WET FIELD WILL FAVOR OREGON IN CLASH TOMORROW

SEATTLE, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—Nine of University of Washington's first string men will play their last collegiate game when the Huskies clash with the University of Oregon gridmen here Thanksgiving day.

Although Oregon has not won a conference football game this year, the Webfooters have high hopes of spilling the dope to offset a dismal season. Rains during the last few days are admitted in the Webfooters' favor. A heavy field may tend to hold down the score and make Washington's passing and deceptive running game harder to carry through the locals, critics agreed.

Advance ticket sales show the largest Thanksgiving football crowd in Washington's history. Darwin Melenest, student graduate manager, said today. Fifteen thousand pasteboards have been distributed up to last night with prospects of a large sale at the gate before the game.

MAROON STAR IS ALSO PLANNING TO JOIN GRANGE

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—Further inroads into the ranks of college football players may be made by professional football which now boasts of Harold "Red" Grange, Austin "Five-Yards" McCarty, who is to the University of Chicago what Grange was to Illinois, has been made an offer to play against the former Illinois flash at Coral Gables, Fla., Christmas day, says the Herald and Examiner.

"Not entirely opposed to it," is his quoted response to news that efforts are being made to sign him for the game together with Benny Friedman, Michigan's captain-elect, and "Cowboy" Dick Kutsch of Iowa. The newspaper says efforts to sign them are being made by Joseph W. Doherty of New York. The team would oppose Grange's and would be captained by Tim Callahan, former Yale captain and all-American. No player would receive payment for his services unless he desired it.

McCarty would not discuss the question of his willingness to forsake his amateur status. He is a star basketball player and figured as a sure regular on the Maroon five this year.

BENNY LEONARD READY TO RETURN TO RING

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—The New York Evening World today quotes Benny Leonard as saying he is ready to return to the ring only "when a good fighter comes along and there is an enormous demand" for the retired lightweight champion to meet him. Leonard says he wants to fight again and is in condition to do so, but has no immediate intention of entering the arena.

Leonard said he thought the lightweights of today were of good caliber, but lacked experience. He indicated that if he returned to the ring he would do so as a lightweight in spite of the general belief that he has outgrown this division.

BENEFIEL LEAVES TO GET PASADENA GAME

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 25.—For the purpose of selecting an eastern team, and arranging for the Pasadena east-west football contest with the team selected, Jack Benefiel, graduate manager of the University of Oregon, has left for the east. He will be gone for approximately two weeks.

Benefiel has charge of the arrangements for the Rose Tournament game this year.

No intimation was given here as to the team he is considering to represent the east in the big game.

'QUIZ' IS QUIZZED BY POLICE, BUT PROVES AN ALIBI

Circumstantial evidence very nearly claimed another innocent victim yesterday when W. F. Quisenberry of this city was made the unsuspecting "villain" of a runaway girl escapade. "Quiz" who in private life fills the role of auditor for the Copco Home office is being quizzed today by his many friends who appreciate the joke even more than he does.

Here's how it all came about: A prominent citizen of Klamath Falls was about to send his 16-year-old daughter on a visit to Portland. Being a good friend of the Quisenberry family he called "Quiz" up and asked him to meet his daughter when she arrived in Medford via the Klamath stage, escort her to the train, buy her ticket and see her safely off on her journey. This "Quiz" did in his usual efficient manner and all was well in the world.

Here's where the plot thickens. The same day the young lady left Klamath Falls, which was Monday, another young lady of approximately the same age decided to run away from home. This she did and when the anxious mother began to investigate, it was reported that she had come to Medford in the Klamath stage line. So yesterday morning the mother arrived on the scene and after a little detective work discovered that a young lady answering the description of her daughter had arrived in Medford, taken a taxi to the Copco office and had been met by a man named Quisenberry.

