Easy Lessons in AUCTION BRIDGE

New Series by WYNNE FERGUSON
Author of "Ferguson on Auction Bridge"

Copyright 1925 by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 36

One of the points about every game or sport that every player recognizes is the necessity of constant play and practice to keep in tip-top form. Auction bridge is no exception to this rule, and a player who wants to keep his form or improve, can do so only by constant play and practice. One of the best means of practice is to work out the problems of play and bidding that are given in these articles. They stimulate the mind and give the player the benefit of other points of view that he might otherwise have missed. Here are several hands, for example, where proper bidding and play would have been well rewarded. See what you would have done and then compare results with the writer's analysis.

Have you ever noticed how often certain cards or groups of cards will be duplicated in one or more hands? An observing player can gain many a trick by looking out for these duplications or repetitions. The writer saw a good example the other night.

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump. A and Y passed and B bid one spade. Z bid two hearts and all passed. A opened the eight of spades and Z won the trick with the king. In order to make game and rubber Z must win nine tricks. What was his best plan of play to accomplish this result? Z noted that he held a hand divided among the four suits in the ratio of 6-3-3-1. In his own hand he held six hearts and in the dummy three. If there was a duplication or repetition of the division of the cards in his own hand and those of the heart suit, it would be divided in the same ratio 6-3-3-1. This is one of Z's opponents would hold a singleton heart. If that conclusion were correct, was there any guide as to what the singleton heart would be? Z noted that he held the singleton king of diamonds so that if one other player held a singleton heart, it should be the king. Having analyzed the hand in that manner, Z led the four of hearts at trick two and when A played the deuce, Z played the ace from dummy and B's singleton king dropped. Every one at the table said: "How did you guess that?" So Z explained the frequency of repetitions or duplications not only of the distributions of the suits but also of the exact card or cards. It's really very interesting so be on the lookout for hands of this type and if you run across any good examples, send them in. Z's application of the rule in this hand gave him a game and rubber not otherwise possible, as he won six heart tricks, two spades and one club.

NEW MINISTER OF FINANCE OUTLINES WAR DEBT PLANS

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(A.P.)—The state must honor its signature no matter what the circumstances may be. This is the principal article in the financial credit plan of Louis Loucheur, minister of finance in the new cabinet of Aristide Briand. Consequently anything like a moratorium in the payment of France's debt or a consolidation of her short term bonds, will, it is believed, be excluded from his plan for the financial rehabilitation of the country.

M. Loucheur is equally opposed to inflation and proposes to remove the financial millstone, aggregating 98 odd billion francs of floating debt hanging around the country's neck by means of a sinking fund, fed by a yield from extra taxation, carefully chosen by expert staff on all forms of wealth with the least possible disturbance to the economic life of the country.

This plan already exists in its broad outline and M. Loucheur already has submitted it to the financial experts of the chamber and the senate. During the week he will place it before the new committee representing bankers, industry, commerce and labor, so that all classes of the country who have to pay taxes may be consulted. M. Loucheur is desirous of introducing his bill or bills into the chamber of deputies next Monday.
