KLINE CARNIVAL OPENS WEEK STAY ON P. & E. TRACT

The Abner E. Kline Carnival company opened a week's performance on the P. & E. show grounds on East Main street yesterday, with a large crowd of Medford and valley people in attendance. The carnival, which has not appeared here for two years, presented a good appearance and left a favorable impression on all who visited it last night.

The carnival includes seven rides, 10 shows and 19 concessions, exclusive of hot-dog stands, and covers several acres of ground, all of which is brilliantly illuminated with bright lights placed at advantageous positions by the carnival electrician. The entire equipment in the show is new, giving the grounds a generally good appearance.

One of the features is the ferris wheel, which is 46 feet six inches high, over six feet higher than the ordinary wheel, and another is the Hoy-Day ride, which is a combination of the waltz and the "tillie whirl." Both rides were popular last evening. However, the merry-go-round also did a good share of the business, in addition to kid-

J. M. SCOTT, ESPEE AIDE, FRIEND OF VALLEY, RETIRES

John M. Scott, a dean among railroad men of the Pacific northwest, and long a friend and booster for southern Oregon, has decided upon voluntary retirement from his position as assistant passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, effective June 1. This announcement came Sunday from F. S. McGinnis, passenger traffic manager, San Francisco, and was confirmed by Mr. Scott, who had been with the Southern Pacific in Portland since 1911 and had served the Harriman lines in that city from 1906 to 1911.

J. A. Ormandy, who has risen successively through positions of chief clerk of the passenger department, assistant general passenger agent and general passenger agent in Portland, will succeed to Mr. Scott's position. H. C. Taylor, present general agent of the Southern Pacific at Seattle, will become general passenger agent as Mr. Ormandy's successor.

Mr. Scott has been railroad work 43 years, having started with the Grand Trunk road in Montreal in 1885. For more than a year he has been contemplating retirement, having reached the age when he wished to give up business activity. He stated that he and Mrs. Scott would make their permanent home in Portland, possibly seeking the quiet of suburban location. Innumerable friends scattered over upon his step in giving up business the United States will facilitate him activity.

From 1888 to 1891 Mr. Scott was with the Burlington road at Omaha. From 1891 to 1893 he was with the Missouri Pacific in St. Louis. He was rate clerk with these roads. From 1893 to 1901 he was rate clerk of the Union Pacific in the general passenger department at Omaha. From 1901 to 1906 he was attached to the traffic director's office of the Harriman roads—Union Pacific and Southern Pacific—in Chicago.

Mr. Scott went to Portland as assistant general passenger agent of the Harriman roads in 1906, and had been there without interruption since that time. In 1923 he was elevated to the position of assistant passenger traffic manager.

Mr. Scott's wife, Mrs. W. H. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific were separated he became an executive of the Southern Pacific.

On Thursday night of this week associates of Mr. Scott will tender him a farewell banquet. It is expected that as many as 200 Southern Pacific and other railroad and business men will participate.

The other act is a comedy sketch by the famous Willard Mack entitled "The Book Worm."

"Hawk's Nest"

Rialto Today

A new kind of underworld—that of a large city's populous and mysterious Chinatown—furnishes the background of "The Sills," which opened at the Rialto theatre yesterday.

This picture marks a distinct departure for Sills, who appears in the early part of the story as a disfigured war veteran, with a mien equally as good as anything Lon Chaney has achieved in recent years.

Mystery, thrills, and the tense atmosphere of the underworld furnishes the background for this fast-moving drama, one of the best in which Sills has appeared for many months. A particularly admirable performance is given by the distinguished Chinese actor, Sohn.

Vaudeville

A remarkable demonstration of the powers and possibilities of electricity harnessed to man's ingenuity, will provide the headline attraction, when Prof. J. Popp, D. E. S. E. S., the celebrated Dutch savant brings Radiana to Hunt's Craterian theatre Wednesday, May 30. Radiana is an automaton, an electrically controlled, almost human machine, which is operated by means of a delicate array of mechanism, set to motion by the professor at will. The machine will shave a man from the audience, play the piano, and perform several magical feats. Don't, on any account, miss Radiana.

A wonderful exhibition of animal intelligence will be seen in Captain Bett's seals, who are put through their paces by Miss Rita Ward. Among the feats performed are juggling of balls, lamp, billiard cue and ball, rolling a barrel, walking a tight rope, and playing a tune on a set of musical horns. Comedy is furnished by two monkeys.

There is something different in the song, dance and patter skill of Newport and Barker. A feature of the act is a burlesque bull-fight staged by the Newport end of the firm, with a masked police dog officiating as the bull. James Wright and Elysee Dale have an offering of a variety of dance steps, interwoven with novelty features. They are native Americans, but have been featured in England, Scotland and Ireland for some time.

Muriel Doe, the renowned violinist, graduated into vaudeville from the concert stage. She is a proficient artist on the violin.
