P. G. E. President Dies.

Martin began his career as an orphan newsboy in Brooklyn.

NEW FISH LADDER AT SAVAGE DAM IS CRYING NEED

The welfare of the government fish hatchery at Elk Creek is deeply concerned with the passage of the $25,000 appropriation by congress, according to P. B. Hawley of Clackamas, government fish commissioner in charge of hatcheries in Oregon, Washington and Idaho. Mr. Hawley was in Medford today on a periodical visit of inspection, which this time called him to the Savage Rapids and Gold Ray dams in the Rogue river.

If the appropriation carries, said Mr. Hawley, the Elk Creek hatchery will undergo numerous needed improvements, including rearing pool and facilities for a larger water supply. The improvements will also benefit the general appearance of the yard and make the hatchery one of southern Oregon's show places. The present capacity is two million salmon yearly, but this number will probably be increased and steelhead fish may also be propagated there, if the measure is made a law.

Mr. Hawley, as a result of a visit to the Savage Rapids dam, expressed the need of a new fish ladder there, explaining that too many fish are now held below the dam. He suggested the ladder be placed over the dam near the Pacific highway. He also inspected the situation at Gold Ray dam, where experiments have been in progress with electricity for the protection of fish, preventing them from being drawn into the turbines of the power plant.

He reported that satisfactory progress has been made, but indicated it would take many more experiments before a perfected system of fish protection can be realized.

Mr. Hawley left this forenoon for his headquarters in Clackamas and will probably be in southern Oregon again in another month, according to present plans.

SPECIAL FREE OFFER BY GEM RAZOR CO.

The Gem Safety Razor corporation has released one of the most sensational blade campaigns ever run in Medford. Large advertisements ask a show-down on the blade question, a chance to prove the superiority of the Gem blade.

The company has planned an extraordinary deal, whereby the merchants of Medford give a handsome present of a razor and two blades to every Gem blade customer, free. All they buy is a regular package of 10 Gem blades for the regular retail price of 65 cents. They are invited to use the two blades as often as they like, to submit them to every test. They convince themselves that the Gem blade gives vastly better shaves or they may return the package of ten blades intact to the merchant and get their full purchase price.

This best proof of the excellence of the improved Gem blades is that the thousands of men who have taken advantage of this offer, a negligible number have returned the 10 blades.

See their ad in this issue and watch the windows of the drug-gets and hardware stores.

New Spray Methods Filmed
The new stationary spray plant of the Bear Creek Orchards will soon receive a great deal of favorable publicity through pictures taken yesterday by representatives of the California Oregon Power Co. Both movies and still pictures were taken and these views will be given wide publicity showing the progressive methods used by Rogue River valley fruit growers. Shots of the central spray plant, the pipelines and actual spraying operations were taken as well as general views of the orchard and buildings. This new equipment is said to be giving excellent service.

4 SMALL FOREST FIRES HERE ARE UNDER CONTROL

Four small forest fires, which were reported yesterday at the local headquarters of the Crater national forest, were all reported to be under control today, with three entirely extinguished. The fires began as a result of electrical storms Sunday and Monday. Each covered only a small area.

Three men are still patrolling a fire in the Red Bluff region near Prospect, where one fire was not under control yesterday. A small blaze has also been put under control near the Mosquito ranger station, and a fire near the foot of Mt. McLoughlin was extinguished shortly after it began, one tree only having been set ablaze by lightning.

OWEN-OREGON MAN STILL UNCONSCIOUS BUT MAY RECOVER

Still unconscious since the moment he was struck in the back by a rolling log suspended on a cable in the Butte Falls district Friday morning, where he was employed as a head-decker for the Owen-Oregon Lumber company, considerable hope is still held for the recovery of George W. Hadley by Dr. J. C. Hayes and the attending nurses at the Sacred Heart hospital.

The patient, who sustained a crushed lung and other internal injuries, has been living principally on water and liquid foods which, however, he swallows readily. His eyes opened three times during the day yesterday and hope was held that he was regaining consciousness, but he made no response to words spoken to him. Mrs. Hadley is at her husband's bedside constantly.

AMERICAN LEGION TO MEET AT SEVEN P. M.

The regular meeting of the American Legion convention commission will start promptly at 7 p. m. tonight and every member is urged to be present on time. Staff Commander George Love and State Adjutant Carl Moser will be present to install the new officers of Grants Pass Post No. 28 and a real time is assured.

