Smudge Smoke

There is some talk of displaying the Chan Egan callouses at the state fair this fall.

Baseball today. There is a strong demand that Peoria Bill Gates be made an honorary umpire.

Righteousness and republicanism triumphed at the polls Fri. It is possible there will be a heated period upon us, before long.

This is the birthday of a prominent citizen, whose name has skidded from our mind.

James Grievie was down from Prospect the mid of the week, wearing a new suit, and his best pre-tourist smile.

Frank Bybee has started cutting what he calls his weeds, and the rest of the world a fine stand of hay.

Ernie Britt and Dock Robinson, two pert and chipper residents of Jville were over Wed.

Pears that were invalids in April, are now robust.

Galsheviks have started to wear rummery things and bathing suits are being laundered on the hoods of ds, and the unpopular priced autos.

C. Wig Ashpole has skinned out for Klamath again to look after his steers.

Willie Briggs and his Dad Medford Thurs. The former seeks condemning to the legislature.

Brisbane's Today

asked the other day, 'Did you ever hear of anybody that knew the name of Paul Revere's horse?'

The automobile industry is booming, as never before. Chrysler expects to make the world sit up, with his new car, the "Desoto."

Florida will like that name.

General Motors in July will produce a new Buick, for which you are politely requested to wait.

Mr. Knudsen, president of General Motors' Chevrolet, says that he is selling 130-odd thousand cars a month.

The young Ford factory driver, shooting you through traffic in a new Ford Model A, shows you that the car can do 40 miles an hour in second speed and, believing that three negatives make an effective affirmative, says:

"In the beginning everybody tried to get away faster than this car, to show it up. But they don't never nobody try to do that now. They just give you the road." Saying which, he risked your life, once more, scooting between two heavy trucks.

Carry a cheerful thought to Sunday morning. This country is really rich, plenty of opportunity to make up for anything that may have happened to you in Wall Street, in the last day or two.

Stocks listed on the big exchange were worth, at yesterday's market price, read carefully the pleasant figures, $4,818,925,865.

And that does not include stocks listed on the Curb Exchange, or not listed anywhere, or the gigantic wealth outside of corporations.

Brokers' loans, not quite $5,000,000,000, are less than 9 per cent of the big exchange stock values. How foolish to make a fuss about those loans.

But don't gamble.

STRAWBERRIES ARE STRONG IN MARKET

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19.—(AP)—Although strawberries and home grown spring vegetables were arriving in Portland markets in increased volume today, no material changes were reported in the retail prices.

With exception of higher tendency in eggs today, butter and country dressed meat markets were nominal. Fresh standard extras, fresh standard firsts, fresh medium extras and fresh medium firsts were all a cent higher at 17, 26, 25 and 20 cents, respectively.

Canyon City—John Day Valley Coal & Oil Co. will prospect its holdings with diamond drills.

A MIS-SPENT LIFE

BIG BILL HAYWOOD'S life was a tragedy of misdirected effort. History fails to record whether or not he was hit upon the head when a baby. But undoubtedly there was some accident in his early life which turned him not only "agin the government" against law, against all those restraints which civilization has found, through long and bitter experience to be necessary for its perpetuation.

A man of extraordinary physical strength and personal magnetism, a natural leader of men, had he devoted his unquestioned talents to improving and building up what we know as "society" instead of tearing it down, he would undoubtedly have made an enviable name for himself.

But this accident—assuming there was an accident—diverted all of Big Bill's energies in the wrong direction. At an early age he became, not only a champion of the under dog—which was commendable—but the champion of the underworld,—which wasn't.

His entire philosophy and attitude toward life became in early manhood that of a criminal. Instead of robbing individuals and holding up banks, he frankly adopted lawless methods, but employed them to do what he could to tear down his government, and incite and direct destructive social forces, in every community in which he lived.

Finally arrested for obstructing the government during the world war, he skipped his 30,000 bail and escaped to that land which was the perfect symbol of his dreams, Soviet Russia, like Emma Goldman and countless other theoretical anarchists, he was there doomed to a devastating disillusionment.

