

CRATERS TRIP TO DUNSMUIR AND KLAMATH JOYOUS

In the quaint old Castle Crags hotel, nestled in the lofty pines in the Sacramento canyon, O. M. ("Tucson") Selsby and the Dunsmuir Lions club extended the hospitality of northern California to twenty-three Craters from this city Saturday night. Amid boisterous merriment and snappy exchange of wit and satire, the Californians and the Medford excursionists further cemented the economic and social friendship of two great sections, divided only by the Siskiyou and an imaginary border line.

It was a big night and, from the minute the Craters left their private car at Dunsmuir and were whisked to Castle Crags till they returned to their car in "the early hours," there was no let-up in the merriment. It was a joyous, noisy gathering with rapid-fire entertainment throughout the evening, including music and vaudeville stunts.

Vern Vawter, Elk Eruption of the Craters, was toastmaster extraordinary and emphasized the far-reaching advantages of occasional social visits similar to Saturday's affair. The fact that inter-sectional contacts, in a social way, are essential to mutual understanding and successful business relations, was stressed by Mr. Vawter. Henry McGuinness, of the Lions club of Dunsmuir, replied to this opening address and formally welcomed the visitors from Medford. During the dinner served prominent Californians and Craters were called upon including District Attorney Johnson of Siskiyou county; Captain Elmer Kent, of the Dunsmuir traffic squad; Bill Welch, commander of the American Legion post in that city, and Dr. Edwards of San Francisco. Several well known Siskiyou and Shasta county men were on hand for the banquet, among them being Dr. Evans, Herb Edmonds, Dr. Malone, Ted Hawkins, John Young, Elmer Jones, Dr. Pickle, G. A. Hutaff and Dr. Cornish, mayor of Dunsmuir and president of the Lions club of that city.

Following the banquet, an entertainment lasting two hours was held in the lobby of the Castle Crags hotel. Vaudeville entertainers were on hand and there was plenty of fun for everybody. The entire meeting was, in fact, a brilliant success and lists along with the Yreka party of 1925 as one of the best of the Crater club jambories.

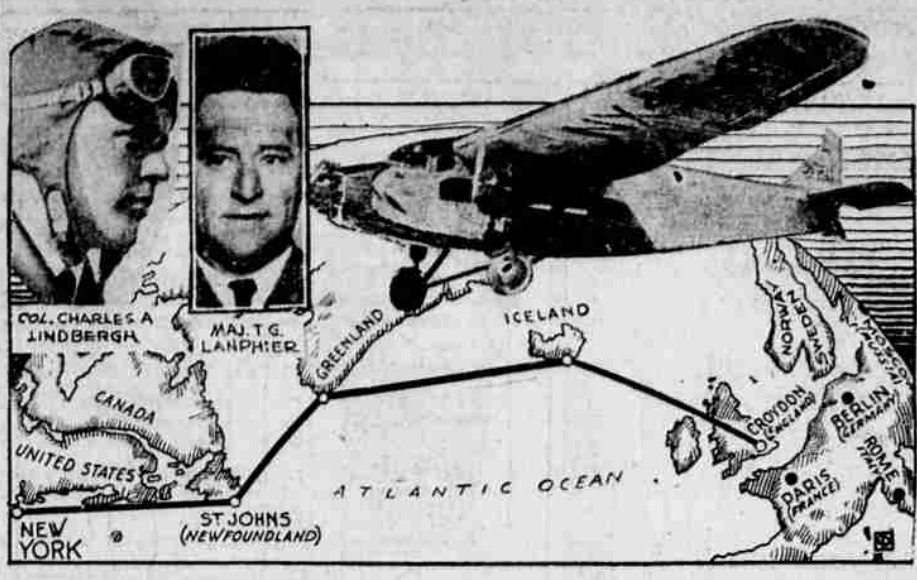

The inter-sectional social gathering at Dunsmuir, however, was but one feature of an interesting and eventful three-day good-will tour of the Craters. On Friday the members of the organization journeyed to Klamath Falls to take part in the Great Northern celebration. It was there that the Medfordites worked up plenty of enthusiasm for the Dunsmuir visit the following day.

Aldy Anderson and his mighty Wurlitzer, with a hand-picked aggregation of Crater songsters, entertained the celebration crowds on the streets of Klamath Falls, and Horace Bromley, Heinie Fluhrer and a few other Medford "athletes" gave the Klamathites their conception of the Bunion derby. It was a "dead heat." It was a "tough" night for the Craters, and Saturday morning's casualty list bore the names of L. H. Walther, J. J. Huether and Abe Cunningham. The injuries, however, were of a minor nature and the victims continued the trip to Dunsmuir the following afternoon.

After a highly eventful trip to Dunsmuir, H. L. Bromley, of the Copco News Reel, and Heinie Fluhrer, camera man for the Fluhrer Events, secured some exceptional "shots" in which Earl Gaddis, Jerry Jerome, U. S. Armstrong and a few of the Craters, together with Seattle and San Francisco talent, starred.