Every member of Medford post is cordially invited to attend this meeting and is urged to telephone in his name to Adjutant Lee Garlock at 312 at once.

An important meeting of Medford Post No. 15 is scheduled for next Monday, May 28 at the armory and every local Legionnaire is urged to plan now to attend. Final plans for Memorial day will be made and several important business matters will be discussed. Music by the New Legion orchestra of eleven pieces will be one of the leading features of the entertainment program.

Members of the American Legion and Auxiliary will attend Memorial services at the Christian church, Sunday morning at 11 a. m. All Legionnaires and auxiliaries are urged to meet at 10:45 a. m. in order that they may be seated in a body.

JAPANESE DOCTOR GIVES LIFE FOR CAUSE OF SCIENCE

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP)—The name of Dr. Hidzo Noguchi, Japanese scientist, has been added to the list of those who have given their lives in the fight against the dread yellow fever of the tropics.

The Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, with which he had been connected since its foundation in 1904, has been advised that he died at Accra, on the post-terrestrial Gold Coast of Africa, a victim of the fever whose cause he had just identified by studying his own case.

Dr. Noguchi, who was 51 years old, undertook the expedition for the Rockefeller foundation, to which he had been loaned by the institute, last November. At Accra, one of the unhealthiest spots on the globe, he set up his microscopes to discover, if possible, the relation between the African and the South American yellow fever.

Ten days ago his friends here received letters saying he had won his fight and had identified the cause of the fever as an indirect result of his own illness which had confined him to a hospital from December 28 to January 9.

While ill he inoculated a monkey with some of his own infected blood. It contracted the disease and died. Additional experiments definitely linked the fevers of the two continents and he set to work to find a vaccine which would counteract it. Associates will carry on the search, aided by his notes.

Dr. Noguchi was of an old but impoverished Samurai family. Even as a child, he was intensely fond of experimentation and as a result of his experiments lost several fingers of his left hand.

He was graduated from the Tokyo Medical college when 23 years old. He was a member of the pathological staff of the University of Pennsylvania for three years and research assistant of the Carnegie Institution in Washington before joining the Rockefeller Institute.

In 1918 he was chosen as a member of the yellow fever commission sent to Ecuador by the Rockefeller foundation and there succeeded against tremendous difficulties in virtually exterminating the disease.

Among his accomplishments were the discovery of smallpox vaccine free of bacteria, the discovery of the micro-organism responsible for infantile paralysis, isolation of the causative germ of trachoma, the dread eye disease; discovery of the kinship of syphilis and paresis, a muscular paralysis, and isolation of the rabies germ with the development of treatment for its use.

The local school closed last week with the commencement program held at the Presbyterian church Friday evening. William Miller was the valedictorian of the class and Ned Foreman was the salutatorian.

Superintendent Briscoe of the Ashland school system gave the address of the evening. Musical numbers rendered were a vocal solo, Mrs. Dunham; vocal duet, Mrs. Pruett and Mrs. Mittelstedt; and violin solo by Mr. Mittelstedt. The presentation of diplomas by Mrs. Grove, chairman of the school board marked the close of the program. The church was packed to the doors for this occasion.

The class day program held in the Grange hall last week is deserving of mention for presenting a splendid program to the public. Miss Lota Henshaw presided as class president. After the usual class activities the one-act play, "Where Put in America" was presented in splendid style by the members of the class. Gwendolyn Trophy, Lota Henshaw and Frank Peterrew.

At the Riatta.
The Riatta Theater announces tomorrow as the opening date for "Beware of Married Men," starring Irene Rich and including in the cast Myrna Loy, Audrey Peris, Clyde Cook, Richard Tucker, Stuart Holmes and Hugh Allan.

"Beware of Married Men" is without doubt one of the most amusing films. It has to do with the astonishing adventures of a philandering husband, Sheldon by name, who inadvertently lavishes his superabundant affections on the flapper sister of a worldly-wise lady who is employed as secretary to Leonard Gilbert, divorce attorney. Sheldon's wife retains Gilbert to get her a divorce, and unbelievably ludicrous complications follow in which the ways of the transgressor are proven anything but easy.

"Beware of Married Men" is a comedy you should see.