This was evidence enough for the distracted mother and forthwith she enlisted the aid of the police department. A hurried trip was made to the Copco building and strange to say, the "villain" was still on the job, peacefully trying to increase the daily revenue of the power company by dictating a few letters to delinquent consumers. He was rudely interrupted however and called upon to bring forth the child which he had "kidnapped." Needless to say, "Quiz" was taken off his feet by the charge and made voluble protestations of his innocence. They availed him naught, however, until he happened upon a lucky thought and asked the mother the color of her daughter's hair. Her reply solved the mystery and he was able to convince the mother and the "arm of the law" that there were two young ladies involved, each having a separate and distinct identity and that he had neither seen nor heard of the "runaway." Heaving a sigh of relief Quiz returned to his less romantic task of pursuing the elusive dollar and the mother and officer departed to take up a new trail.

Many a good moving-picture scenario has been woven around a poorer plot than this.

LITTLE GIRL ON STAND TESTIFIES AND RUNS AWAY

The testimony Tuesday in the trial of Omar W. Murphy, well known local resident, charged with manslaughter, as a result of an alleged beating administered to his wife Ella last March, ranged from the childish words of the 11-year-old daughter of the haggard and worried defendant, and the ponderous answers of medical men, to hypothetical questions that took three minutes to propound.

The little girl, Erlene Murphy, when the cross examination by the defense started, cried and ran from the courtroom, after giving evidence against her father.

The most damaging testimony given by the little miss was ordered stricken from the records, by the court upon the objections of the defense. Erlene testified that she had been told to "tell the truth," and that her father had told her brother Earl in her presence.

"I only gave her a spanking. She is just staying in bed for sympathy, and so the neighbors will know all about it."

In testifying today the girl said her father told her to say nothing about "spanking" his wife or he would spank her.

Earl, the brother, was a witness at the morning session.

Expert testimony was given by Dr. V. S. Geary, county health officer, Dr. C. R. Moser of Grants Pass, and Dr. E. Woods of Ashland.

Each testified, in response to a hypothetical question by the state, that all the vital organs being normal, as shown by an autopsy, death could only have been caused by an embolism, or blood clot, and would be sudden. An embolism, the physicians explained was caused by bruises and might not be detected in an autopsy, even with a microscope. An embolism follows the blood flow, and blocks the smaller veins, being fatal in three vital centers, the heart, the lungs and the brain.

The state closed its case today and the defense begins with a recess in the proceedings tomorrow because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

In response to one question by the defense, Dr. Moser replied: "Nothing is impossible in life and medicine."

The physicians testified their experiences had ranged from four to 20 years, and each corroborated the other, and were emphatic in their statements that an embolism under the description given them by the hypothetical question could have been the cause of death. The question embodied the alleged circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Murphy.

A grim note was added to the proceedings when L. R. Dusenbury, sexton of the L. O. O. F. cemetery, testified that he had assisted in the exhuming of Mrs. Murphy's body a week ago, for examination of the spine.

At times during the testimony of the medical men the packed courtroom was swept by fits and laughter, which brought the bailiff to his feet shouting: "You folks stop that laughing."

The state will close its case this morning, and the defense begin with a recess in the proceedings tomorrow because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

ported the defense now plans a new move in an effort to save Chapman's life.

"We cannot expect to more than give the bare outline of his accomplishments. It will remain for the period of the realization of his loss to show his true value to the farmers and fruit growers of this valley, but it will be of permanent satisfaction to Mr. Cate to look back upon his remarkable record of successful work during his period here."

NEFF AND MORGAN NOT TO PLAY IN ASHLAND GAME

The Medford high school football team has finished hard work for the annual Thanksgiving game with Ashland at Ashland tomorrow, and tonight will indulge in light practice and receive final instructions from Coach Callison on the plan of battle.

Neff, star guard, and Morgan, 180-pound tackle of the locals, will be out of the game with minor injuries and their places taken by Tom Ball and Zeek.

The Ashland team, in spite of the Armistice Day slaughter, is highly confident and are expected to resort to an aerial attack most of the contest.

The officials for the game will be Maneval, referee, Bliss, umpire, and Evans, head linesman, the same as in the Armistice Day game. The game starts at 2:30 o'clock.

The probable Medford line-up will be: Hughes, center; Ball and Jackson, guards; Zeek and Hubbard, tackles; Singler and Sanders, ends; Herriot, quarterback; Archer or Sean fullback; Conrad and Moore, half-backs.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)
