BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU FAVORS AUCTION MEASURE OF SHELL SHOCKS

The proposed ordinance to regulate future public jewelry auction sales in Medford, introduced at the special city council meeting last Tuesday night at the request of some of the local jewelers, whose attorney, Chas. Reames, drew it up, and which is practically a copy of a like ordinance in force in Portland, will come up for consideration at next Tuesday night's council meeting. It carries an emergency clause, and hence if passed will not go into effect for 30 days.

The ordinance has the endorsement of the Better Business Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' association.

A communication to the mayor and city council by the Better Business Bureau, signed by J. D. Russell, chairman, R. E. Strang, Fred Heath and Wm. F. Isaacs reads as follows:

"It has come to the attention of the Better Business Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, that there will be introduced an ordinance regulating the sale of jewelry at public auctions, and the bureau has been asked to express its opinion on such an ordinance.

"It would appear that the ordinance as drawn, would be a means of protection to the people of this city, by regulating the importation of stock, other than the regular stock of the store, for the purpose of the auction. Further, it would prevent misrepresentation of quality, price or genuineness of the goods auctioned, by having each article sold bear a tag descriptive of that article, and providing a penalty for the misrepresentation of goods.

"It is for the purpose of protecting the citizens of this community, as well as the business men, through the controlling of solicitations, establishment of better practices, that this better business bureau is organized, and this proposed ordinance would come within the scope of this bureau. Therefore the Better Business Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce endorses the above measure and recommends it to your consideration."

MURDER TALE OF VETERAN FANTASY

1928 ANGELES, May 12.—(AP)—The confessions of James William Huff to the murder of a girl in Indiana and a youth here, disclosed by investigating officials late today as delusions resulting probably from shell shock and five wounds during the World war. Huff's confessions were denied in detail by his wife this afternoon and sheriff's deputies said that Huff made a partial confession a month ago which differed materially from his latest. Huff, 37, is in the county jail serving a short term for petty larceny, confessed because of an asserted stricken conscience that he fatally poisoned 17-year-old Ruth Little at Summitville, Ind., in 1919. He then confessed to poisoning James L. Carroll, his 18-year-old brother-in-law here three years ago.

The latter murder, Huff declared, was committed by poisoning also, and with the aid of his wife, Emma J. Huff, to obtain $2500 life insurance on Carroll's life which was later found to have lapsed. He said he poisoned out breath was fed to Carroll.

"It would appear that the ordinance as drawn, would be a means of protection to the people of this city, by regulating the importation of stock, other than the regular stock of the store, for the purpose of the auction. Further, it would prevent misrepresentation of quality, price or genuineness of the goods auctioned, by having each article sold bear a tag descriptive of that article, and providing a penalty for the misrepresentation of goods.