The Craters who participated in the good-will tour of the Crater club were Vernon Vawter, J. J. Huether, Jerry Jerome, Roy L. Walther, C. C. Lemmon, Carl Tengwald, Earl Gaddis, Earl Cole, Horace Bromley, E. B. Walther, Phil Lowe, Bert Orr, Andy Anderson, A. S. Rosenbaum, U. S. Armstrong, Henry Fluhrer, George Gates, A. B. Cunningham, Walter Dunlap, Johnny Reed, Paul MacDonald, Cole Holmes, Jack Thompson, Hob Deuel and Herb Grey. It was, beyond doubt, one of the outstanding trips in the history of the Craters and, in the words of the popular song, "The tour is ended, but the memory lingers on."

LINDBERGH AND LANPHIER PLAN JUNE SEA FLIGHT

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Major Thomas G. Lanphier, commandant at Selfridge Field, Michigan, are said to be planning a flight across the Atlantic ocean in June in a Ford tri-motored plane for the purpose of charting a course for future transatlantic air service. Plans are reported to call for stops at Labrador, Greenland and Iceland en route to Croydon Field, England, followed by a tour of European and Asiatic countries, including Russia.

Bride and Groom Take Plane Trip Over Crater Lake

A trip around Crater Lake in an airplane would be thrilling adventure at any time, but on one's honeymoon it seemed almost too good to be true, according to Mr. and Mrs. Phillips Bannion, young couple of San Francisco, who left Medford at 11 o'clock this morning in a plane for the well known scenic wonder.

Mr. and Mrs. Bannion, who were married in the southern city the last of the week, arrived in Medford yesterday and were entertained last night by Robert and Laurence Duff, former schoolmates of Mr. Bannion at Santa Clara college, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Duff, 333 Jackson street. The Bannions will remain here until the end of the week, taking in the various scenic points surrounding Medford.

HURRY HOME DOG, OR YOUR PET DOG WILL BE SPOILED

Unless Dr. Frederick G. Thayer gets home within a month or so from Tulare university, near New Orleans, where he has been taking a special course in eye, ear, nose and throat since last September, he will find Skipper, his pet water spaniel, whom he left in charge of Colonel C. G. Thomson, all gone to the dogs.

When Doc and Mrs. Thayer departed for Louisiana last fall, Skipper was one of the most sensitive, active and intelligent dogs on the Pacific coast, but he has become one of the most pampered, lazy canines, due to his having been petted by the colonel, who indulges his every whim and is fond of showing off his tricks and alleged intelligence. Mrs. Thomson and the Thomson boys are very kind to Skipper, but conservatively treat him as a dog should be, to retain his self-respect, and not make him think he is the greatest dog in the United States.

So deteriorated has Doc's dog become that Colonel Thomson now calls him Skip. The canine pet still does his tricks, but in a perfunctory, don't-bother-me-any-more way, instead of with pep and joy as before his master left him. The scroot sits up and begs for food, which the colonel thinks is wonderful, and performs several other similar tricks, which his dotting master-in-law also marvels at.

All of which is preparatory to stating that Dr. and Mrs. Thayer will not start for home on May 1, as previously planned, and will not arrive back in Medford until about June 1st. A letter received from Dr. Thayer today told that he will continue his studies until May 15th, and then he and Mrs. Thayer will leave for home, where he will resume his practice, stopping at Chicago for a week or so, en route.

ASHLAND

The council room on the second floor of the city hall has been newly finished throughout. A platform and two small rooms have been built and new furniture and linoleum in harmony with the decorations have been installed.

The Women's chorus of the Southern Oregon Normal school gave a half hour of song program at the normal school Sunday afternoon between 4:30 and 5 o'clock. Quite a number of students and townspeople enjoyed the singing under the direction of Miss Leona G. Marsters, of the music department.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Harner of Nevada, Mo., Mrs. George R. Veros of San Francisco, and Mrs. J. L. Harner of Ashland, left by auto from Ashland Saturday morning for California. Mrs. Riveros will stop at her home in San Francisco, while the others will proceed to the Harner home at Nevada, where Mrs. Harner, Sr., will visit her son and family.

Mrs. Roy Hessebauer, in company with Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Barnes, made a trip to Hill, Calif., Friday evening to see Buster Owens, Mrs. Hessebauer's son, who had met with a serious accident in a logging camp.

On Friday, May 11, the local car registration bureau registered 66 cars passing through Ashland from other states.

Mrs. J. D. Goble of Seattle, Delphian society state organizer, visited in Ashland Saturday and attended the luncheon given in her honor by the Ashland Delphians at the Lathia Springs hotel.

