Wall Street Report

NEW YORK, April 18.—(P)—Stock prices displayed a complete reversal of form in today's market, selling down sharply in the morning and then rallying briskly following a 10-point jump in Radio.

Afternoon buying operations centered in a rather wide assortment of amusement, food, tobacco and public utility shares. Paramount Famous Lasky was run up four points to 126, National Tea soared 11 points to 222 and Manhattan Modified guaranteed, and Lorillard advanced to new high records.

General Electric, rallied from 164 5/8 to 168 and General Motors from 188 7/8 to 193 1/2.

The closing was strong. Dropping of the call money rate to 4 1/2 per cent and a jump of 8 1/2 points in American Telephone to 190 1/4, a new record, revived the spirits of the bulls in the last hour and many stocks were bid up to new peaks.

Public utilities made the best group showing, but large gains were made by a sprinkling of other popular stocks, notably motion picture issues and St. Paul shares, the common rising to a new high above 24. Total sales, approximating 2,500,000 shares, fell below $4,000,000 for the first full session since April 5.

PENDELTON, Ore., April 18.—(P) Hubert Dickinson, held here on a morals charge, has been turned over to the Umatilla county grand jury under $750 bond. He is alleged to have made improper advances to four small girls last Sunday.

PENDELTON, Ore., April 18.—(P) Three hundred and twenty-five voters registered yesterday for the May primaries and 332 the day before, indicating the interest in the coming races.

RADIO PLAY WITH LOCAL CAST AND AUTHOR, PLEASES

(Contributed)

It was like a tense "first night." It was the audience of over 100 people who crowded the beautiful theater (Pylmer's Music House), took their seats and waited for the overture to finish and the curtain to ring up on the first act of "Madame Q," the two-part radio comedy, written by Mary Greiner, Mail Tribune reporter, and presented over KMED, the Mail Tribune-Virgin station on the California Oregon Power company hour last night with a cast of talented local actors.

There were orchestra seats and balcony seats, loges and gallery seats, but everyone had an equal chance to hear the players, whose acting was easily visualized by their definite vocal interpretation, and whose voices came over as flawless as though they were in the room with their listeners. The music was cleverly maintained throughout through the management of the music house owners, who had arranged a radio in each of the four corners of the store, all operating in such perfect unison that one great voice appeared to fill the room at a time.

The audience laughed, gasped, sighed and chuckled at the various characters in the radio drama played their parts, and when the climax of each of the two plays developed, there were many gripping the railing of the balcony or the end of their seats, as might have been the case in an ordinary theater.

Earl Davis, who portrayed the role of the smart-cracking Jack Merryweather, whose sole possession was 100 acres of land next to a cemetery, was responsible for perhaps the greatest number of laughs throughout the evening, his part in both plays being full of brisk comebacks and "fast ones." James Stevens, who played the part of his former college chum, Harry Manning, the secretary to Mrs. Quackenbush, a languid and wealthy widow with a flare for travel and for buying impossible real estate, played his part with a poise and flexibility of manner that rose to an impressive height at the climax of the first part.

Jo Murray was an undisputed hit in the role of Madame Q, the bored widow. Her interpretation was consistent from start to finish, and Mary Greiner, as the small town flapper stenographer, assumed her role with a naturalness and ease which evidenced the great amount of study and experience she has had in dramatics and theater work. In the second section she displayed her versatility when she re-enacted the part of the much discussed Parisian type, which required the difficult and peculiar French dialect and characterization.

Harold Corliss, well known Medford opera star of many home talent productions, was splendid in his characterization of the Prince of Monaco, which role also carried the difficult French accent. In conjunction with the part of Jack Merryweather, his lines carried along the humorous vein of the play.

Following the presentation of the play punch and wafers were served the guests, and a minute or two later the actors themselves arrived from the studio in the Sparta building. They were presented one by one as they came in the door by Henry Fluhrer and Clayton Isaacs, and each actor bowed to his own shower of applause. The experiment was voted a huge success by all present, and from the consensus of opinion public radio parties and "first nights" will be in demand on the local social calendar from now on.

STATE EXAMS FOR REALTORS SEEN BY STATE OFFICIAL

(Contributed)

It will only be a matter of time until a state examination will be demanded of all real estate dealers, and it will be only a short time until the real estate vocation of today will become the realtors' profession of tomorrow, according to Deputy State Real Estate Commissioner C. V. Johnson, who spoke last night at a dinner meeting of the Medford Realty board at the Hotel Medford, held in honor of Deputy Johnson. Sherwood Williams of LaGrande, president of the Pacific Northwest Realtors' association, and T. W. Zimmerman, executive secretary of the association.

"Colleges now have courses on real estate dealing," said Deputy Johnson, "giving students every opportunity to become thoroughly acquainted with the business. With their training, the young men will gradually take our places, taking our torches to bear and therefore, being well trained, will no longer have to grope in the darkness of ignorance of the business."

