

CAPTAIN FOLEY FLATLY DENIES WIDOW'S STORY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(A. P.)—Denying that he had sought to influence the testimony Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne gave before the Shenandoah court of inquiry last month, Captain Paul Foley testified today before that body that the statement he sent to her "contained nothing that Mrs. Lansdowne had not said to me in the presence of three witnesses."

The statement, prepared for her consideration, he added, was in a form that would make necessary her cross-examination before the court and "with a view to leaving Mrs. Lansdowne in a dignified position."

The widow of the former captain of the Shenandoah declared before the Mitchell court martial last week that part of the statement was "false" and was "an insult" to the memory of her husband.

Captain Foley repeated to the naval court the statement from his memory as follows: "Immediately subsequent to the loss of the U. S. S. Shenandoah, I felt it my duty to say for my husband things which he was no longer in a position to say for himself; that he was opposed to sending the Shenandoah on the mid-western flight during the thunder storm period and had protested so going to the navy department. My husband regarded the Shenandoah as a man-of-war. He was ready at all times to take the ship out for military maneuvers but was opposed to using her for non-military duty."

"Had I known at the time I accepted the invitation of the court to appear before it that the correspondence in this case would be introduced in the record of the court, as it since has, I would not have accepted the invitation of the court to appear."

"As things now are I am not only willing, but would prefer to leave the entire matter to the judgment of the court in which I have every confidence."

Captain Foley said that only a single typewritten copy of the statement was made "as the matter was personal to Mrs. Lansdowne," and that for the same reason the notes from which the statement was typed were destroyed immediately afterward.

Mrs. Lansdowne testified before the Mitchell court that she destroyed the copy sent to her.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(A. P.)—The Shenandoah court of inquiry today concluded its investigation of the charges of Mrs. Margaret Lansdowne and will announce its opinion regarding them tomorrow.

It listened to a statement by Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl, senior surviving officer of the wrecked dirigible, denouncing as a slander of the dead any insinuation that Commander Lansdowne took the Shenandoah on her fatal flight when he believed her in jeopardy from the weather.

The statement of Rosendahl placed unexpectedly before the court just as it was preparing to adjourn, sustained until the end the nervous tension that has gripped court and spectators since the hearing began Tuesday morning.

A moment before Foley had left the witness stand with the statement that his whole attitude toward Mrs. Lansdowne as a prospective witness had been that of an "honorable man" who supposed at the time that he was dealing with "an honorable woman."

Rosendahl then told the court that "in the interest of justice it should permit him to speak before it retired to consider the question before it." He was impelled to speak, he said, by insinuations that Commander Lansdowne took the Shenandoah out despite his own belief that weather conditions would jeopardize her safety. He declared such a suggestion not only "reaches the height of absurdity, but slanders the dead."

NO MORE SUNDAY RACES OR SPORTS AT FAIR GROUNDS

The directors of the Jackson County Fair association made their annual report to the county court Wednesday and while the fair showed a deficit this year owing to the rainy, cold weather, all were well pleased with the general conditions of the fair and work has commenced for a bigger and better fair than ever next year, with harness and running races.

BEND WATER BONDS ARE RESTRAINED

BEND, Ore., Nov. 19.—A temporary restraining order was signed yesterday by Circuit Judge T. E. J. Duffy in the case of W. R. Riley against the city of Bend, R. H. Knox, mayor, and Louis Bennett, city recorder, forbidding them to dispose of the $600,000 bond issue for a municipal water project.

The plaintiff contends that the bond issue is illegal because the bonds are of the par value of $600,000, while the charter authorizes no issue greater than for $100,000, because the bonds were sold for less than par and because the bonds were advertised for only 40 days when it should have been 60 days. Perpetual injunction is sought.

ANOTHER GIGANTIC POWER PLANT ON KLAMATH RUMORED

KLAMATH FALLS, Nov. 19.—Just as soon as the title is found to be perfect, the Frain property at Topsy will pass to the ownership of the California Oregon Power company, according to confidential information that has come to the Evening Herald from reliable sources.

The site at Topsy has long been recognized as one of the ideal spots on the entire length of the Klamath river for the placing of one of the hydro-electric plants that will eventually dot this stream from Keno to the ocean.

For two years or more the California Oregon Power company has been purchasing property and making exhaustive investigations in the vicinity of Topsy for the purpose of ascertaining the character of the strata beneath the surface. A diamond drill has been at work for sometime making borings and an exact record has been encountered as excavation work proceeds for the great dam that is to be placed at that point.

This will make the sixth hydro-electric plant that the California Oregon Power company will have on the Klamath river—two in this city, one at Keno and two at Copco.
