Local and Personal

Fresh home-grown strawberries from the valley were the outstanding feature of the public market this morning, and the small supply that was on hand was quickly sold out. Although the season is considerably advanced, fresh vegetables are still scarce at the market and it is not known how soon they will be in stock in sufficient quantities. However, there was a good supply of mustard greens today. Home-baked and cooked foodstuffs were also in stock as well as bouquets of flowers.

JUDGE SAWYER OF BEND VISITOR IN CITY TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Sawyer and C. W. Wanzer of Bend spent Friday night and part of today in Medford, en route home from an auto trip to the coast.

Mr. Sawyer is owner and publisher of the Bend Bulletin, is president of the State Editorial association and a member of the State Highway commission. He made the trip to the coast to inspect the work on the Roosevelt highway and was accompanied by Mrs. Sawyer, C. W. Wanzer and also W. E. Chandler of Grants Pass. The latter two are highway division engineers.

After driving over the Roosevelt highway, the party returned over the Redwood highway to Grants Pass, will go from here to Klamath Falls over the Green Springs route and from there to Bend on The Dalles-California highway.

Mr. Sawyer is very enthusiastic about the highways in Oregon and urges everyone to vote against the $5 auto license this fall, as the passage of the same will mean that all road work not having money appropriated, will be stopped.

NOTED MONOLOGIST MAKES GREAT HIT ON LOCAL RADIO

The dry humor of Bill Nye and the homely, appealing verse of James Whitcomb Riley, were recreated for the large radio audience thruout the valley by William Lee Greenleaf, famous monologist, featured star of the Atwater Kent hour arranged by James Stevens, for KMED, the Mail Tribune station this morning from 10 to 11.

Greenleaf, who formerly starred with such well known stage celebrities as Florence Roberts and Katherine Kidder, and who for many years had held the reputation of one of the leading monologists in the United States, has never before this morning invaded the radio field. The success which awaits him in this new field, and the appreciation of Medford and Rogue River valley listeners of his selections, were evidenced in the number of phone calls which came into the People's Electric company of Medford, the Jordon Electric company of Ashland and the Battery Electric company of Central Point, Atwater Kent dealers who sponsored the program, following the recital.

Mr. Greenleaf's numbers this morning included "Tradin' Joe" and "That Old Sweetheart of Mine" by James Whitcomb Riley, and "The Tooth Maker's Shop" and "The Grammatical Boy" by Bill Nye.

Other artists on the program were: James Stevens in "Songs My Mother Taught Me" by Dvorak and "Mother O' Mine" by Tours; George Johnson, young tenor, introduced to the radio public two weeks ago by Stevens, who sang "Mother Macree" by Ball, and "Little Mother of Mine" by Burleigh; Mrs. Roberta Bebb sang, "Song of Songs" by Moya and "Hills of Home" by Fox; and Karl Moldrem, violinist who played "Sohn Der Haide" by Keller Bells and "Frasquita" by Lehar.

Obituary

LONG.—Frank Long, 78 ears old, a well known and respected resident of Emigrant creek, passed away Friday, May 11, at the Community hospital in Ashland, where he had been a patient for 11 days. He recently had several teeth removed, in the hope of regaining his health, but the shock of the operation was too much for his weakened condition, as he had been a semi-invalid for many months.

Deceased was born in Arkansas, February 2, 1850. He was a widower and lived with his only child, a son Claude. He leaves two brothers and two sisters, Mrs. Rebecca Smith of Ashland and Mrs. Susan Brown of Redmond, Ore.

Burial will be in Mountainview cemetery in Ashland, Sunday at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Jordan was born at Busy, Iowa, October 21, 1867, and as Lucy Ann Bennett was married to Francis M. Jordan at Marysville, Iowa September 12, 1885, and to this union were born two daughters, Mrs. Frank Craig, Klamath Falls, Ore., Mrs. Fred A. Andersen, of Dunsmuir, California, who survive her, besides the husband, Francis M., and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Jordan was a social member of the Artisan lodge and the Methodist church of Busy, Iowa. The family came to Oregon in 1887 and to Medford in 1889. The remains are at the Perl Funeral Home and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

STRAWBERRIES IN FOOTS CREEK NOW RIPENING

FOOTS CREEK, May 11.—Strawberries already show color. Another week of warm weather will start berry picking. Jim Childers has about five acres all in good condition. Other people have small beds, so berries will be abundant.

