

SMOKER, ASHLAND ELKS SATURDAY EVE, BIG SUCCESS

ASHLAND, Ore., Nov. 23.—The Elk's annual Thanksgiving smoker was the event of paramount interest on Saturday night. About 300 were in attendance from the southern part of Oregon and northern California points. Those who have attended similar events in previous years declare this the most outstanding and successful of them all. This annual smoker is one of the events which produces funds for the big Christmas program of charities which is fostered each year by the Elk's lodge. The entertainment program included several interesting wrestling bouts. Principals in the ring were Johnny Carson, Jack Crim, Solly Burns of Portland, Harold Reese and Wilbur Harrington. Jim Bowers had charge of the program and has been complimented for the entire success of the affair. A cash supper was a detail of the entertainment of which mention should not be omitted. During the evening a fine davenport and chair were raffled off. Mr. Tinker was the fortunate winner. Dozens of fine turkeys, hams and baskets of groceries were also raffled off and not only furnished much merry-making, but added materially to the Christmas fund.

Miss Nora Ward, Junior III teacher, expects to spend Thanksgiving at the home of her parents at Dorena, Oregon.

The Josephine Foley family and the Aaron Andrews family will be Thanksgiving guests at the home of Mrs. Abbie Thomas of Medford.

A number of Ashland boys and girls who are students at the State University at Eugene, will arrive home on Wednesday to eat the Thanksgiving turkey at the parental board.

Mrs. Grace Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Andrews will be dinner guests on Thanksgiving Day at the D. W. Wheeler home at Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dillard, former residents of Ashland, but now living in Medford, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dodge on Sunday.

The Delphian club holds a monthly chapter meeting at the Civic club house on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. John Cadzow, whose home is on Skidmore street, was the hostess to the Junior high teachers and the special department teachers on Friday evening. In all, there were twelve guests who enjoyed the beautiful dinner that Mrs. Cadzow had prepared, and lingered through the evening for a happy visit.

Mrs. Sadzow's guests were: Misses In Myers, Edna Kennedy, Mildred Crane, Aileen Shephard, Mildred Millon, Clara Anderson, Nell Carter, Nora Ward, Ethel Reid, Gladys Morton, Edna Goheen and Mrs. Edith Good.

The two groups of high school Camp Fire girls gathered at the Model cottage on Thursday and Friday evenings to plan their Thanksgiving and Christmas activities. One troop has adopted a little girl for the holiday season and plan she shall drink deep of the joys of the Christmas story. The other troop has adopted a whole family and are busy with needles and used garments, fashioning necessary clothing and toys for their family. Miss Beryl Jarmon and Mildred Crane are in charge of the two groups.

The Tuesday Commercial Club luncheon will be in the nature of a Thanksgiving home coming when the organizations of the town will sit down together in thankful mood for the blessings that have attended Ashland's growth during the year.

The Kiwanians will be there to tell how the build, the Lithians will blow a few bubbles of thanksgiving, and the Civic Improvement club, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the American Legion, the Ministerial association and all the rest will be there to give an account of their work during the year.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Allen left on Thursday to spend some time in California.

Word has been received from Miss Zipora Blumenfeld and Miss Ethel Wheeler, former high school teachers, that they are greatly enjoying the winter in New York City, where both are students in Columbia University. Miss Wheeler is doing graduate work in English, and Miss Blumenfeld is enrolled in Teacher's college. They are taking advantage of the opportunity to hear the fine stage artists and the best musical talent.

"What Price Glory," Craterian, To-night

INGLEBERG TORRUP AND TOM CHATTERTON

Have you ever wondered what the World was really like?

Have you ever tried to understand the feelings of the men who fought it?

"What Price Glory," at Hunt's Craterian tonight, is such a gripping, genuine picture of the great struggle that it is already famous on both sides of the Atlantic.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(A. P.) Aristide Briand, dubbed "the man of Locarno" since his success at the security conference, is regarded as certain to be called upon by President Doumergue to form a cabinet in succession to the fallen Painleve government.