Deputy Johnson reviewed the history of the state real estate department, telling how it was established in 1919 by a legislative measure, making it necessary for all real estate dealers to pay license fees. He explained how these fees made the department self-sustaining, making it possible last year to turn into the general fund of Oregon over $6,000 in surplus money. He told how the department protects the real estate purchaser from "sharks" and crooks in the business, citing a number of instances of the department's work along this line. He said, however, that such cases are very rare, with only two occurring last year.

Williams Speaks. Not all real estate dealers can use the title of realtor, said Sherwood Williams, association president, due to the fact that a dealer is not a realtor unless he has subscribed to the national organization of realtors and keeps within its laws and observes its code of ethics.

Realtor is a synonym for food, fair dealing and it is one of the purposes of the northwest association, he continued, to eliminate crooks, "sharks" and all unfair dealer from the business. The purchaser now has complete protection against unfair dealing which in years gone by were so prevalent and the real estate business, said President Williams, is rapidly coming into its own as one of the leading business followings in the country.

Speaking on taxation, President Williams called attention to the fact that real property is the basis of the nation's highest revenues. While the nation has shown remarkable progress, no change has ever been made in the general principle of property taxes, and he suggested that all values should be made as revenue earners, equalizing the burden on the heavy property owner.

Low License Scored. In a short speech, T. W. Zimmerman, executive secretary of the northwest association, pointed out the dangers in a number of measures to be voted upon at the next general election, using the $1 auto tax law as the main example. He declared this new fee would increase property taxes, making taxation a much heavier burden than it now is. He is also against the proposal to have the license fees cut in half, and equally against the proposal of increased gasoline tax on the fact that if the gasoline tax is raised, it will be found unconstitutional, as it was found in Illinois. He said the present tax is held valid on the theory that it is an occupation tax and nothing else.

Mr. Zimmerman favors a county tax for publicity purposes, taking the main burden of financing publicity from the shoulders of businessmen, whose money also helps the country people in bringing new settlers into the country. He is also in favor of a state tax for publicity and he would place the funds in the hands of a publicity expert to expend it as he sees fit to encourage the arrival of new settlers, which are now badly needed to populate irrigated lands.

Short talks were also given by C. C. Hoover on his winter bluegrass and by Ted Baker, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who lauded the efforts of the Medford Realty board in the work that it has accomplished since its organization. He also reviewed the progress Medford has made during the past seven years and gave the local realtors due credit for efforts they have expended in aiding to make this growth possible.

H. B. Harder, president of the First National bank, also made a short speech on current topics, in addition to Howard Scheffel, Mrs. George Treichler and H. C. Galley of Ashland.

Charles Wing was the toastmaster of the evening and the meeting was partly in charge of Walter Leverette, president of the local board, with Charles Day in charge of general arrangements. The three visiting real estate officials left this morning for Klamath Falls for a meeting this evening, and will tomorrow hold a meeting in Bend, after which they will depart for Portland.

TIME TO LOOK OUT FOR DOG CATCHER

Wise owners of dogs, if they wish to retain their pets, whether or not unlicensed, will at once get busy and tie up the dogs at home or keep them confined to home premises, in conformance with the city ordinance which prohibits dogs going off their home premises during the months of April, May and June, as a protection to flower beds and gardens of neighbors and other citizens.

Following the city council meeting last night, it was announced that the city is determined to enforce the ordinance, and Chief of Police McCredie declared that all offending dogs would be gathered in by the city dog catcher.

The police are receiving many complaints about dogs running at large, ruining gardens and flower beds.

Wedding Bells

Emile August Farget and Mattie L. Farget, of Medford, were married here yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace C. E. Rusk. They obtained their license from F. L. Coon, county clerk.—Grants Pass Courier.

Not Fair

The camera isn't fair! It has caught the lovely features of dainty Ethel Abbis, the rose-petal color of her skin and the rich beauty and gleam of her dark brown hair. "So many people tell me about my hair, nowadays," says Miss Abbis, whose New York City home is the Embassy Hotel, "that I know what they're going to say when I see them looking at me. 'What do you do to it?' so many ask. I really do a little. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That always gives new sparkle and life to my hair. It keeps it soft and easy to arrange and holds it in place. I was bothered with dandruff before I started using Danderine but it's all gone now. Every application makes my scalp feel just grand. And it keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often as I used to. Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair than any shampoo or treatment. It removes all dust, grime and oily film from your hair—tones and refreshes your scalp, gets rid of dandruff. All drug stores have the 25c bottles. "Smooth exquisite skin worth most of all"

says Al Rockett director for FIRST NATIONAL

'Smooth, flawless skin is beauty's greatest asset. 'Studio skin'—we call it—the type of skin so marvelously smooth, that even the pitiless microscope of the close-up fails to reveal anything but loveliness. The perfection of such a skin is worth more to the motion picture star—or indeed to any woman—than any other physical quality.'

THEY are as wise as they are lovely, these screen stars whose beauty is known the world over. For they give the greatest possible care to the smooth youthful skin that assures their success in every close-up. Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap!
