REPORT SHOWS FAILURE RURAL TAX MEASURE

Although the two mill elementary school tax law was passed during some time in 1918 by the popular vote of the people of the state of Oregon to facilitate the tax situation for the rural tax payers, figures, which were compiled by a sub-committee of the state tax relief commission, reveal that the rural tax payers, instead of aiding themselves, are adding to maintain the school districts of the state.

In 22 school districts of Jackson county, the sum of $14,234 is paid in taxes for each census child and in return only $8.06 is received, showing a loss of $6.18 per each child. This loss is absorbed by the city schools of the county. However, 34 rural districts here pay $7.09 and receive only $19.92, showing a gain of $12.83 per child.

The situation, as it exists in Jackson county, is common throughout the state, according to the report made by the sub-committee, which was officially made public this afternoon. An instance is shown in Multnomah county, where seven rural districts pay $21.15 per child and receive only $19.52 in return and another is shown in Lane county, where 40 school districts pay $13.92 and in return receive $6.53. The situation exists in every county in the state showing the tax law which was voted to help the rural tax payers, has proven to be a failure.

The figures for Jackson county are as follows: City Tax Rec'd. Medford 4.11 5.29 Ashland 4.59 5.12 Central Point 4.54 5.78 Phoenix 6.02 5.46 Jacksonville 4.82 6.15 Talent 5.41 5.94 Rogue River 7.50 7.78 Gold Hill 9.91 4.93 Butte Falls 12.94 11.32 Eagle Point 5.52 7.94 26 Rural Districts 6.09 10.92 32 Rural Districts 14.24 8.06
