

URGES MEDFORD STUDENTS TO GO TO SOME COLLEGE

In a short talk before the Medford high school student body yesterday afternoon, Coach Paul Schissler of the Oregon State College told his listeners of the value of a college education and urged each to take advantage of college courses as provided by the state. He also lauded the Medford basketball team, praising their scholarship and ability as shown at the recent state tournament.

Paul J. Schissler, head football and track coach, Oregon State college of the college alumni association, and last Monday spoke at Roseburg and yesterday noon at Grants Pass. Today at noon he appeared before the Klamath Falls Chamber of Commerce and tonight or tomorrow plans to leave with Mr. Allworth for Los Angeles, Calif.

The two men spoke before the regular meeting of the Medford O. S. C. Alumni club last night, telling their listeners of recent developments at the college. Allworth stated that the new memorial building at the college would probably be completed next September and would be dedicated at the annual homecoming next fall.

Klamath Falls building permits for February were $47,250.

SENATOR EDDY IS HERE TO AID IN GR. JURY PROBE

Senator B. L. Eddy, well known attorney of Roseburg, has been appointed to assist Attorney J. N. Johnson of Grants Pass in the special grand jury investigation of the county prohibition funds, which has been in progress for over a week, according to an announcement made yesterday. Senator Eddy has for years been identified with the so-called dry forces in the state in both a legislative and law enforcement angle, and he served with Circuit Judge C. M. Thomas in the senate some time ago.

Luke S. May, president of the Northwestern School of Criminology at Seattle, appeared yesterday before the grand jury and is said to have given similar testimony of that given by R. H. Craddock, the Portland police inspector who appeared before the jury two weeks ago. Mr. May is nationally known and was connected with the solution of the notorious Covell murder case at Marshfield and also the Gaines murder case at Seattle.

When asked this forenoon what happened to her when she was out of the grand jury room for a moment, Mrs. Katie Grievie, jury forewoman, declared she had no idea when the jury investigation would be completed.

Witnesses who appeared before the jury this afternoon included Olga Anderson of the sheriff's office, State Traffic Sergeant C. T. Talent of Ashland and Walter Looker of the district attorney's office. G. P. Roberts and J. B. Andrews of this city were among those who appeared yesterday.

SODA SPRINGS SCHOOL CASE SPECIAL EDITION ON IN COURT ASHLAND TIDINGS

With the case on trial today before Circuit Judge C. M. Thomas settlement seems in sight for the Soda Springs school district quarrel, which began last September when Al Hopkins, a member of the school board, filed an injunction against H. Howard and W. D. Davis, the two other members, from completing a playshed, which Hopkins claims was planned for a school house. Ten witnesses were at the court house this forenoon for the plaintiff and seven for the defense and the case will probably last two days, according to present indications.

Hopkins was the first witness on the stand for the plaintiff in the school case and claimed that he was disregarded in the general preparations for the construction of the building and indicated that the objection, which was held at the school house August 29, 1927, was not valid inasmuch that only a straw vote was taken. This vote was taken after a measure to have a high school established there failed by 17 votes against and ten in favor.

The district now has 12 enrolled students and last year had 17, according to one of the Soda Springs residents, who said that practically the entire population of the district was present at the court house. He was leathery to speak in regard to the situation but said the district was divided against itself and declared that a settlement was almost made out of court last year. The playshed, he said, is only partly completed and through all the winter months, the framework of the building has been subject to the rigors of winter weather.

It's An Old Story RISELEY, England, March 21.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales fell today during the Oakley hunt point-to-point races. He was not hurt.

The prince was competing in the trials of Guards' inter-regimental challenge cup races when he fell. After jumping the seventh fence, the prince tried to clear a brook, but was unseated.

ASHLAND'S NEW AIR FIELD IS NEARLY READY

ASHLAND, Mar. 21.—(Special.)—Ashland's municipal airport is rapidly progressing into shape for the landing of heavy planes. City employees are working busily to complete the work. Two air-buses, placed on high poles, give pilots the indication of the wind. The irrigation ditch which runs through the field has been filled and the 1800-foot runway has been packed down by the use of heavy city rollers. The field is well drained. Harold Saunders, a Medford pilot, landed on the field Monday and was enthusiastic over what has been done, and said he would establish a branch of his school at the local field.

Dr. Fredrick Bolton, former dean of education at the University of Washington, spoke at the Southern Oregon Normal school on Monday morning. Dr. Bolton urged that teaching should be taken up as a profession and not as a stepping stone to something else. The speaker was greeted by the student body and by a number of teachers.

On Monday evening Dr. and Mrs. Bolton were entertained as honor guests at a luncheon at the Lillith Springs hotel given by the faculty members of the normal school. The table was attractive with flowers and lighted tapers. Miss Ruth Yoder played two violin numbers, accompanied by Miss Mary Galley. President Churchill then introduced Dr. Bolton, who gave an splendid address along professional lines.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dodge are expected home on Thursday from a stay of several weeks in Long Beach, Calif. "Myskin was a sight"

Friday night the pupils of the grammar school at Phoenix will present the tinofol operetta, "The Windmills of Holland." Special scenery is being prepared and the stage of the Phoenix gymnasium, the best equipped school stage in southern Oregon, will form a perfect setting for the presentation. The large cast is rehearsing diligently, and the enthusiasm of the players in their parts, together with the well-learned lines, promises a polished performance. The costuming is colorful and no detail has been overlooked nor effort spared by the people of the community to make this event a huge success.

Miss Gladys Johnson of Medford, former Ashland resident, spent the week end in that city visiting at the home of Miss Virginia Frost on Wimer Heights.