G. W. Benedict on Mountain avenue visited at the Wagner Creek school Friday. An afternoon school program was given under the direction of John Kern, principal, and his daughter, Miss Genevieve, who are neighbors of Mr. Benedict.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel Pugh of Los Angeles were called to Ashland to attend the funeral of Mr. Pugh's father, Ithamar Pugh, who died in this city a few days ago. The funeral was held Friday at the Baptist church with Rev. Chas. E. Dunham in charge. Mr. and Mrs. Pugh are to remain here for a few days before returning to California.

E. E. Phelps has returned to Ashland after a brief trip by automobile to southern California, where he visited his daughter, Mrs. Blanche Raymond, at Mountain View. Mr. Phelps also visited his daughter, Mrs. A. B. Funk, at San Bernardino, and her husband, Mr. Phelps is glad to get back to Ashland where he has a position at Wolcott's grocery on East Main street.

The White House grocery is the scene of a housecleaning and improvements, including a coat of paint over the outside of the building.

Kendrick Watson of Ashland went to Medford for a short visit Friday.

Several of the Ashland churches observed Mother's day with special music and decorations and with appropriate sermons. Mother and the spirit of motherhood were extolled as great vitalizing and uplifting influences in our life of today as well as in all ages past.

Miss Hildred Page, who was ill at home for several days, has returned to her work at the Plaza confectionery.

Miss Olivia Benia and Miss Ruby Hart of Oakland, Calif., spent several days in Ashland visiting Mrs. M. B. Riley on High street, and returned to their homes Saturday. James O. Naylor recently bought a home on Harrison street thru C. B. Lamkin. It is the property formerly belonging to Hessie Murphy. Mr. Naylor sells the rawleigh products here, having moved from Portland to Ashland about a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Kabatek were in Ashland Thursday on the way from their home in Los Angeles to Seattle and Vancouver, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dodson and family will soon leave for Prescott, Arizona, where Dr. Dodson expects to engage in business.

R. W. Shaw, E. K. Hall, G. O. Van Natta, G. W. Noble, G. W. Noble, G. W. Benedict, and J. W. Oxford, boys of '56 and members of the G. A. R., visited all of the city public schools last Friday in company with Superintendent J. S. Sisco. Mr. Noble repeated the jettysburg address and the children were all invited to the memorial services to be held in the Presbyterian church.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Brown of Klamath Falls visited in Ashland recently at the home of Mr. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown in the Bellevue district. Harry May, Riley Pittenger, Sylvia Greenleaf, Eleanor Brown, Helen Lyons, and William Tucker, pledges of the dramatic club, Alpha Tau, at the Normal school, entertained the assembly Friday morning with a comedy entitled "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lamkin recently traded their home at the corner of North Main and Bush streets to the First National bank for the Boulevard property formerly belonging to A. C. Briggs about two and one-half miles from the postoffice. Within a few days they expect to move into their new home. George Ross of Enders store bought the Lamkin home on Main street, and will occupy it as soon as it is vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Lamkin.

knows the vice-president and myself are old friends."

Barkley indicated his question on a publication in the Chicago Tribune and explained that was why he asked it.

"I understand your purpose and I think your question is quite proper," Lowden replied.

"I've gotten into this picture, not because I was keen for it, I have come to represent a cause. I believe that the greatest problem before the country is agriculture. I believe the next five or ten years will determine whether we are to have the good old-fashioned American yeoman farmer who has been the backbone of our civilization.

"Agriculture is doomed unless it can be restored to its proper parity. I can't see a bright future for the American republic if agriculture is permitted to decay. So long as that cause exists, of course I'll stand for it.

"I have no right to barter away or deal with reference to delegates who look on me as representing the cause."

INJUNCTION IN HOWARD SCHOOL SUIT DISSOLVED

E. O. Stump, school director and janitor of the Howard school, in the affairs of which a storm has been brewing over the proposal to increase the salaries of teachers and janitor, this morning, following the dissolution of a temporary injunction by the circuit court, restraining any such action, issued a statement "that I would not consider re-employment as the janitor of the district at any price, under no conditions."

The injunction was issued to restrain the school board from holding a meeting for the purpose of electing new teachers, or discharging the present teaching corps.

A meeting is called for 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Howard school for the purpose of selecting a new janitor and attending to other matters.

Stump's statement is as follows: "With the decision this morning in county court that the Howard school temporary injunction be dissolved and declaring that the directors were empowered with the duty of calling for a meeting called exclusively for that purpose, I desire to restate a statement over my own signature. That is: I have previously stated on several occasions that I would not consider re-employment as janitor of the district at any price, under no conditions. This to have the good people of the Howard school district know that as a director also, and required to represent the district in employment of teachers, that in no way has my attitude been influenced respecting the teacher contracts by reason of my having acted as janitor the past school year. It will be the duty of the school board, of which I am a member, to enter into a new janitorship contract for the coming year."
