No meeting of the city council with the board of reviewers to discuss tentative assessments for the sixth street improvements was held last night, nor was one contemplated. The two bodies held a conference last Tuesday night, and the matter will come up formally at the next Tuesday night's regular council meeting, after which the city council will set a date for a formal public meeting for the reviewing of proposals, if there are any before taking final action on the assessments. The appraisal committee of board of reviewers consists of C. W. McDonald, V. J. Riekerich and R. A. Williams.
