HALF BILLION DOLLARS GOOD ROADS IN 1928

There will be approximately one and one-half billion dollars spent for roads throughout the country this year and highway construction will at least equal and probably exceed the highest mark recorded in any preceding year, according to Dr. E. B. McDaniel, president of the Oregon State Motor association.

Dr. McDaniel said that improvement of the state and federal-aid highway systems under the supervision of the highway departments of the various states will go forward during the season now opening with a construction of more than 20,000 miles of surfaced roads and about 8000 miles graded and drained.

Dr. McDaniel was advised by the A.A.A. of road-building prospects after reports of the various states to the bureau of public roads, under which the federal-aid program is carried on, had been carefully considered.

Oregon's activities will continue unhampered for the year 1928, but the threat of the $1 license fee has stopped all plans for 1929," said the doctor.

State reports indicate that at least 240,000 miles of the total of 288,000 in the various state highway systems will be maintained this year under the supervision of the state highway departments, a fact which should insure the traveling public a high degree of road service.

Funds estimated as available for expenditure during the year by the state highway departments are about 25 per cent greater in total amount than similar estimates indicated at the beginning of last season. It is practically certain that the funds available to all state highway departments for construction and maintenance of roads and bridges will exceed $750,000,000, and local revenues, expendable by county and local authorities will swell the highway total to well over $1,300,000,000."

"Won in Clouds" at Rialto Today

A scene from the James Cruze Production, "Old Ironsides," next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"Won in the Clouds," is at the Rialto theatre.

From the opening shot, which finds the modern airplane ready to help an exploration adventure in the vast jungles of darkest Africa, to the final fadeout of the heroine in the arms of the flying ace, "Won in the Clouds" is a gripping thriller.

Al Wilson has many dare-devil escapades in this picture and has by far outdone any of his previous productions. He pilots the entire action of the story to the most spectacular and dramatic climax ever seen in a picture of this type.

In rotation of ordinary crops producing reasonably good yields it may be counted that 20 pounds of available phosphoric acid, equivalent to 125 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate, is required annually per acre. It often pays well to use a larger quantity at first to create a reserve. Where manure is used it may be counted that each ton supplies about five pounds of phosphoric acid and a correspondingly smaller quantity applied in the form of commercial fertilizer.