Replacing, what he termed a tyranny of wealth with a tyranny of the proletariat, he discovered, was equivalent to hopping from the frying pan into the fire. A year before his death he announced he would return to America and serve out his prison term, but a sudden sickness overtook him, and he was forced to forego this startling demonstration of "wrongness" of the doctrines, to which he had dedicated his life, and as a result died alone and unmourned in an alien country.

The moral of this tale is so obvious that, we believe, we better stop right here and not mention it.

QUILL POINTS

The "blessing of poverty" are real. Don't you remember the poor boys who got to go barefoot two weeks ahead of anybody else?

If Russia uses her new army against the whole world, how will she follow her ancient custom and change sides during the fight?

Among the things that prepare youngsters for the responsibilities of parenthood are white shoes.

Happy thought! The surplus water of the Mississippi can be stored in the empty pork barrels.

Hand shaking is barred in Italy, and now there's no way to recognize and dodge the man who represents a worthy cause.

Shut-down cotton mills are a depressing sight, but something of the kind might have been expected when the Klan unmasked.

The next great international problem is to discover whether blood is thicker than petroleum.

Of course other people are cleaner than politicians. Think how often politicians clean them.

If a husband must choose, it's better to be under a thumb than in front of a trigger finger.

The G. O. P. also fell among thieves. But no good Samaritan would dare pour oil and wine on the wounds at this time.

Windows are those glass things noses are flattened against when the furniture of a new neighbor is being unloaded.

Americanism: Feeling superior to the shabby fellow who has money in the bank; envying the flashy individual who is behind with seven installments.

"Out on his feet." A fighter silly but perpendicular. Also a golf bug whose wife has the car.

The wet and dry vote doesn't matter so much. All depends on the loyalty of the Smiths.

Normal man: One who gets mad at his wife because she said it would rain and he wouldn't carry an umbrella and it did.

Colleges have their good points, but they're turning out too many bond salesmen and not enough good southpaws.

Correct this sentence: "My, my," said the policeman; "how careless of you to pass the stop sign."

The dumb shall speak hereafter. If only they would wait until then.

Correct this sentence: "Ethel," said the mother, "is the only girl in her crowd who doesn't smoke or drink or pet."

Daughter doesn't show off much since she came home from college, except that she says, "This is she" when she answers the telephone.

As a general, Mr. Coolidge wouldn't burn his bridges behind him. It would be wasteful, and then, the timbers might be used for a raft.

As we understand it, France agrees not to make war unless it is forced on her by an enemy, a treaty or the logic of the situation.

Mr. Coolidge seems reluctant to use words of any kind, but especially the six: "I will not accept the nomination."

BOUT FRIDAY FOR BENEFIT LEGION: SEVERAL PRELIMS

A big, handsome man is rugged Billie Shaw who is to wrestle next Friday at the Hilarity hall, where he guarantees to throw Sailor Jack Wood of this city and Don Nolan the same night as a preliminary match for his appearance with Ed (Strangler) Lewis early next month at the fairgrounds. Next Friday's smoker will be given in the benefit of the American Legion drill corps.

Shaw arrived in Medford from Salt Lake City last Saturday and plans to begin training this week. His training will not be similar to that of other wrestlers, as he will not go through workouts, but instead will spend his time in the mountain country on long hikes to bring himself into absolutely perfect condition. He has met and defeated some of the best heavyweight wrestlers in the country and is determined to make short work of his two opponents next Friday to show local fans that he is a worthy contender of the "Strangler."

There will be several preliminary bouts next Friday and the semi-final will be a match between Tex Porter of this city and probably Cecil Barrick of Grants Pass. These two boys have met before and are evenly matched. Barrick has defeated Porter once and Porter has one victory over Barrick to his credit.

POWER MAGAZINE FEATURES COPCO

The May issue of Byllesby Management features an excellent article on "Load Development on the Copco System" by W. M. Shepard, vice president and general agent of this Company. It is well illustrated with photographs of domestic and commercial range installations including the Colonial Bakery, Elks Club and the B. T. DeLosh residence all of this city. Two charts graphically bring out the steady increase in load throughout the system. The statement that "more than one out of every three Copco customers in Medford cooks with electricity" is included in the article and there is little doubt that this is the best showing in range saturation yet made by any of the Byllesby properties.

