy to defraud the federal government in connection with oil prospecting permits in his home state.

Two principal grounds for the motion were advanced: That the senator was acquitted by a jury in the federal courts in Montana on a charge based on identical allegations of facts, and that the District of Columbia courts have no jurisdiction over the offense charged or sought to be charged. The plea of former acquittal and the demurrer alleging lack of jurisdiction probably will be argued the latter part of this month.

BIGAMIST DESTROYS MARRIAGE LICENSES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—(A. P.)—District attorney's investigators today were on the trail of a bigamist anxious to destroy all record of his or her superfluous marriages. The only clue to his or her identity is the mysterious removal, noted yesterday, of several pages of names from the marriage license records of both the county clerk's and county recorder's office. Whoever stole the pages appeared to be interested particularly in the names beginning with "W" and with "M."

Dame Clara Butt and her domestic decalogue.

(By Central Press)

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Successful marriages are a matter of observing a few simple rules, says Dame Clara Butt, world famous British contralto, who is receiving felicitations of admirers all over the world on her silver wedding anniversary.

"There are many pitfalls in the matrimonial path to escape, but a few warning notices, well observed, will usually suffice to keep either party in the marriage bond from stumbling into them and making a wreck of what ought to be an ideal union."

She gives these as her 10 commandments for married happiness:

1—Love Each Other.

Without love, first, last and always, little clouds become prospective thunderstorms, molehills of misunderstanding become mountains of suspicion. Things that love would laugh away become the occasion of tears, miseries and perhaps eventual parting.

2—Bear and Forbear.

The wife who bristles quickly, who says bitter things at a moment's notice, is looking for trouble. Each must bear with the fads, peculiarities, prejudices and moods of the other and forbear paying the other back in the same coin. True is the old saying that a kiss for a blow—though the blow may never be physical—will dissolve in mutual laughter and good comradeship many an incipient quarrel.

3—Trust One Another.

I think it is Tennyson who says: "Trust me all in all, or trust me not at all," and certainly nothing lowers the tone of married life so quickly as suspicion. It is even calculated to bring about the very thing it seeks to prevent, for unjust suspicion may lead the constantly suspected but quite innocent victim to try to deserve it.

4—Pull Together.

This is important, especially when the watchful eye and quick ears of children are looking on and listening. The opposition of will and endeavor and character hinders the progress of home life, and all that makes it happy and restful. The inability or refusal—and it is generally the latter—to see eye to eye has ruined many a promising marriage.

5—Give and Take.

Marriage, even at its best, is a compromise, a nice balancing of disposition and aptitude, and even of prejudice. The man or woman who is disposed to take a maximum and give a minimum knows nothing of love in its highest meaning, for the essence of love is always giving. When there is a competition between husband and wife to give everything and take nothing, the zenith of married happiness is well in sight.

6—Don't Criticize.

I wonder if husbands are more prone to the critical spirit than wives? In any case, few wives can stand it. The trouble is that the more they love the more they take critical remarks to heart. There may be ground for them, but the blunt edge of criticism is a weapon to avoid, especially if it be sharpened with sarcasm.

7—Don't Be Superior.

Clever men often marry their intellectual inferiors, but the man who is foolish enough to assert his superiority is making a big mistake. No woman will stand it long. On the other hand, if the wife's little ignorance and limitations begin to jar on the "superior" husband, the way to trouble is even shorter and surer.

8—Don't Expect Too Much.

The man who thinks he has married an "angel" is disgruntled and disappointed when he finds eventually that he has married only a woman. The woman who imagines she has espoused a demigod is equally doomed to disillusionment.

9—Thou Shalt Have a Sense of Humor.

Humor has been called the salt of life, and it is well for married couples who have to live that life in the closest relationship known on earth, to use big pinches of it every day. Try to see the funny side of things and laugh together.

10—Love Yourself Last.

