

2 INJURED WHEN MOTOR BUS HIT BY TOURING CAR

Four auto accidents, occurring in the city and on the Pacific highway, were reported today and yesterday with two people injured as results of the crashes.

ONLY 56 VOTED FOR SCHOOL TAX, ALL IN FAVOR

The school election held in Medford yesterday on the question of increasing the school tax of the city more than 5 per cent above that of 1924 and approving the budget, was a record breaking one. Only 56 votes were cast, and every one of them was in favor of the above.

Ashland Woman's Will Is Filed in Probate

The will of Mrs. Clara Deisman, well known Ashland woman, was filed for probate in the circuit court Tuesday. It is directed that $500 be paid to the trustees of the Catholic church in the town in which I reside, and that after all debts are paid, the balance of the estate be converted into cash and divided share and share alike between four sons and four daughters. No value is placed on the estate. The will was made April 3, 1916.

UNCLE SUPPORTS STORY

Subsequent to Foley's visit, he continued, "Foley and the secretary of the navy seized upon the first opportunity they could to impeach Mrs. Lansdowne's testimony before this court."

The witness said they had "dug up" Commander Lansdowne's posthumous article in the Saturday Evening Post for that purpose and that Mrs. Lansdowne's action in telling about the celebrated statement prepared for her by Foley was in "retaliation."

Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, president of the court, demanded of Dr. Mason if he had any facts or witnesses to support his suggestion that Foley was sent to Mrs. Lansdowne by Secretary Wilbur.

"No facts other than what I have given," Dr. Mason replied. "Any witnesses?" "None."

Dr. Mason's wife, Agnes Kennedy Mason, corroborated what her husband had said concerning the interview between Foley and Mrs. Lansdowne.

Asked if she thought there was anything improper in Foley's call, Mrs. Mason said: "Yes, I thought it very queer that the judge advocate should call. I thought the manner in which he tried to impress her that she had to tell the truth and nothing but the truth was most insinuating. Also I thought his injunction to her not to say this was a political flight was significant."

Mrs. Mason said that it was an argument between Foley and Mrs. Lansdowne as to whether the Shenandoah flight was a political one.

"She said it was a political flight," the witness said. "He replied: 'Mrs. Lansdowne, you must not say that was a political flight.'"

Mrs. Mason was insistent that Foley had sought to sway Mrs. Lansdowne's testimony on the point of a political flight.

Mrs. Foley Testifies. Mrs. Foley, the wife of Captain Foley, in giving her account of the interview, quoted Mrs. Lansdowne as saying: "I feel rather foolish in appearing because everything I intended to say has been put in the court record."

Mrs. Lansdowne, she said, seemed eager to have aid and advice. Foley told Mrs. Lansdowne at the outset, Mrs. Foley said, that the court was composed of five men who did not want to embarrass or harass her, but to "make it easy" for her.

Mrs. Lansdowne did protest vehemently that this was a political flight, Mrs. Foley said.

PLANING MILL IS ROBBED OF CASH, POLICE PUZZLED

Cash amounting to $12.50 was stolen last night from the Medford Planing Mill at the corner of Fir and Eleventh streets when thieves forced their way into the office and took all available cash from an open safe. No clues were left behind.

Entrances according to the officers were made through the rear. The inside office door was then forced open. Shortly after a year ago the mill experienced a similar robbery, but at that time the safe was locked and was badly damaged by the burglars. As a matter of accommodation the safe had been left unlocked since then, according to the police, to save further damage should burglars pay a visit.

Last night's affair makes the fifth robbery within three weeks and police are somewhat puzzled over the situation. They have taken precautions to allow no suspicious appearing vagrants to remain in the city and have sent many out of town. Police believe, however, they make their way back into the city in the dead of night, and climb aboard some out-bound freight after their jobs are done.

LINER BURNS AT SEA

(Continued from page one.) to the Beebe hospital here. Three or four others also were treated and left. Those in the hospital were suffering from exposure and bruises.

Two members of the crew were burned about the feet and two others of the crew suffered broken ankles fighting the flames. They are in a hospital here.

Rescue Well Managed. According to passengers and members of the crew, there was no undue excitement and the transfer of all hands from the burning vessel to rescue ships was accomplished as smoothly as circumstances would permit.

There were many women and children among the passengers who left the blazing vessel in the dark hours before dawn recently clad. Some were in only their nightclothes. All wore life preservers until they were landed. Hotel accommodations here were inadequate to care for survivors and the Presbyterian church was thrown open for the comfort of the men, women and children, many of whom were suffering from the cold. Townspeople were aroused and soon hot coffee, sandwiches and other food was rushed to the assembly hall of the church and everybody made as comfortable as possible.

Survivors Cared for. Arrangements were made to take all survivors north on a special train to Wilmington, Del., where those who desire will be transferred to a special train of sleepers and sent south. Others will be taken back to New York.

The fire started about 10:45 last night while the ship was off Atlantic City. The night was clear and cold, the sea calm. The blaze started in the aft hole and was instantly fought by members of the crew. About 11 p. m. some of the passengers noticed smoke and their anxious inquiries brought assurance from Captain Devereaux and his staff that there was no danger.

However, the flames continued to spread and the smoke became more noticeable. Many of the passengers left their cabins. At 11:45, according to some of the passengers, the vessel's whistle was blown and all hands were advised to come on deck. All were reassured there was no serious danger. Previously, at 11:18 Captain Devereaux sent out an S. O. S. message. There was immediate response and he found that the nearest ship to him was 20 miles away and the next 40 miles.

By this time the Lenape was abreast of Cape May and Captain Devereaux decided he could make the Delaware breaker on the Delaware side of the bay. The ship was met by the steam pilot boat Philadelphia, the coast guard cutter Kickapoo and coast guard boats from Cold Spring harbor, New Jersey and Lewis. Captain Devereaux called for a pilot and one was taken aboard from the Philadelphia.

Flames Burst Out. The Lenape with little fire showing but with great volumes of smoke pouring from her hold, anchored two miles off the Delaware shore. Shortly after she hove too, the flames burst out anew, sweeping the ship from stem to stern. The revenue cutter Kickapoo, which followed the Lenape into the breaker, a coast guard patrol boat from the Lewis station, and several small craft which had trailed the burning vessel for several miles, immediately dashed for her sides.

With a strong wind whipping the flames over the liner's stern, passengers could be discerned from shore dropping over the sides and sliding down ropes into the water. The crew of a pilot sailboat, the only craft able to reach the deck before daylight, told of a heroic battle amid the flames on the Lenape's deck when the rescue craft came alongside. The crew swarmed over the Clyde liner's smoking rails, fought their way to passengers who had been cut off in the interior of the ship and dragged them to the sides. Lines were attached to them and they were ordered to jump. From shore they could be discerned dangling over the water as the lifeboats and other craft ran up under the Lenape's blazing stern to pick the men.

Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Discoverer Tells Druggist Not to Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless All-Rheum Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRHU, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed Health's Drug Store and druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRHU with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. adv.
