Ye Smudge Pot... By Arthur Perry

The merry carolling, and cheery whistling, and gay laughter of citizens, tripping gaily to the courthouse, to pungle up their taxes, is over.

According to a scientist, the earthworm is the greatest living friend of the farmer... (Chico Enterprise.) The scientist has never heard of the sr. seedsender from Oregon.

According to the Pendleton East Oregonian, this state has a resident who can chop 50 sticks of chewing gum at a sitting, stowing away the same in the aperture beneath his snout. The Oregon City man who can squander a billiard ball in the same cavity, is jealous.

Rosalie Burton has returned to her work after a siege of the chicken pox... (Klamath Falls News.) It does not seem like much to work after.

Leon Harris is the bouncing Grandpa of a proud baby, causing him to poke out his gold nugget watch chain a trifle further.

The Gashviki have started hiding their wishbones with fur neckpieces, and not giving a dang if they are between the sun and a dark doorway.

Over 1000 head of folks were rounded up in the ball park yesterday, when they could just as well been out on the highways getting their necks broke, or up to their hip pockets in Rogue river fishing.

WHAT PRICE HYPOCRITES? (Salem Capital-Journal.) The Washington Daily News announces editorially that it proposes henceforth "to pick up fish as news."

The horse chestnut trees in front of the Univ. stadium campus are flowering, and have sprouted colts.

The nifty go-cart of the Hillcrest orchard was seen on the Main Stem this am. It is the predecessor of the span of trim-looking motor who formerly functioned in the same capacity for Reg Parsons, and the change is not for the better.

There was no culture in the imbroglio betwixt the supreme court jurist and the attorney and legislator. The latter called the jurist a member of the shark family, and the jurist retaliated with a wild swing. The traditions of the law could have been maintained had the lawyer said:

"Your honor, for whom I hold the highest respect, is irrelevant, immaterial, out of order and a polecat."

To which the judge should have replied: "Learned and eminent counsel is talking through his hat, and is off his trolley, and the court will issue a writ to smack down the ears and dust the pants of counsel. The motion to strike is granted, without prejudice."

The citizen who dug up two dozen panoles Saturday for dandelions, is able to be out.

ITALIA LANDS AT SPITZBERGEN BASE... KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 7. (AP)—The dirigible Italia was safe at her base today awaiting favorable weather as final preparations were made for a series of trips over unexplored wastes of the Arctic and to the North Pole itself.

Despite extremely unfavorable weather conditions, General Umberto Nobile brought the airship from Yadsve, Norway, some 700 miles across the Arctic ocean, to Kings Bay in 16 1/2 hours and made her fast to the mooring mast of the base ship Clitta di Mialano. A high wind has been blowing and the dirigible was forced to stay anchored to the ship for many hours since it was impossible to pull her in the hangar used by the Norge, when General Nobile flew from there over the North Pole in 1926.

THE SITUATION IN INDIANA

THERE is little chance of Secretary Hoover winning the primaries in Indiana tomorrow. His opponent, Senator Watson, has one of the most effective political machines in the country, at his command, and his victory is practically certain. Only an overwhelming defeat will have any serious effect upon the Hoover campaign, and even such an outcome would still make the Secretary of Commerce a heavy favorite to secure the Kansas City nomination.

For a victory for Watson in Indiana would merely be another favorite son gesture. No one, not even the Indiana senator himself, believes for a moment he has the slightest chance of securing the nomination. As a practical matter, his victory would be valuable merely for trading purposes.

Of course there is an outside chance that Hoover will win. He has had some newspaper support, there is considerable sentiment, particularly among the women voters, in favor of defeating Watson and thus repudiating the scandal and corruption which has marked his political control.

Such an outcome, of course, would simply end the competition as far as the Republican nominee is concerned. In fact, as Mark Sullivan observed in the Portland Oregonian yesterday, not only will the anti-Hoover men have to win Indiana tomorrow by a tremendous majority, but everything from now until the Kansas City convention, must break equally well for them, if they are to defeat the man who is unquestionably the popular choice of the rank and file of the Republican party.

In other words, if Hoover is very badly beaten tomorrow, his prudent supporters will defer any celebration of his victory, in June, as at least premature; but if he polls a large vote, or if he wins, they will regard his nomination at Kansas City as a foregone conclusion.

A FINE START

WITH its victory over the House of David, the Medford baseball team opens the season most auspiciously. A great deal of hard work and patient practice under skillful direction were necessary to make a victory over such a formidable aggregation possible. The members of the team are to be congratulated upon their success, and have certainly demonstrated they deserve the hearty support of the people of Medford, in their effort to place the great national game upon the permanent and prosperous basis, its importance in the world of sport, justifies.

QUILL POINTS

You can't put new wine in old bottles. But you can catch just as many suckers by using old labels.

Spring is here. Put up blue-bird and wren houses; the sparrows must have some place to build.

Pain in the forehead means eye-strain; pain at the back of the head means the bootlegger is a liar.

Science knows everything except the reason a young man who impresses the family always seems a "pill" to daughter.

Suds: The mass of bubbles atop a schooner or a wash tub. Obsolete in both cases.

"If the peasant of Italy had an idea, it would crack his head wide open." Oh, well; he'd get it cracked anyway.

Perhaps the ostrich really is silly enough to hide its head. A man thinks he has a 34-inch waist when he wears his belt four inches below the convex.

