

VOTERS ADVISED TO SEE THEY ARE ON POLL BOOKS

More than 2000 registration cards were removed from the files in the county clerk's office in January, and a corresponding number of post cards mailed to the voters whose cards were removed, notifying them of the fact. This was done to comply with the law, which provides that the county clerk shall remove the registration cards of all of the deceased electors and of all voters who have not voted during the past two years. Many notification cards were returned "unclaimed," others marked "addressee moved and left no address."

Several voters have had their cards reinstated but others whose post cards were not returned unclaimed have not notified this office, requesting a reinstatement of their registration or have not re-registered.

The names of the voters who have received these notification cards and have not had their names reinstated or have not re-registered, will not appear on the poll books. See that your registration is correct before April 17. The law now prohibits the swearing in of voters on election day.

DELLIA STEVENS MEYER, County Clerk.

G. JURY ADJOURNS UNTIL WEDNESDAY

With no reason given out, the grand jury, which has been investigating the handling of the county prohibition funds, adjourned last evening until next Wednesday morning, when sessions will again be resumed on the investigation, the outcome of which is being anxiously awaited by the entire population of Jackson county. It is presumed about the court house that the adjournment was made to obtain additional material for investigation which could not be obtained on short notice.

SCOUTING

On their way to the training school being conducted at the same time as the national council meeting is held in San Francisco, three scout executives passed through his city yesterday and stopped long enough to pay their respects to our local scout executive.

M. G. Stroup of Olympia, R. H. Hayes of Everett, and H. A. Scholer of Tacoma, were the visitors, who were favorably impressed with this part of the country, and they expressed themselves as hoping that there would be more frequent sightseeing available on their return trip.

Efforts are being made by the local scout council to secure a large enrollment for the coming scout leaders' training course, to start April 2, for the need of trained leaders for the boys is becoming more apparent every day. Some of the national scout officials will pass through here on their return trip to New York and perhaps their schedule will be arranged to include a day in the Rogue River valley.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Because folks at home to hear the big games on the radio when otherwise they would go to the little ones, some of the graduate managers of the Northwest College Athletic association wish broadcasting of conference games discontinued. Jack Benefield of Oregon said that when Southern California played Notre Dame at Chicago the radio crippled attendance at every other game in the country.

MIAMI POLICE CHARGED WITH BRUTAL CRIMES

MIAMI, Fla., March 24.—(AP)—The chief of this city's police department and six of his subordinates were in the county stockade today charged with murder, while ringing the bells of the entire force was a grand jury's vitriolic denunciation of "brutal, inhuman and astounding" conduct of law enforcement officers throughout Miami. The grand jury indicated sensational further developments to come "which will shock the public conscience."

Chief of Police H. Leslie Quinn was suspended and indicted yesterday for murder, as was Detective R. L. Wood. Previously Lieutenant M. A. Tibbetts, Detectives John Claudell and Tom Nazworth, and Patrolman Nelson Ward and R. L. Gilson had been arrested. All indictments were concerned with deaths of persons with whom those indicted have had contact in an official capacity.

Police methods of handling prisoners drew chief attention in the grand jury report, and was described by the jurors' pronouncement as "terrifying and damnable."

Chief Quinn yesterday joined Lieutenant Tibbetts and the two detectives, Claudell and Nazworth, behind the bars because of their alleged connection with the death of H. Kier, negro bellhop of the local hotel. His death occurred two and one-half years ago.

FARM GUN MAY SOLVE MYSTERY EUGENE SLAYING

PORTLAND, Ore., March 24.—(AP)—One week ago A. M. Gray, rancher of Mapleton, Ore., died from a mysterious wound in the head. Today Sheriff Taylor of Lane county appeared to Portland police to aid in solving the mystery of the man's death, bringing a gun which was believed to have been used in firing the shot that killed Gray. The gun is to be examined by Inspector Craddock, ballistic and gun expert of the Portland department, who has aided in solution of many mysterious deaths in the state.

Gray fell, mortally wounded, last Saturday as he was stepping from the porch of a neighbor whom he was visiting. Blood flowed from a gash in his head, apparently caused by a spent bullet. Lane county officers since have been investigating the case.

