Tunney Warns the Fat. Asia's Ill Wind. Brands and Chain Stores. Here We Get Action.

(Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Journal, Inc.)

Theodore Roosevelt, "in the middle of the road of our life," which is Dante's way of saying that he was fifty, trained with a prize fighter to reduce weight and increase health. He wore heavy sweaters, jogged mile after mile along country roads in hot weather.

He was warned in this column that such "health training" would weaken his heart, lower blood resistance.

He died a few weeks later.

Gene Tunney, a fine combination of brain and body, begins training tomorrow for a fight worth, to him, a million dollars.

He could run twenty-five miles the first day because of his youth and strength. But Tunney knows how gradually power and energy must be built up, even in youth.

And the first day he will walk only seven miles, and SLOWLY.

Gradually he will increase the distance by one mile a day and VERY gradually increase pace.

Having exercised in the morning, he will exercise no more that day.

Fat, middle-aged men planning to get thin and strong in a hurry may learn something from Tunney.

Asia's ill-wind blows good news to cotton farms.

Japan starts war with China, 25,000 men are sent, then 20,000 more are ordered, with airplanes, fighting tanks and chemical equipment.

Japanese soldiers wear uniforms of khaki. Khaki is made of cotton. Cotton went up $2 a bale Saturday.

China doesn't object to civil war, but attack from the outside. North and south China, like big oxen, quarreling in a pasture, don't hurt each other much. They don't like the Japanese wolf to snap at their heels and jump down their throats. "Can't you stop this?" China asks the League of Nations. That league, like "Brip'er Tar-baby," says nothing.

The league is a wonderful force until war starts.

Russia, near neighbor, and once beaten by Japan, says factually exists between Japan and China, and France and Britain, disregarding the League of Nations, approve of Japanese attack.

Quite probable. France and Britain have big interests in China and would view with approval Japanese plans to make the Chinese get back to business.

This is for business men, buyers of stocks and advertisers. Ask yourself what effect powerful chain-store organizations will have on "branded" goods.

The chain store is powerful enough, in some cases, to ignore public demand for branded goods, of established value.

Will increased and dominating advertising force chain stores to carry the brands advertised, or will chain stores, in spite of advertising, regulate wholesale prices of branded goods to suit themselves? Isn't it time for owners of important national brands to have their own chain stores?

The importance of this question is emphasized by the announcement that a new national system of advertising is planned and hopes to

LOWDEN'S NOT KEEN FOR PLACE

Republican Candidate Says He Got in Race for Presidency Only to Help the Farmer—If He Fails, His Troubles Will Be Over—Denies Any Agreement With Dawes.

Troubles Will Be Over
 WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—"If I'm not nominated, then my troubles will be all over. If I am nominated I will not have done anything to increase my difficulties," said Governor Lowden before the senate investigating committee this afternoon.

Asked whether money had been sent into states, Lowden said most of it had been spent from the Chicago headquarters. No efforts were made in California, he said, adding: "I've looked upon that as Hoover's state."

Lowden said Thomas P. Moffatt is the head of the New York organization which has headquarters in the Pennsylvania hotel. He knew nothing about its finances but said it had "modest" headquarters with one stenographer whom he had been told had volunteered her services.

The presidential candidate told the committee that Buck could give details of the financing of the campaign. Buck will be called later.

Senator McMaster, republican of South Dakota, said he had heard that the Lowden manager in South Dakota had stated that he had expended only $124 in Lowden's behalf, but the witness said he knew nothing of that. Some workers had been sent into the field at different times, he said, but they were not paid.

Replying to Senator Bratton, Lowden said that William H. Crawford once had been employed as a publicity man with headquarters at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York City.

"Those headquarters have been closed," he added. "They were maintained by Mr. Buck, who can tell you all about it. Mr. Crawford was employed—no, I understand he was paid no salary—to do some publicity work."

"Who do you know of the Lowden-for-President headquarters in the Bedford building in Chicago?" Bratton asked.

"I know little of it, but I suppose it is working in concert with the regular organization."

Asked about Ira Marshall, head of that club, Lowden said he was a young publisher who owned a chain of newspapers down state in Illinois. "He came to see me some months ago," the witness said. "I am sure you will find that he is serving without compensation."

Bratton showed the witness a paper sent out by the publisher club asking editors to agree to support Lowden editorially. Lowden said he knew nothing about it.

He told Bratton that he did not have an organization in Nebraska and that he knew nothing about the contesting delegations in Mississippi and Louisiana.

"Did you stay out of Indiana as a result of any agreement with Senator Watson as to an ultimate disposition of delegations at Kansas City?" asked Senator Karkley.

