Abraham dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain and pitched his tent toward Sodom. At the men of Sodom were wicked and sinners before the Lord exceedingly. Look, 16:49. Behold this was the iniquity of that sister Sodom, pride, fullness of bread and abundance of idleness was in her, and she strengthened the hand of the poor and needy. Lament 4:21-25. But were you that are rich, for ye have received your consolation, were you unto you that are full, for ye shall hunger; were you unto you that laugh now, for ye shall mourn and weep. Come hear the old-time gospel at 7:16 Welch street. Everyone welcome to all services.

First Baptist Church. W. H. Eaton, pastor. This church points the Christian, Presbyterian and First M. E. churches in a series of pre-Easter services in which it has been accorded to present Christ's "Seven Words From the Cross" as special topics. Accordingly, the pastor's subject for Sunday morning will be, "The First Word From the Cross," and in the evening it will be, "The Second Word From the Cross," the themes being "The Divine Art of Forgiveness" and "Grace Without Limit." At the morning service the chorus choir will sing "Beautiful Words of Jesus," by Meredith. In the evening the Young People's Glee club of the church will sing "Wonderful Grace of Jesus," by Lillenas, and the church orchestra will play "Love's Caravan" by Brockwell and "Carry On," by Maxwell-Borch. If you are not attached to any other such group, come to our Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. and our young people's meeting (three groups) at 7 p. m. Try our welcome.

Central Point Federated Churches. J. M. Johnson, pastor. One of the most important lessons which we have had will be that of tomorrow, on the subject, "Jesus, the Suffering Messiah," Mark 8:27-37. You will find a wonderful description of His sufferings recorded in Isa. 53. Read that, too. The memory verse word for the day is "Life." Please have a verse ready. Sunday school opens at 9:45. Bring your bible. The morning service in the church will be held as the opening of the week's special meetings, and the beginning of the new year. The sermon will be addressed specially to the leaders of the church; and a consecration of leadership of the church will be a part of the service. Charles Hezmalbach will be ordained deacon. Good music will be a part of the services, always. The young people will meet at 7 o'clock in the evening, and the leaders will direct the services so as to enlist the whole company of Endeavorers in the special work of the week, and to help bring any who have confessed Christ to a decision at the celebration of the resurrection. Be one of our fine company of young people, if you can. We need you.

Will Organize Brotherhood Class Sunday Morning. The men of the First Methodist church will reorganize the Men's Brotherhood class at the church Sunday morning at 9:45. All men of the church and other men interested, who are not attending elsewhere, are requested to be present and become members of the class. There will be special music and features each Sunday that will interest men, whether members of any church or not. Why not spend at least one hour in the study of the bible and things that have for their object the uplifting of the community and the betterment of humanity. Clarence Meeker is having charge of the organization details which insures the success of the class and guarantees excellent programs.

Sky High Farce Next at Rialto. The outstanding success accorded by Glenn Tryon and Patsy Ruth Miller in "Painting the Town Red" in the illustrious pair being co-starred in "A Hero for a Night," which comes to the Rialto theatre tomorrow. It is even more laughable than the first opus and will establish a new high water mark for other comedy teams to shoot at. Tryon is a self-made, wisecracking aviator, who flies to Russia by mistake to show his girl friend how good he is. Patsy Ruth Miller is the girl, who eventually agrees with him on that point and several others.

OSTEOPATHY The Original Science of Healing by Adjustment OSTEOPATHIC SURGERY of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat

Osteopathic surgery is as radical in its departure from old-school surgery as the basic science and art of osteopathy are from those of drug therapy. Naturally so, for one would expect the child to follow in the footsteps of the parent. It is true not only of theories and methods, but also in results obtained. And in no field has this been proved more emphatically than that of head surgery. Deafening conditions affecting the eye, ear, nose and throat. In the first place, osteopathic surgery is conservative. Every means is used to prevent needless operations. Osteopathy has saved many a man and woman from the knife. Not all "bad" tonsils are diseased. In a few cases work has proved that no one can tell the condition of the tonsils merely by looking in the throat and that 75 per cent of all tonsils removed were not diseased at all. Therefore, could and should have been left in, had conditions been properly diagnosed and treated. But when once a part is so diseased that it is beyond repair, it becomes a menace to the rest of the body and must be removed. Many cases of rheumatism, as it is vaguely termed, are traceable to diseased tonsils. Deafness may be due to trouble in the nose, such as a growth or deflected septum. The work of the osteopathic surgeon is not done with the operation. He follows it with osteopathic treatments to prevent adhesion, recurrence, and any one of the number of other complications that may threaten, as well as to hasten recovery. It is an established fact that osteopathy care following any operation, no matter how small, will shorten the time back to health. The osteopathic surgeon therefore seeks the cause and makes sure of his diagnosis. He then proceeds to eliminate the cause by non-surgical means, if possible, and if not, then by the use of such means as will cause the least loss of blood, the least shock, and the quickest recovery. Dr. A. T. Still, the founder of osteopathy, had been a practicing physician and surgeon of the old school when the civil war broke out. His experience as such and as a medical officer in the Union army convinced him that medicine was on the wrong track. And so he experimented in the laboratory and out, studied the human body as an expert watchmaker studies the finest watch, until he evolved osteopathy. He offered his findings to his brethren in the medical profession, but they repudied him and called him crazy, as they did Koch, the propounder of the germ theory. Since then osteopathy has established itself throughout the world, and thinking men and women look to it not only to restore them to health, but to keep them physically fit. In a lesser way, many osteopathic surgeons have been experimenting and working to devise accurate methods of diagnosing, or clearing people from useless operations and of performing necessary operations with less suffering and torture to the patient, and less danger of post-operative complications. Notable among these osteopathic surgeons is Dr. J. Deason of Chicago. After ten years of research work he has originated, among other things, an almost new, non-invasive method of determining whether tonsils are bad enough to come out. He has also invented a way of removing hopeless tonsils that is practically bloodless and painless, taking the place of the bloody, agonizing ordeal. New instruments had to be fashioned, and the after-care perfected that spells quick recovery. Similar work has been done with respect to the ear, eye and nose. Trained by him, many osteopathic surgeons throughout the country are carrying on the mission and bringing relief to satisfied patients. What these methods mean to the child especially, with its delicate nervous system, only is of one who is a parent, can understand. Catarrhal Deafness. For generations catarrhal deafness has been treated as a disease. The result of such treatment is emphasized by the vast number of deaf people encountered. Some consulting physicians have had their ears inserted, many more have tried the countless remedies advertised and sold as cures, but all have failed to obtain the desired result. Catarrhal deafness is not a disease, but a symptom of irritation in the back part of the nose or throat, which causes swelling or constriction of the Eustachian tube.