The children under Dorothy Lamb Marie Biles as leaders will now try to see how many new pupils they can secure for the Sunday school. The contest is to last until children's day, the losing side to treat the winners. Mrs. Ora Smith was appointed advisor and helper.

Mrs. W. R. Lamb is proving herself an extra good song leader and helper in our Sunday school. She is giving particular attention to the children and young folks and last, but by no means least, John Ferry has given us a year of faithful service as pianist and also teacher of the boys' class in Sunday school.

Mrs. W. R. Lamb visited friends in Grants Pass Wednesday afternoon and night. She was entertained with treatre party and was brought home Thursday morning.

Summer seems to have arrived at one big jump. Cattle and horses are growing fat and sleek on the range.

Mr. Norton got a steel splinter in his thumb and was seriously threatened with blood poisoning for several days.

Our Sunday school decided by a formal vote not to have a Daily Vacation Bible school. Our superintendent, Mrs. Lance, has been having the children learn Psalms, the Beatitudes, etc., for more than a year. Summer is the only time parents have the help of their children. And, with milking, gardening, picking berries, caring for the chickens and calves, and household work, there are no idle children on Foots Creek.

Foots Creek school will close today with the usual big dinner and a Mother's day program. The teachers are giving several days next week for final reviews and examinations.

Sunday, the 13th, there will be a Mother's day program in connection with the Sunday school. Our teachers have offered to give the best of their program that day.

We all rejoiced to see Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bates in Sunday school after an absence of about six weeks.

Miss Emma Gannyaw is slowly coming back to health at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Lance. Her friends and pupils in Medford are remembering her with postcards, while Foots Creek people are calling and endeavoring to help brighten the long tedious days of convalescence.

ROOSEVELT SCHOOL PROGRAM ENJOYED

One of the most enjoyable programs arranged for the observation of Music Week, was held at Roosevelt school yesterday afternoon, when a large gathering of the members and their friends crowded the auditorium of the school. A talk on the value of Music Week, and an outline of what has been accomplished in school music in the city during the past year, was given by Miss Esther Church, superintendent of music at the local high school.

Other features of the program included a difficult and ambitious piano solo by Dorothy Gore, which elicited considerable admiring comment from the audience, an enjoyable story told by Richard Thierolf, and a piano solo by Janice Shreve.

Mrs. A. R. Clement, past president of the organization passed over the duties of her office to Mrs. Dolph Phipps, new president for the ensuing year. The splendid work accomplished by Mrs. Clement during the past year, received a vote of thanks and appreciation from the members, and the prospects of the next 12 months look equally bright under the capable direction of Mrs. Phipps.

News of the Screen

"We Americans."

Stage plays which depend on dramatic situations and not smart-cracking lines make better motion picture material than any other realm of literature available for screen presentation, according to Edward Sloman, noted director of "We Americans," which will open at Hunt's Craterian theater tomorrow.

"We Americans" is from the stage play of the same name by Milton Herbert Gropper and Max Seigel. It deals with the drama and the humor of a foreign-born family which has migrated to America.

The cast of "We Americans" includes George Sidney, Patsy Ruth Miller, George Lewis, Eddie Phillips, Beryl Mercer, Albert Gran, Daisy Belmore, Flora Bramley and many others.

Ken Maynard at Rialto.

Speed, action, thrills and romance, they're all in "The Canyon of Adventure," the Ken Maynard feature western at the Rialto theater today. Maynard seems to increase his daring and breakneck riding stunts with each picture and in this, his latest, he out-rides, ropes and shoot anything done previously.

RABBIT PACKING PLANT APPEARS TO BE ASSURED

Medford may have a rabbit packing house in a short time if plans, which were discussed by 70 southern Oregon rabbit breeders here last night, materialize. The plant would be large and would provide a market for a large tonnage of rabbit meat every month.

Plans have progressed so far that a committee of local rabbit breeders has interested the American Rabbit association of Los Angeles and its president, Ezra Meek, will arrive here next month, following his return from a tour of eastern states, to formulate construction plans for the plant in Medford. Five tons of dressed rabbits or 10 tons of live rabbits must be provided monthly to keep the plant in operation and the supply will necessarily come from a large area, which would include territory south of Eugene and all of northern California.

The meeting was addressed by P. M. Lowe of Ashland, who explained how similar methods in California have returned large profits to the growers.
