

SPRING HANDICAP FORMER RESIDENTS HOUSE OF STRANG HELD BY WEATHER OF VALLEY TELL FEELS KEENLY THE TO START SOON OF FLOOD TERROR FOLLY OF HERBERT

The Rogue Valley Golf club spring handicap of 72 holes medal play has so far failed to get under way, due to the inability of the weather man to produce sufficient sunshine to dry off the rain-soaked fairways and greens.

The 72 holes can be played at any time prior to Sunday evening, April 29, so this should enable every member of the club to participate. The only restrictions placed on entrants require players to declare themselves to the club professional or his assistant, as engaging in their tournament rounds at the beginning of each 18 holes and play to be in possession, three days or foursome, with score cards attested and turned in after completion of each round. No entry fee is required.

Bert Thierdorf of the Big Pines Lumber company is equipping the new nine holes with benches and is also furnishing paint for the old benches and tee boxes. A complete tournament schedule for home and distant games is being arranged for the coming season by the committee in charge of this feature of the club activity and local players will thus have opportunity to match wickets with the best of neighboring golf enthusiasts.

Prizes for the club tournament, donated by club members and Medford merchants, include the following: First—Silver cup, by H. D. McCaskey. Second—Silver cup, by a club member. Third—Pocket-cigarette lighter, by John Lawrence. Fourth—Waterproof golf blouse, by McPhersons. Fifth—Lemonade set, by Weeks & Orr. Sixth—Golf socks, by The Toffeeery. Seventh—Electric cigarette lighter by People's Electric store. Eighth—Kumback putter, by Ross, Sell, Inc. Ninth—Golf gun, by Men's Shop. Tenth—Three golf balls, by Lamports. Eleventh—Flashlight by West Side Pharmacy. Twelfth—Pencil sharpener, by Office Stationery & Supply Co. Thirteenth—Two-pound box of candy, by Deke Buckingham. Fourteenth—Flower urn, by Medford Concrete Construction Co. Special prizes: Silver cuts, by Larry Schade, for best 18-hole round with handicap. Sweater, by Mann's Department Store for low gross score for the 72 holes.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Reese, former residents of this valley, write home descriptions of the flood Mr. Reese has five resident properties in North Sacramento. Mrs. Reese writes home as follows: "If anyone thinks they have any idea of a flood by looking at pictures and reading in the papers, they are mistaken. In three hours the water had risen four feet higher than in last winter's high water. Mr. Reese waded in water to his waist to keep the debris from shoving the house off its foundations down near the car tracks. This is at Elements avenue. It was in every one of our houses from one to two inches and two to two and a half feet and in some near its rise to the eight-foot ceilings. Many went out with only the clothing they wore. We had ten refugees at one time. They brought us provisions in row boats and gasoline boats were running everywhere. We stayed downstairs and turned the fire until it began to come in at the door, then we beat it upstairs. Oh, it was like waiting to be hung. "It was terrible to look down and see that muddy water coming up over the floors. We carried everything upstairs and put the piano up on boxes. One old lady stayed in her house across the street until Mr. Reese carried her over in three feet of water. Another woman fell with heart trouble and we thought she was dead. "Mr. Reese went out several miles on a car and brought her daughter. Then Mrs. Reese made a bed and put her in it until the water went down. The Red Cross is caring for the destitute and no one will suffer for food. But many have nothing left. Our houses can be repaired, but the floors are mostly ruined. But don't worry, we are happy it was no worse than it was. "Mrs. Reese is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Clavey of Eden, Oregon.

There is great grief at Stearns' drug store and at The Bootery because Herbert H. Strang was killed yesterday in spending his car on Main street. Charles S. Strang, the father, has suffered many blows during his residence in Medford ever since the flood, not Noah's, but the one in which Bear creek arose so high many years ago as to almost wash away Rovy Ann. However, Herb's fall from good citizenship yesterday was the worst blow of all. Bob and Virgil Strang are so ashamed at this break of their brother that they can hardly look customers in the face and so concentrate on their feet. Herbert himself feels his disgrace so keenly that he has hardly been able to eat and sleep since, and the women folk of the Strang family are afraid to face their neighbors and sit weeping behind drawn window curtains. The grief of the father and brothers especially is due to the fact in the first place that Herb was caught, and second that through being caught he parted with $10 for even, and third that he did not come into police court like the other strong men of the west and take his fine from the police judge, but when arrested by Traffic Officer Prescott he paid over to him $10 rather than be forced to appear in police court. Herbert's only plea in extenuation for his crime is that while going along in his car his sporting blood got the best of him, as he was concentrating on watching a dog fight instead of on watching the speedometer. It has been many years since any of the Strang boys speeded, the last time being about four or five years ago when Bob and Herb, anxious to see a Medford high football game, divided the time between them, Bob seeing the first part of the game and Herb the second, which required quick pedestrianism on the part of each in covering the territory between the Bootery and the football field, in time, so that each could see his share of the game.

