

VIVIAN YECK WINS PRIZE FOR ESSAY ON GOOD POSTURE

As a result of the Posture Contest at the Girls' Athletic association...

The prize, which was a gold Everharp, was awarded to Vivian Yeck...

Good Posture. Lumpy, Slumpy, Slanky and Slow...

Just time passed away was what mattered to him.

But his posture was bad from his foot to his head.

Lumpy, as we call him, was short, heavy and fat.

and lacked in his appearance from his toe to his hat.

Slanky is slender, tall, lanky and slim.

and you would think he needed culture training by the looks of him.

Slow is always lagging—anything but fast.

It seems to think his friendship would do anything but last.

These four boys were well brought up and well bred.

and each represented an honorable home, it was said.

Education they had attained in their youth.

but this did not matter as much as their health, to honestly tell the truth.

In their boyhood days they had learned to speak in languages, which ran from Hindoo to Greek.

They had helped write poems which had won them much fame.

and everyone within the country knew them by their nickname.

They each laid a brick on a castle which helped to build it high.

but these boys are so stooped and hollow-chested, that we look at them and sigh.

or what is the use for all this and all that.

Then they look for an honorable position, they are turned down right flat.

That man with a business that is running so fair.

fantas a stooped-shouldered clerk, just filling his chair?

or, even if he is an intelligent lad, round-shouldered figure in an office looks bad.

Humpty, Slumpy, Slanky and Slow.

am sure are glad to know, that their faults, as well as mine, can be bettered in a very short time.

and this I have learned of these four boys so brave.

have taken it upon themselves to live not like a slave.

or now we see them rising early, their exercise for to take.

Humpty, Slumpy, Slanky and Slow, fill still, themselves, worthy make.

their shoulders are growing broader, their lungs breathe more fresh air, their chests are full and strengthened.

and they walk with some degree of air.

to see them entering life anew, or they have learned outright, that seeing a lazy boy or girl, is a slumpy looking sight.

ur looks amount to the most in life, even by them we are judged, and to keep trim and fit is a struggle and strife.

and this, some people have snuggled, now I am sure you will be glad to know.

Humpty, Slumpy, Slanky and Slow, are only are awake, lively and fit, and in this world are willing to do their bit.

TOMORROW! THOMAS MEIGHAN

By F. M. JONES. The S. S. Poague property in this city was recently purchased by Mrs. Sarah Collins, who intends to occupy the place in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Heeson left this week for Portland, where Mrs. Heeson will undergo further treatment for her eyes.

Word was received last Tuesday that Carl O. Persall and his brother, Earl, both of whom will be remembered as having lived in Central Point last summer, had both enlisted in the U. S. navy, and would pass through here Wednesday on their way to San Diego, Calif., to begin training for the life of a "gob."

The Central Point Lumber company has a nice new sign recently completed by H. Fields.

Leon "Doc" Hooper, who returned last week from South Dakota after an absence of several months, states that it was a bit chilly, to say the least, when he left the northern state, and that old Oregon sure looked good to him.

Joseph Johnson, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Johnson, who was operated on for appendicitis in Medford recently is gaining rapidly considering the gravity of his case, and was removed to his home here the fore part of this week.

C. R. "Tood" Richmond, dropped into town last Tuesday evening for a visit with his family and old friends. Mr. Richmond has been employed in Roseburg for some time.

Rev. I. D. Shaw, pastor of the Christian church, delivered at the evening services last Sunday a very impressive and forceful sermon, his subject dealing with the need for reuniting of all churches into one, without any separating wall of doctrine or creed, reestablishing the church on the plane The Master created it nearly two thousand years ago.

The Food Demonstration and Cooking club, which has been conducted by Mrs. L. A. Humphry at the Gateway theater this week was well attended and has proven to be quite interesting as well as instructive according to those who attended.

Basketball training has begun at the Gym and the teams are beginning to show promise of some good work, with the material at his command and his own ability as an athletic coach, H. C. Terrell will no doubt have a bunch of players in the near future of which he and the community can well be proud.

The Screen

At Hunt's Criterion. Constance Talmadge in "Her Sister From Paris," a story of Vienna with all of the Austrian capital's sughtiness set out delicately, is the feature picture at the Hunt's Criterion tomorrow and Tuesday.

Norma Talmadge and Eugene'Brien in a film version of Metuicheon's greatest success, "Gruark," closes at Hunt's Criterion tonight.

Here you find the motion picture of its very best and in its most gorgeous settings and costumes—aborn "sex" an dmandant sentimentality, creft of all that is tawdry and unreal and marked by magnificent acting and direction throughout.

At the Rialto. Thomas Meighan will be seen at Rialto theater tomorrow and wednesday in "The Man Who Found Himself." A strong cast surrounds to star, Virginia Valli, the Morgans rothers, Frank and Ralph; Charles Stevenson, Julia Hoyt, Lynn Fontanne, Hugh Cameron, Victor Moore,orman Trevor, John Harrington and here.

Newsreaper and police crusades throughout the country against fake mediums and crooked clairvoyants recently resulted in Director Tod Browning writing a thrilling film expose of crooks of this variety.

Browning has filmed his story as "The Mystic," now being shown at the Rialto theater, and it is one of the most thrilling crook plays that has ever been flashed on a motion picture screen.