"I don't know anything about that; you will have to ask Senator Buck about that. I entered into no agreement."

"Didn't you authorize any?"

"No, sir."

"You stayed out of all states where there were favorite son candidates?"

"Yes, sir."

"Was that out of courtesy or because of an agreement about delegations?"

"Out of courtesy, largely."

"Did you send any money into Missouri?"

"Not that I know of."

He explained that the convention system of selecting delegates was in effect in Missouri and that Hoover was contesting for the delegation there.

"Did you get any delegates?"

"Yes. I have the four delegates at large and a majority of the other delegates."

"Do you know of any money sent to anyone in Missouri?" Barkley pursued.

"I don't know of any. Mr. Buck could say. If he did it was only a small amount."

"Who would the money have been sent to?"

"James Finch is really the leader of our forces in Missouri. He is the president of the Young Men's Republican organization in that state."

Barkley then wanted to know whether Lowden had any agreement with Vice-President Dawes to support the vice-president in the event that he himself could not get the nomination.

"No, sir," Lowden said. "We never have discussed it even remotely. Of course, everybody

GIRL PLANS ARCTIC AIR FLIGHT

Martana Hays, 25, student at a Tulsa, Okla., airport, is planning an expedition into the Arctic by plane. She hopes, by using both boat and planes, to follow the McKenizey river, in Canada, down to where it enters the Arctic ocean. The University of Oklahoma has been asked to furnish a biologist for the trip.

SUNDAY SCHOOL IS SCENE OF A FATAL SHOOTING

F. J. Tyrrell, 53, Supt. of Pittsburg Sunday School, Kills Husband of His Stenographer in First Christian Church.

PITTSBURG, May 14.—(AP)—Fred J. Tyrrell, 53, superintendent of the Sunday school of the First Christian church in Munnhall, a suburb, was in the Allegheny county jail today, charged with murder.

Just as Sunday school was about to convene, three shots rang out in the auditorium and Phillip F. Clark, 35, of Homestead, for whose wife Tyrrell was attorney in a divorce suit, dropped dead. Mrs. Clark sings in the church choir.

Tyrrell ran from the church and was arrested later in his home.

A year ago Tyrrell filed suit in behalf of Mrs. Hazel Clark for divorce, alleging cruel and barbarous treatment.

Mrs. Clark has worked since in Tyrrell's law office.

Church officials said that Clark had repeatedly requested the resignation of Tyrrell as superintendent, saying he was no fit person for such a position. Because Tyrrell had failed to resign, the police were informed, Clark was lodging charges against Tyrrell with church officials just before the shooting.

About a score of persons were in the church at the time of the shooting. Witnesses said that Clark was talking with John Hannity, a church committeeman, when Tyrrell left the pulpit, where he had been preparing lessons for the classes, walking to within five feet of Clark, pulled a pistol from his pocket and fired.

Warning those present, "keep out of this or you'll get shot too," he rushed to the door, witnesses said, and drove away in his automobile.

After his arrest Tyrrell refused to make a statement. Police were informed that Clark had several times accused Tyrrell of being a "home breaker."

STEEL NERVED MOTOR RACER IS FIRE SUICIDE

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—(AP)—A veteran and steel-nerved racing car pilot, who, during a career of many years on the fastest roads of the country laughed at death and lived a life of chance, today was dead, sheriff's deputies said, because he had become excited over a trivial brush fire on his mountain cabin site.

Dave Lewis, who jockeyed speeded automobiles with Barney Oldfield, Teddy Tetzlaff, Eddie Rickenbacker, and others of the old school, was the reported suicide.

Although his relatives scoffed at the report of officers that he had lost his head and killed himself when a brush fire he had started, got out of control, the deputies said they were convinced that the veteran driver had become excited over what he thought he had done and shot himself.

Lewis was 46 years old. He was to have gone to Indianapolis May 23 to drive a newly built Miller racing car in the Memorial day speed classic there.

Death Toll of the Automobile

REDDING, Cal., May 14.—(AP)—Fred A. Williams, 265 East 49th street, Portland, Ore., was killed in an automobile accident near Lamoine yesterday when his machine plunged 200 feet over a grade on the state highway north of that community. The wrecked machine was not discovered until last night.

Williams had been employed on a bridge construction crew at Lamoine. He quit yesterday and was returning to Portland to visit his daughter, Genevieve, when the accident occurred.

BAKER, Ore., May 14.—(AP)—Loren Cresco, 37 Halfway, Ore., died in a local hospital Sunday from injuries received when the automobile in which he was riding early Sunday, went over a grade on the Baker-Cornucopia highway, rolling 80 feet into Powder river.