EUGENE, Ore., March 24.—(AP)—What may develop into a clue leading to the solution of the mysterious slaying of A. M. Gray at Mapleton March 17 is now in the hands of Sheriff Frank E. Taylor. The sheriff left for Portland today with a rifle said to have been obtained from a neighbor near the scene of the fatal shooting of Gray. This rifle will be examined by Inspector Craddock, ballistic and firearms expert of the Portland police department. An inspection of the rifle will be made to determine if the 25 caliber rifle bullet found imbedded in the head of Gray was fired from this weapon. Sheriff Taylor declined to reveal the identity of the person owning the rifle until some definite report on the inspection is made by Inspector Craddock.

Gray fell dead from the porch of the A. P. Mann home, where he had been visiting. At the autopsy later the bullet was found in the head, having entered the right eye. No other wounds were heard by Mr. and Mrs. Mann, and for the past week Sheriff Taylor and his deputies have been making efforts to determine who fired the shot. One 12-year-old boy neighbor reported hearing two shots at about the time of the shooting of Gray, but nothing further developed from this source.

RICH MAN'S SON DENIED RIGHT TO WED A DIVORCEE

CHICAGO, Mar. 24.—(AP)—If Cupid had any plans for the elopement today of J. Clarke Dean, Jr., whose father is a member of the board of trade, and Mrs. Josephine Seeburger Lasker, socially prominent divorcee, they are subject to revision.

Mrs. Lasker sued Howard Lasker of Englewood, N. J., a New York broker, for divorce, charging cruelty. Young Dean accompanied her to court. Yesterday Judge Sabath signed the decree, but said later that he had done so accidentally.

He entertained a motion to vacate the decree by Attorney John D. Black, who said the elder Dean had asked him to investigate the proceedings upon learning of the elopement plans. Judge Sabath fixed March 31 for the hearing on the motion.

"I don't want to be a party to a hasty re-marriage before the ink has dried on a divorce decree," said the court. Attorney Raymond Kelner, counsel for Mrs. Lasker, was asked to bring young Dean into court.

Judge Sabath asked young Dean: "Is it true that you plan to elope with Mrs. Seeburger?"

"Well, not right away."

"You were here yesterday trying to rush through her divorce decree, weren't you? What was your interest in trying to speed things up?"

"I thing the world of the girl, but I wanted her to be divorced before I go places with her."

"You can keep company with her, but I'm telling you not to be married to her until I dispose of this motion. I'm going to give you both time to think it over. If you marry and this divorce is set aside, you will be liable to prosecution on a charge of bigamy."

Attorney Black told the court that Dean was only 18 years old and financially unable to marry. Dean denied this, saying he was 22.

BANK PRESIDENT PERSONALLY PAYS ALL DEPOSITORS

NAYLOR, Ga., March 24.—(AP)—With his private funds, J. R. Carter, president, today began paying in full all depositors in the defunct Farmers' Bank of Naylor because he said he felt a "personal moral responsibility" to his former patrons.

Although he was not legally liable because of the failure, the president several days ago declared a dividend of 100 percent of the outstanding shares of capital stock of the institution so that the shareholders would suffer no loss.

His golden rule venture was said to have cost him approximately $40,000, four-fifths of which goes to the depositors.

The bank, which listed capital stock and surplus at $25,000, was closed Monday by the state banking department after it had made an audit at Carter's request and with his co-operation, which was said to have revealed a shrinkage in assets exceeding capital stock and surplus.

DEMPESEY REPEATS HE IS THRU; WILL NOT FIGHT AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 24.—(AP)—Is Jack Dempsey going to try again to make a comeback? Maybe—maybe not.

But today cauliflower alley in Los Angeles was thoroughly ruminating on the latest bit of gossip regarding their ex-champ's pugilistic intentions, namely the construction of more and better training facilities at Roper's ranch in the Ojai valley.

Dempsey trained at Roper's for the Sharkey bout and he is believed to like the place. Yesterday Clarence Roper, owner of the ranch, admitted that Jack had visited the place on his way north to the San Francisco St. Francis dam benefit and ordered the alterations.

Dempsey is in San Francisco and is expected to be back here Monday.