Several other Copco items in the May issue concern the 1928 Public Speaking Contest, the Volt Annual and the new Prospect No. 2 plant.

H. L. Bronley is the local contributing editor on the staff of Byllesby Management.

CITY PASSED UP BY BARNES CIRCUS

It has been several years since a big circus has set up its tents in Medford, no circus is in sight yet, and the Al G. Barnes circus, which showed at Klamath Falls early last week, passed Medford by, as it did last year, jumping from Klamath Falls to Eugene on the Natom out-off and then going on north, reaching Portland where it will show tomorrow and Tuesday.

That Natom out-off or Cascade route of the Southern Pacific, as it is known, seems to have sounded the death knell of circuses in Medford, as several big shows have passed Medford by since its operation.

The years that have passed by without this city having enjoyed an attraction of that kind have made the people of the city and county so circus hungry that the first circus that comes along is ever liable to make a financial killing.

BEEES ATTACK MOTH FOE APPLE CROP

PORT COLLINS, Colo.—(AP)—An army of winged defenders will go to war against the voracious moth when this enemy of the apple crop invades Colorado orchards this spring.

A species of small bee is to take the hero role in this aerial attack. It is a natural foe of the moth, which it attacks in the egg state.

Normally the number of these parasites is small when the eggs of the moth are most numerous. So a great army of bees is being produced in a laboratory at the Colorado Agricultural college. The parasites will be turned loose at the rate of 250,000 to 500,000 a day throughout the orchard country after May 15.

Although William P. Foster of the state entomological department assembled only a few thousand bees as the parent stock, he hopes to mobilize millions by means of propagation in the laboratory, as the life cycle is only eight days under proper temperature conditions.

Grain moths are kept in the laboratory to lay eggs for feeding the bees.

Parasites which attack the larvae instead of the eggs of the voracious moth have been used with only partial success in controlling the pest.

TITLE BOUT NOW SET FOR MONDAY

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—His proverbial luck with the weather having failed him completely, Tex Rickard today called off the lightweight titular battle between Sammy Mandell and Jimmy McLarnin, scheduled for the Polo Grounds tonight, until Monday.

Originally scheduled for last Thursday, threatening and rainy weather has caused the bout to be postponed for three days in a row.

The third postponement means that Mandell and McLarnin must weigh in again on Monday afternoon. Both have been going through somewhat rigorous exercise in an effort to keep their weight under the class limit of 135 pounds.

Church Lists Psalms to Meet Different Moods

OMAHA, Neb.—(AP) There is a psalm to counteract every mood, asserts the Omaha First Methodist church.

If one is blue, discouraged, thinking of investments for instance, there is a certain psalm to bring comfort. The church has published a "Guide To The Psalms."

When in sorrow, one is advised to read Job 14. Other guideposts follow:

"When men fail you, read Psalm 27."

"When you have sinned, read Psalm 51."

"When you worry, read Matthew 6:18-24."

"When you are in danger, read Psalm 91."

"When you have the blues, read Psalm 34."

"When you are discouraged, read Isaiah 59."

"When you think of investments and returns, read Mark 10:17-31."

"When your faith needs stirring, read Hebrews 11."

"When you want courage for your task, read Joshua 1."

"When you leave home for labor or travel, read Psalm 121."

NEXT FRIDAY TO BE POPPY DAY

Next Friday, May 25 is Poppy Day in Medford, and American Legion Auxiliary members will do their share toward decorating the labels of local citizenry and subsequently swell the funds thru which one of the largest pieces of welfare work in the nation is carried on. The sentiment which surrounds the blood red poppy is close to the heart of Americans as well as Europeans who look part in the World War, and especially appealing in view of its present connection with the rehabilitation and child-welfare program carried on by the Auxiliary.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 19.—(AP) After an hour and a half of debate southern Baptists decided almost unanimously today to pledge its constituency to break party lines if necessary to vote against any candidate for the presidency who is not an outspoken prohibitionist. The "governor of New York" was mentioned four times from the floor during a heated argument.