Virgil Morrison, Ore.'s companion, clutched the branch of an overhanging tree just as the car started down the bank, was wrenched free from the plunging car and escaped with minor injuries.

STATE CAREFUL IN SELECTION OF CHANEY JURY

Bert Anderson, 'The Investigator' and American Legion Figure Prominently in Queries Fired at Jurors—Defense Exhibits Little Interest.

The jury for the trial was sworn in at 4:05 this afternoon and is composed of the following: Geo. H. Icenbauer, Henry Enders, Frank Allen Peffer, C. W. Compston, S. L. Satchwell, Henry Owens, L. O. Howard, Roy Semo, M. M. Kindig, Ben L. Oldman, C. N. Merritt, J. M. Allen.

Opening argument was made for the state by Prosecutor J. N. Johnson.

A tentative jury, subject to challenge of state and defense was secured this afternoon, in the trial of Newton C. Chaney, district attorney charged with misapplication of prohibition enforcement funds of this county, the specific amount involved in the present case being $310.

They are: George H. Icenbauer, Ashland; Henry G. Enders, Ashland; Henry Owens, Eagle Point; Thomas A. Swem, Jr., Medford; F. A. Peffer, Medford; L. O. Howard, Medford; M. R. Harper, Medford; C. W. Conklin, Medford; Percy Lofland, Central Point; W. S. Norton, Rock Point; Chester Applegate, Bellevue; and G. R. Satchwell, Medford.

A. H. Daugherty, Medford, was excused by the defense, and W. S. Norton of Rock Point, drawn in his place.

Theodore Fish, Jr. of Phoenix, was excused by the court, because under cross-examination it developed he was a client of the defendant.

The state will call 12 or 15 witnesses, and the defense eight or ten witnesses, including the district attorney, who will take the stand in his own behalf.

The first witness is expected to take the stand tomorrow morning, after the opening statements of both sides, present indications being that the jury will be completed late this afternoon.

Trial of Newton C. Chaney, district attorney of Jackson county, charged with 11 indictments, was the larceny of public money from the prohibition enforcement fund, began in the circuit court this morning with Judge G. F. Skipworth of Eugene, presiding.

It is expected that the selection of a jury will take the entire day. The state is represented by State Senator B. L. Eddy of Roseburg, father of the bill in the legislature, creating the prohibition fund, and J. N. Johnson of Grants Pass, special prosecutors named by the court. The defense is represented by Attorneys George M. Roberts and Porter J. Neff, who volunteered their services.

Of the 12 men drawn into the jury, five had been examined by noon, and one of these, George H. Wendt of Jacksonville, had been excused because of a fixed bias.

The defense queries to the prospective jurors were commonplace, but those of the state, covered every phase. Each juror was asked if he was a member of the American Legion; if he had received a copy of "The Investigator," a paper issued by the National Prohibition League, of Portland, and mailed to every voter in the county, if he had read any of the communications in local newspapers, written by Bert Anderson, local republican leader; if he was a member of any sportsmen organization, in which Anderson was interested; if he had been interviewed since the return of the indictments by friends of Chaney, and if the fact that Chaney was candidate for re-election at the pending primary election would influence him.

The first 12 men drawn were George B. Icenbauer, Ashland; Henry G. Enders, Ashland; George B. Wendt, Jacksonville; Thomas Swem, Medford; F. A. Peffer, Medford; M. R. Harper, Medford; C. W. Conklin, Medford; Percy Lofland, Medford; W. H. Daugherty, Medford; Theodore Fish, Talent; Vern Van Dyke, Medford; and G. R. Satchwell, Medford.

E. O. Heinrich, criminologist and nemesis of the DeAutremont Brothers, in the unravelling of the Siskiyous tunnel murders, occupied a seat at the defense table. He will be the star witness for the defense, giving handwriting evidence.

Luke E. May of Seattle, Wash., and Robert L. Craddock of Portland, will present handwriting evidence for the state.

Despite the keen public interest in the trial, the courtroom was only partially filled at the morning session.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 14.—(AP)—Simon Hochfeld, 79, retired merchant, fell to his death today from a sixth floor window at a hospital, where he was under treatment for asthma.

Death took another well known Portland business man, Fred W. Wagner, who died at a hospital

REPUBLICANS TO HAVE NO CINCH

Former Illinois Governor Sees Hard Fight Ahead—Admits He Has Spent $15,000 for Nomination Campaign—Total Expenditures $64,000.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Frank O. Lowden told the senate campaign funds committee today that about $60,000 had been spent in furthering his candidacy for the republican presidential nomination.

The former governor of Illinois said his receipts totaled $64,700. His personal books showed he had contributed $12,000 to advance his own cause, although he said Clarence F. Buck, acting as his campaign manager, had informed him the contribution was really $15,000.