If the town has lost a few thousand on grand opera or a Chautauqua, you are safe in assuming that it calls itself the Athens of America.

"Correct this sentence: 'Everything I selected,' said the cafeteria patrons, 'tasted as good as it looked.'"

U. S. IMMIGRATION POLICY FLAYED BY M. E. MISSIONARY

KANSAS CITY, May 7. (AP)—The immigration policy of the United States as regards exclusion was assailed and the admission of all nationals on a quota basis was urged in a resolution adopted by the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here today. The resolution, presented by Dr. E. Stanley Jones, missionary to India, gave hearty approval to the restriction of immigration but condemned the exclusion of some nationals as an "un-Christian policy." It asked "all Christian citizens to unite in removing, as soon as possible, such legislation as restricts immigration and the right of citizenship on the ground of race and color."

HOW RESPIRATORY INFECTION HAPPENS

A score of familiar diseases, in fact the sicknesses that require the greater part of the time of practicing physicians everywhere, were listed in our last talk as common respiratory infections. With little or no encouragement a person is coming down with any of these diseases readily.

assumption is warrantable it is assumption is warrantable it is equally warrantable for the ailing one to assume that his particular "cold" is not communicable—for our medical and health authorities still teach some such thing. We know now that most of these respiratory infections—for instance measles or scarlet fever—are most communicable in the few days before the rash or fever develops. In view of this fact, and the fact that no one can tell with reasonable certainty just what the nature of such an illness is going to be, in the early stage, I propose that the term "cold" as indicating disease or indisposition be discarded from the language and the term "cri" (pronounced kree) be adopted to signify any such common respiratory infection in the period of incubation or before the nature of the illness becomes manifest. The term "cri" is coined from the initial letters of the phrase "common respiratory infection," and it is a good honest word for folk who would do as they would be done by, in this matter of preventing the spread of disease.

Eye-lash Tonic My eyelashes have been falling out a lot lately and I have been putting petroleum jelly on them, as I have been told this will make them grow. Would it be injurious to the eyes if some of this petroleum jelly happened to get into them? (E. G. B.) Answer—If the petroleum jelly is sterile (germ free) it is harmless to the eyes, but I don't believe it will make the lashes grow. No known remedy will do so. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

Brisbane's Today

(Continued from Page One) is because he listens. He might as well. In fact, he must. Barbers and hairdressers have strange power, and history proves it. Louis the Eleventh, greatest king of France, made his barber, Olivier Le Dain, his confidant, almost his prime minister. And the deepest secrets, and most audacious lies, about Wall Street and profits made there are confided to barbers. It seems to be part of human nature. An unfortunate inventor made a lying machine like a sea shell, flow half a mile and was his—He had invented a gull's methods carefully, and that was his mistake. Man's business is not to imitate, but to improve on nature, and he does it. Radio is quicker than a flying pigeon, and the swift deer, pushing himself along with four-

BEING POLITE

When I go riding on my van I wear a beaming face; and I salute my fellowman with Chesterfieldian grace; with me the fierce, combative plan has never part or place. If some on tries to hog the pike, I let him go ahead, I do not call on Pete or Mike to strike the critter dead, peace is the hort of thing I like, and strife's the thing I dread. If there's a little accident in which some paint is marred, I do not cuss the other gent with language hot and hard. I pay him for the fender bent, and for the cushion tarred. I'd rather pay ten dollars down, though I am not to blame, than paw the earth and wear a frown, and roast the jaw are lame, or summon peelers from the town to play their lawful game. I'd rather hand a man an X than argue for a day, if by his careless he wrecks the bumper on my dray; I'd rather please a man than vex, so pleaseant things I say. And I have found the other way, on finding me so blamed polite, eschewing language vile; and he will think a caustic flight or worth not worth his while. If I were otherwise than meek, and patient and serene, if I denounced him as a freak, if I de-hood base and mean, we'd doubtless wrangle for a week, exchanging swats, I ween. But I avoid all kinds of strife as through the world I go, as with my aunt and niece and wife I journey to and fro; and so I have a peaceful life that has small taint of woe.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—Bull traders launched another offensive on the New York Stock exchange today and "bears" rushed to cover as prices soared $2 to nearly $15 a share. So great was the volume of trading that the ticker fell nearly 45 minutes behind the market by early afternoon. More than three score individual issues were listed to new peak prices for the year or longer. There were no new developments over the week-end to explain the tremendous volume of buying. The brisk demand for such high grade issues as American Telephone, International Telephone, a bank Note, American Can, Canadian Pacific and Jersey Central, all of which advanced 3 to 12 points to new peak prices, was widely construed as an indication of a large investment demand. Banks called about $15,000,000 in loans by early afternoon, but there appeared to be a large surplus of funds available at the normal rate of 5 per cent on call loans. Electric Auto Lite soared nearly 14 points to a new peak at 29 3/4. American Bank Note extended its gain to nearly nine points by touching 137. Canadian Pacific climbed 7 1/2 points to 221, the highest price in 12 years, and Jersey Central sold at 37 1/2 for the first time since 1912. General Motors ran into heavy profit taking after creating a new peak at 210, but held within a few points of that figure. The closing was strong. New favorites loomed up in late dealing, including the American Tobacco, International Combustion Engineering, Purdy Baking, in which advances ranged from four to seven points. The airplane stocks took a new flight to higher territory and there was further accumulation of "blue chips" DuPont selling above 400. Total sales approximated 4,500,000 shares.