The foreign minister, who has held the premiership seven times in his lengthy political career, returned to Paris this morning and had two long telephone conversations with M. Doumergue. The opinion is expressed that the president succeeded in convincing him of the patriotic necessity of his acceptance but no official summons to the Elysee palace had been received at the Quai d'Orsay early this afternoon.

M. Briand was suggested as the only man capable of leading France out of the present political and financial jungle.

Some of the foreign ministers' friends say he will not accept under the present conditions. The only alternative to a Briand ministry, they say, is one headed by former Premier Derriot, with the sold left behind it, including socialist participation.

The consensus today was that the second Painleve cabinet fell, like all other French cabinets, during the last two years, a victim of the financial situation rather than of a political maneuver. The press of all political shades adopts a serious attitude regarding the fall of the ministry as secondary in importance to the questions now facing the country.

Premier Painleve in a statement to the newspapermen today repudiated the rumors of an impending coup d'etat which have been circulating throughout the country for the last two weeks.

"Governments fall but the republic stands," he said. "We are still able to watch over her. Keep this in mind and if anyone believes that the moment has come, he is mistaken."

The Craterians have extended a cordial invitation for all members of the Fruitgrowers League to attend a dinner given by them in honor of Senator Robert N. Stanfield scheduled for tomorrow evening, November 24th, at the Hotel Medford. The subject of his address will be "Conservation Without Confiscation," dealing with the vital question of the O. & C. land grant situation.

Senator Stanfield has been of great assistance in establishing with federal aid, the employment office at the Chamber of Commerce building. He is now doing everything within his power towards the permanent continuance of this office. As this was at the request of the Fruit Growers League the members should show their appreciation of what Senator Stanfield has done for us in this and many other matters. Any questions which growers might care to raise will be given consideration at this meeting, as the senator is here in order to find out what we of Oregon desire.

SIMPLICITY MARKS FUNERAL RITES FOR ENGLISH ROYALTY

SANDRINGHAM, England, Nov. 23.—(A. P.) The body of Queen Mother Alexandra lies in a little, dimly lighted church here, where it will be on view until Thursday, so that those who desire may pass by the casket and pay their respects to the beloved woman whom many of them had known or seen in Sandringham. Throughout last night four servants of the royal household watched beside the home-made coffin.

With the purest simplicity the casket was taken over the path which Alexandra was wont to use in going from the palace to the church to offer up her devotions. It was wheeled under the trees by servants, followed by Princess Victoria and Princess Mary of Greece. On arriving at the church it was placed before the altar and over it was thrown as a pall the queen mother's own standard.

No crepe was to be seen inside the little church nor were the candles lighted. A few wreaths, the floral tokens of affection from the members of the royal household were placed here and there about the coffin.

Simplicity also marked the funeral service which was held later. The minister delivered a tribute to Alexandra, but did not preach a sermon. The service was attended by King George and Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales and other royal personages. With them mourned a large number of the regular members of the congregation.

King George went afoot from the palace to the church, taking with him a wreath and cross made of dark-hued violets and white and pink flowers, blossoms, which had been favorites of the queen mother during her lifetime. These floral pieces were the joint tributes of the king and queen.

Constance Talmadge at Craterian. Constance Talmadge is star at "Her Sister from Paris," playing again tomorrow matinee and night, laying off tonight for the legitimate attraction "What Price Glory," in which she plays two parts, one a Viennese wife and the other a Parisian dancer.

There is plenty of fun in the picture, which is well acted. The husband is played by Ronald Colman, and a man to love the sister is done by George K. Arthur.

At the Rialto. "The Man Who Found Himself," closes tonight at the Rialto theater, starring Thomas Meighan. In the famous "iron city" of Sing Sing, Booth Tarkington, the author of the film, made the acquaintance of No. 17,548. His name shall remain forever unknown. From him the noted author obtained a story so dramatic and beautiful with his dreams of a new life, new hopes, that he penned it in a short story which he called "Whispers."

The bright atmosphere of wealthy New York forms the greater part of the background for "A Man of Fashion," which begins a two days' engagement at the Rialto theater tomorrow matinee.

The novel procedure adopted by a clothes-starved girl forms the basis of a most intriguing modern plot. Lew Cody plays opposite the star, and heads a cast in which the names of William Haines and Mary Carr also appear.