Harold Evert Sander and Madeline Moran, both of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage in Grants Pass in the presence of a few friends, including Harold Evans and Camille Clemenson and John Franklin and Dorothy Nimsner of Ashland. The groom is well known in Medford and is the vice-president of the Sander mercantile school, which is located at the fair grounds. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sander and a graduate of the local high school. The bride is also a graduate of the local high school and has been attending the Ashland Normal school. The couple will probably make their home in this city. Reports from Grants Pass indicated that a license was also issued to John Franklin and Miss Nimsner, but this was denied this afternoon by Mr. Sander, who stated that the couple went along only to act as witnesses.

Harry Skrymann, assistant city attorney has decided to enter private practice and will open offices on the fourth floor of the Medford building, April 15. Attorney Skrymann, who has been connected with the city attorney's office for the past three years, had charge of clearing titles of all properties taken over by the city and has gained wide knowledge and experience in legal phases of city government. He will, however, take up general practice in his own office. The city attorney's office after the departure of Mr. Skrymann, will not take on another assistant, and the personnel of the city attorney's office will consist only of John Carlin, city attorney, and one stenographer, Harry Skrymann, who has devoted the last two years to suits to quiet title, will finish up what remains of this city work, either before he opens up his own office or will dispose of it along with his own private practice.

Social Notes and Meetings

The pre-Easter union services continue with excellent interest. The Christian church was comfortably filled last night to hear the message on the text, "I Thirst." The theme was "The Soul of Sympathy." Rev. T. H. Temple was the speaker, and in a masterly message presented the picture of Christ sympathetic with all suffering humanity as he entered the city. A. J. McDonald sang most tenderly a message telling the story of the crucifixion. Tonight the text will be, "It is Finished," and the message will be presented by Rev. Carmen E. Mell, pastor of the Christian church. The services are at 8 p. m. and are a helpful approach to the meaning of Easter and the resurrection. Rev. W. H. Eaton will bring the closing message of the week, a Friday night on the text, "Father, Into Thy Hands I Commit My Spirit."

The following program will be given in the academy chapel by the seniors and juniors Saturday night, April 7, at 8 o'clock. Solo songs, "Love's Old Sweet Song (Santa Lucia), Junior-senior girls. Saw solo, "Forgotten"—Dorell Hanson. Readings, "A Fly's Cogitations"—"Lookout Mountain"—Eather Miller. Vocal duet, "The Green Hill Far Away"—Bernice and Wilbur Hanson. Recitation, "The Owl Crite"—Louisa Downs. Vocal solo, "Silver Threads Among the Gold"—Ruth Fowler. Intermission. Dialogue, "As Bad As Girls"—(a senior written). Violin solo, "Rondino"—Orville Van Dorff. Reading, "The Farmer and the Wheel"—Beside Bunch. Musical combination, "Among My Sovereigns"—Dale and Floyd Rice, Russell Hanson. Pantomime, "One Sweetly Solenn Thought"—Ellen Holmes. An admission will be charged for the purpose of raising money to pay the traveling expenses of our commencement speakers. Everybody is invited to attend. A good time is assured. Candy and popcorn will be sold. Examinations for the fifth period will be given next week. Information has been received that a family in Corvallis will move to this valley before the opening of school next fall to take advantage of the excellent opportunities given in the academy. Dr. James R. Bunch and family of Myrtle Point surprised his parents, Principal and Mrs. F. R. Bunch, by making a week-end visit.

and deliberate exploitation of agriculture.

Peck invited Hoover to join with him in a request to congress for an investigation so that "the public can form an accurate opinion as to his record as a friend of the American farmer, and the wisdom of his long view policies."

In his charge that Hoover campaign literature which he said was being circulated, was "in variance with the facts," Peck added that most of the statements "are so irrelevant to the condition of agriculture today that one wonders if he has even and is now speaking to serve the interests of the farm producers, the interests of dealers in and the exporters and manufacturers of the farm products, or his own present political interests."

Peck informed Norbeck that he had been told by Willis "some three weeks ago" that "Hoover pamphlets were being widely distributed in Ohio and that he decided to know the facts in connection with Mr. Hoover's record as a friend of the farmer, as the farm organizations knew them."

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 5.—(AP) Control of the Wisconsin delegation to the Kansas City republican convention still layed in the balance between the regular republicans and the LaFollette forces when eighty per cent of the precincts in Wisconsin had reported today.

In 12 of the 26 counties the regular republicans were leading. Although the LaFollette forces held a slight edge, as their candidates fared to the front in fourteen contests, the race was so close that a change of a few hundred votes in certain districts might displace the leaders.

FLYER, NORMAL CITY LEGAL AIDE STUDENT WEDDED TO OPEN OFFICE

Harold Evert Sander and Madeline Moran, both of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage in Grants Pass in the presence of a few friends, including Harold Evans and Camille Clemenson and John Franklin and Dorothy Nimsner of Ashland.

The groom is well known in Medford and is the vice-president of the Sander mercantile school, which is located at the fair grounds. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sander and a graduate of the local high school. The bride is also a graduate of the local high school and has been attending the Ashland Normal school. The couple will probably make their home in this city. Reports from Grants Pass indicated that a license was also issued to John Franklin and Miss Nimsner, but this was denied this afternoon by Mr. Sander, who stated that the couple went along only to act as witnesses.