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 24.—(AP)—In the face of rumors that his previous retirement announcement was but a forerunner of a proposed Dempsey-Tunney fight in September, Jack Dempsey yesterday came out with the flat statement that he was through with the ring forever.

Here to referee on a benefit boxing program last night, the champion told friends that his retirement edict was final.

"My fighting days are over, and no one knows it better than myself," Dempsey said. "I know I can't go on forever. I have everything I had at Soldiers' field against Gene Tunney last summer. Some that sat in the great crowd at Soldiers' field that night thought I knocked him out. Maybe I did; maybe I didn't. The fact remains that Tunney was declared the winner. I am not taking one iota of credit away from him. All I can say is that I gave the public the best I had in me and that wasn't enough to bring me victory."

ATHLETICS, TIGERS AND SENATORS TO CHALLENGE YANKS

(By Brian Bell, Associated Press Sports Writer)

ATLANTA, Ga., Mar. 24.—(AP)—If threats from training camps of American league clubs are to be taken seriously, the 1928 race will find seven teams lined up against the New York Yankees.

Ways and means to stop the world champions in their effort to win three pennants in as many years are being discussed by boards of strategy over a far-flung battlefield stretching from Florida through Louisiana to Texas.

Three of the Yankees' rivals believe they can beat the champions and need only to decide on the method. The other four are more interested in getting into the first division than in winning the pennant and, while they, too, think the New Yorkers can be turned back, their thought for the moment seems to be "What if?"

In the face of opposition which outnumbers him, Manager Miller Huggins remains calm. He will offer the same club, that topped the American league in 1926 and 1927. He has added some reinforcements but the shock troops are the old first liners outside the batteries.

Wiley Moore has a year of big league pitching under his belt, as has George Pipgras, whose fast ball has not slowed up. Sheely and Johnson had been recruited from the American association to do some pitching.

The active challenge to the New York supremacy probably will be flung by the Philadelphia Athletics, Washington Senators and the Tigers of Detroit.

Connie Mack, at this season of the year, seems in better position than he was able to boast of at the same time in 1927. Joe Hanauer is back at first base with his wobbly knee answering every call. This Speaker has joined Ty Cobb and Al Simmons in the outfield with Ling Miller standing by. Ossie Orwoll is available for pitching duty, outfield or infield assignment.

The white elephant pitchers, especially Ehmanke and Rommel, are in better shape than was the case last spring.

Washington will count heavily on its revised pitching staff and the Siskler and base running of George Sisler. Lisenbee and Hafey, who came through for Bucky Harris last season, know more now and, although Hafey has been battered out of the box by appendicitis, he will be back.

Gaston and Zachary have come from the Browns to lend their arms to the Washington cause. Marberry is in the best physical condition of his major league career.

The Tigers have sent Marty McManush to third base, where his added weight will make him an imposing figure, and the Detroit Harry Rice will patrol an outfield post.

The pitchers may be bolstered up by the addition of Elam Vangilder from the Browns to serve as first aid and consequent promotion of Lil Stoner from relief duty to active assignment. Sam Gibson and Earl Whitehill exhibit signs of being better pitchers than they were last year.

Cleveland has recruited several classes from the kindergarten of baseball and may have to wait for the members to grow up to make the game before they can hope to make their presence felt. A rainbow seems to be trying to shine across the Indian sky to mark improvement shown in the condition of George Uhle and Emil Levens, two infant pitchers of the last season.

The White Sox have a new and expensive shortstop, Chalmers Clesell, and Johnny Mostil, out practically all last season, has returned to the outfield. The Chicago management believes that Ted Lyons, Alphonse Thomas, Ted Blackburn and George Connelly will head a staff able to pitch the Sox to better things.

St. Louis is gambling on two youngsters, Otis Ibranen and Ralph Kress, at second base and shortstop. Manager Howley is trying a bold experiment by tossing his Tulsa recruits into the middle of the infield, but he has confidence in them and believes they will make his team.

Lu Blue at first base and Harry Manush in the outfield have brought their bats with them from Detroit, and Sam Gray,

CHARLEY PADDOCK BREAKS RECORD FOR 140 YARDS

HOUSTON, Tex., Mar. 24.—(AP)—Encouraged by one sprint record established by the veteran Charley Paddock and several improvements over previous Texas relay marks, hundreds of athletes matched in that event at Austin were today seeking more laurels in the fourth annual Rice relay.