This discrepancy would be straightened out, he declared, when he could examine his accounts. Lowden said the greater part of the fund had been contributed by the two old friends—Ommer N. Custer of Galesburg, Ill., and Robert D. Clark of Los Angeles, a former resident of Illinois. These two, with Buck, who is a former state senator of Illinois, these two, with Buck, who is a former state senator of Illinois, had been attempting to line up delegates for him.

"There is a voluntary organization in New York," Lowden continued. "They did not even ask my consent. As you gentlemen know, I have not been active, have not even made a political speech, although I have been urged to do so."

The witness said he saw Buck last Friday and received from him a statement of receipts and expenditures down to that time.

"The receipts were $64,700," he said, "and expenditures were a little less than $65,000. He thinks they have enough for the remainder of the campaign. He says I have contributed $15,000 but my books show only $12,500 and I have not been able to straighten out the discrepancy."

"I think Custer and Clark have given the largest part of the total amount."

"At the outset, I adopted the policy that we would not set up organizations in any state unless the republicans of the states were sufficiently aggressive for me to go ahead and conduct the campaign."

"I have felt from the first that the republicans will have a real fight this fall. I think Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky and Senator Bratton, democrat, New Mexico, will agree with me, even if the majority of the committee does not."

"I hope you are right," Barkley said.

"Feeling that way, I've made up my mind that I would not do anything that would militate against my election," Lowden added, pounding the table to emphasize his remarks.

American Girl Golfer Too Much for Mlle. Simons of France in First Round for British Championship—Tee Shots Decisive.

U.S. TROOPS GET READY FOR WAR

4000 U. S. Marines, With 20 Airplanes, 5 Tanks and 5 Field Guns, Prepare to Guard Americans As Chinese Army Advances On Peking—Coolidge Again Appealed To.

SHANGHAI, May 14.—(AP)—Foreign forces prepared to guard the nationals today at the southern (nationalist) troops advanced on Tientsin, 60 miles southeast of Peking, their objective in the nationalist spring drive.

As the southern troops moved north, the nationalist council formally called President Coolidge's attention to the recent clash between southern and Japanese forces in Tientsin and asked the attitude of the United States government "toward this grave situation, created by Japan."

The foreign military commanders would cut Peking off from the sea, and the northern commander, Chang Tso-lin, from his base and headquarters in Manchuria.

The foreign military commanders who have a force of 8600 troops at their disposal, have decided to establish an outpost line on a radius of seven miles from the city. Troops in Tientsin are American troops in Tientsin are Americans who are equipped with 29 airplanes, five tanks and five field guns. One thousand are British, 3000 are French and 600 are Japanese. Most of the Japanese troops have been withdrawn for duty in Tientsin and other Shantung province points.

The foreign preparations were being made in the face of nationalist claims of a victory at Tsang Chow, 50 miles south of Tientsin on the railway leading to Tientsin.

The nationalist protest to the United States followed closely on the heels of the Nanjing protest to the League of Nations claiming that Japan had violated China's integrity and independence.

The nationalists, through the Kuomintang agency, also announced the rejection of Chang Tso-Lin's peace overtures.

It was understood in Tientsin that the Japanese intend to adopt three measures pending the settlement of the Tientsin affair:

First—Occupation and direct operation of the Tientsin-Tsinan railway.

Second—Occupation of the foreign settlement at Tsinan.

Third—Establishment of a neutral zone ten miles wide along the railway and around Tsinan.

Using its heavy artillery, the northern garrison Hai Chi Shien Amoy Island ports until driven off by answering fire. The populace, including foreigners, was panic-stricken. No casualties were reported.

The gunboat was believed to be seeking the Norwegian steamer Vale, which was unloading arms and ammunition for the nationalist forces.

GRANTS PASS, Ore., May 14.—(AP)—The Oregon Caves will be opened tomorrow, May 15, for the summer season. Roads to the caverns are in excellent condition, widening operations having been under way for the past few months. Only a short distance remains to be finished, and the shovel will not be removed until the work is completed. The engineers in charge declare there will be no interference with travel.

H. HOOVER ABANDONS POLITICS FOR FISH

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 14.—(AP)—Breaking away from politics and dismissing the cares of his office for a few days, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover today was trying to lure the wily trout from streams in Lycoming county.

After remaining in this city overnight, after a motor trip from Washington, Mr. Hoover left early for Ogontz lodge near Sellersburg, west of the city. There to remain for a few days as the guest of Jay Cooke of Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—A naval plane piloted by Lieutenant E. R. Buse of Ridley Park, Pa., crashed into the Columbia river today and no trace has been found of the flier.