Self-love is inimical to mutual love, the love that sacrifices, the love that gives. The Bible says: "Love vaunteth not itself; is not puffed up." The woman who thinks first of her own pleasure, leisure, convenience, comfort, without a asking herself whether it spells the opposite for her husband, is only in love with herself. Similarly, the man who imagines that he can act like a bachelor, although he has a wife, is in love with himself. People who are in love with themselves are never in love with each other.

Ralph Simon of the North Pole Mine at Rogue River visited Grants Pass Wednesday and reported that work of rehabilitating the property was going ahead satisfactorily.

CRATER L. FOREST RECEIVES $43,753 FROM UNCLE SAM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Oregon is due to receive $168,804.20 as her share of receipts from national forests within her boundaries during 1925, according to a tabulation received today by Representative Simpson from E. A. Sherman, acting chief forester.

The sums allotted in the several forests in the state are as follows: Cascade, $14,236.29; Crater, $43,753.25; Deschutes, $16,781.76; Fremont, $52,912.92; Malheur, $6127.60; Ochoco, $4344.44; Siskiyou, $1488.03; Umatilla, $5515.84; Wallowa, $14,465.84; Klamath, $16.28; Mt. Hood, $5576.01; Santiam, $5430.11; Siuslaw, $2990.06; Umpqua, $553.17; Whitman, $42,214.20.

A percentage of the full amount will be distributed among the counties in which the forests are located.

MINING NEWS OF SOUTHWESTERN OREGON

Edited by Southwestern Oregon Mining Bureau.

GRANTS PASS, Nov. 6.—The past few weeks have seen further advances in the market prices of leading mining and smelting shares. The mining boom is growing and every section of the Rocky Mountain country is feeling the beneficial effects that come from increased ore shipments to smelter and mill cash disbursements to merchant and miner and dividends to stockholders. Lead, silver, copper and zinc are growing in demand and high prices are predicted for the fall and winter. New properties are starting up in all sections of the West and the predicted mining boom is now a reality.

Too Many Laws.

The more laws that are passed the less effective will they become. Truth is the middle ground, the no man's land where so few men ever venture. Law is good. Too little law is bad; too much law is bad. A sensible amount of law is just right. In America we have altogether too much law, and illustrations cited are merely examples of what obtains in a dozen other departments of endeavor. The Prospector, in Mining Topics.

Community Mining in California.

The once celebrated Hangtown, now Placerville, is again destined to make mining history. For years not a mine was operated at Placerville and it seemed impossible to arouse outside interest. Then the businessmen of the place dug down into their own pockets, acquired a promising property on Poverty Point and developed a body of good milling ore. Today a 10 stamp mill is grinding merrily, and what is more to the point, profitably. As a result of the enterprise of Placerville citizens it is understood that outside capital has become interested in the development of several properties that have been closed for years.

Inquiry for Ore.

The Bureau has inquiry for chrome, antimony, lead and zinc ores. Further information can be had by writing or calling Bureau headquarters.

Mining Meeting Saturday.

Next Saturday the regular monthly meeting of the Mining Bureau will be held at 511 H. street, and it is hoped that a full attendance will be had. The question of sending delegates and a mineral exhibit to the Northwest Mining Association's convention at Spokane on November 30th to December 6th, will be brought up for discussion. A mineral exhibit at this convention at this time to mining engineers from all over the Pacific Coast may have opportunity to see our ores will be of great value to the industry here. Another question that will come up providing delegates are sent to the convention is that of making a bid to have the 1926 convention held in Southwestern Oregon. These are questions that all mining men are interested in and it will be squarely up to them to decide whether such action shall be taken or not. Another feature of the meeting will be a talk by Mr. Butler of the United States Bureau of Mines. Every member should arrange to attend and every member who attends is asked to bring some other man interested in mining.

Prospecting for Dredging.

The Shirley Holding Company of New York, operating in the Pleasant Creek under the name of Shibly Mining Company with R. C. Demster manager in charge, are drilling a large tract of land on Pleasant Creek about ten miles north of Rogue River in their search for suitable dredging ground.