In the feature even of the Austin meet yesterday, Paddock beat Fred Alderman of the Illinois A. C. in a special 140-yard race by breaking the tape in 3.2 seconds. This was 6-10 of a second better than the former record established by the California flash for this distance in Finland in 1925, when he beat Helle, former titleholder.

Claude Bracey, Rice institute sophomore, shared the sprint spotlight with Paddock by covering 100 yards in 9.5 seconds to equal the world's record held by the California and Roland Locks of Nebraska.

Bracey, however, was aided by a 30-mile wind and doubt was expressed that his time would gain official recognition.

Some doubt that Paddock's new mark would be recognized was also expressed, but the wind had abated somewhat when he ran. He appears again today in the same event here against Alderman and Cockerell of the Austin A. C. Bracey also will try to repeat.

EDDIE COLLINS HOPES TO PLAY 3000 GAMES

PORT MEYERS, Fla., Mar. 24.—(AP)—Eddie Collins, captain of the Philadelphia Athletics, and one time super-second baseman, hopes to run his total American league games to 3,000 before he quits the diamond.

Collins is nearing his 41st birthday and has played in 2,778 league games. He hopes to surpass Ty Cobb's mark of 2,938 before he retires.

"I am starting by twenty-second year in the game," Collins said, "and while I am not as lively as I used to be, I feel snappy this spring. I think I could go to second right now and play the game. That's how good I feel."

Collins is captain and at times acting manager and the chances are that he will see service at second this season and act as pinch hitter.

BANTAMWEIGHT CHAMP BEATEN BY FOLEY

VANCOUVER, B. C., Mar. 24.—(AP)—Vic Foley of Vancouver won a 10-round decision over Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., world's bantamweight champion, in the hall of the arena last night. Foley weighed 125 pounds; Taylor 122. Taylor's title was not at stake. The decision was a unanimous one. Foley beat the champion by using the punch for which Taylor is famous, a lightning left. Taylor used his right but little. Foley won most of the rounds after the third, although the ninth and tenth were fairly even.

OSTEOPATHY The Original Science of Healing by Adjustment

NERVOUS DISEASES
Dr. M. C. Hardin in his article on nervous diseases has very aptly likened the animal body to a bank. If one draws on his bank account every day more than he puts into it from day to day he eventually runs into bankruptcy. Likewise with the body, nervous bankruptcy—a lowered or depleted nervous vitality is the inevitable result of overtaxing the nerve force of vital capital stored up, or literally deposited in the body.

He also likens the body to a great city with its power plant where electricity is stored in great storage batteries. Wires from the plant traverse and permeate the entire city. One system runs the street cars, another lights the city. The wires divide and subdivide until almost every room in every building is supplied with one or more branches of these innumerable wires. Thousands of machines of all types are connected with electric power from this great central plant; the entire city grows active from this source.

If the amount of electricity runs low in the central power plant the machines connected with it will cease to function properly and promptly. So it is with the body, and when this occurs one has all kinds of symptoms as a result. Such a condition the doctor calls technically neurasthenia. A person so afflicted is generally blue and gloomy; he has apprehensions of dreadful things; his digestion is poor; his liver is sluggish; he suffers from palpitation of the heart, headache and insomnia. If one organ is weaker than another, the other's functioning is impaired.

Such general lowered vitality is one fundamental and almost universal cause, or condition, of disease. It is then that the so-called "nerve diseases" are contracted. Drugs do not cure nervous disorders. They differ from food. Food taken into the body is assimilated and built into tissue. A drug, on the other hand, is not assimilated; it remains foreign to the body. It is the process of eliminating this foreign material that we term stimulation, a forced activity of energy. For this reason it does not help the situation, but merely forces the extravagant use of nerve energy remaining, thus depleting the body of strength and causing a further loss of energy. It is in food properly digested and assimilated, pure air properly breathed, and rest, that is imperative. These "nerve diseases" are contracted because the circulation, assimilation, absorption, excretion, etc., so that the body builds itself back to normal. Hence the relief is permanent.

