The frost predicted by the San Francisco weather forecast for last night in the valley did not materialize because of cloudiness and light rain, and Floyd Young, the frost warning official, gave out the word to the telephone exchange at 6:30 p. m. that "all was well." Mr. Young and the management of KMED will hold a conference this afternoon to decide on the exact time Mr. Young's frost situation forecasts will be issued over the radio nightly. Only .01 of an inch of rain fell during the 24 hours ending at 5 a. m. today; the day was cloudy and threatening and probable rain is predicted for tonight and Friday.