Paralysis

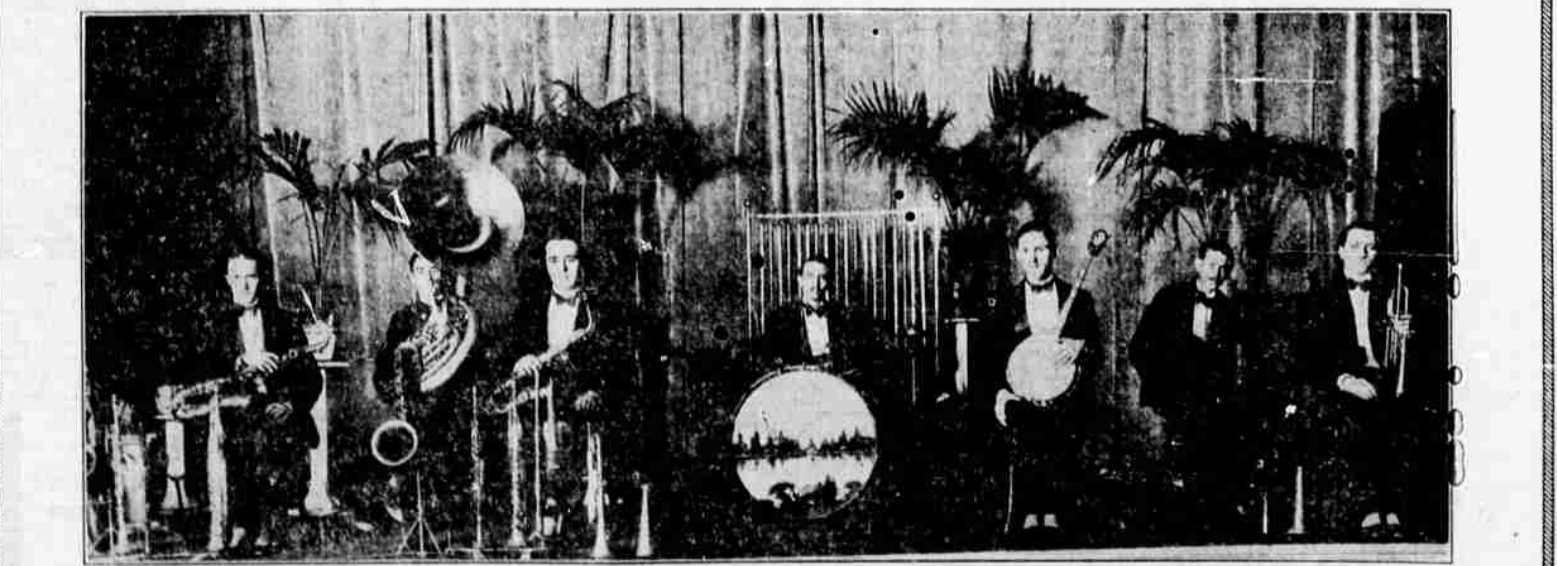

There are numerous forms of paralysis. Hemiplegia, paralysis of one side of the body, is usually caused by a clot of blood from a hemorrhage on the brain tissue.

Facial paralysis is sometimes caused by a lesion of the nerve causing the brain, then little, or nothing, can be done for it. It may be caused by a lesion outside the central system. Then osteopathy has no difficulty in restoring it to normal.

Infantile paralysis, inflammation of the spinal cord, is due to lowered vitality of the spinal cord plus a specific germ attacking the cord. For this reason, if the spinal cord has readily yielded in recent years to osteopathic treatment.

Neuritis is an inflammation of the nerves, sometimes caused by excessive or long continued use of drugs, often a tonic containing arsenic. A more common cause, however, especially when it develops in one arm only, is a slipped vertebra or twisted neck. Osteopathic adjustment brings the quickest and most nearly permanent relief.

Nervous indigestion is one of the more common nervous troubles. Its cause often lies in failure to properly masticate food. The small intestine is over-burdened and eventually breaks down. Nervous or intestinal indigestion results. Proper diet, proper rest, and osteopathic treatments bring satisfactory recovery. In fact, osteopathic treatment applied with careful judgment has been the means of literally creating new life for thousands and thousands of people who have suffered from nervous irritation.
