THE FINAL DRIVE AGAINST HOOVER

PROFESSIONAL polificians and stock brokers are notoriously timid. They are both easily stampeded by fears even when supported by facts. That is why the first rule of success ful manipulation against a political candidate is to throw a sentimental scare into his supporters, just as the first rule of a suceessful manipulation against a stock is to throw a sentimental scare into its supporters.

The Lowden leaders in the pre-convention campaign are now engaged in the business of throwing a scare into the camp of the Hoover delegates. With a carefully stage-managed agrarian revolt in the Middle West, led by the spiritual successors of Sockless Simpson, an invasion of Kansas City by 200,000 irate farmers is proclaimed, the purpose being to demand a candidate friendly to the farmer and secure the elimination of the Secretary of Commerce.

If political actions by organized groups were controlled by facts, rather than by fears, this pitchfork army business would not get to first base. For everyone knows this McNary-Haugen bill was never designed to give the farmer relief, but merely get his votes.

If the members of Congress had not known the President would certainly veto the measure, as it were drawn, the bill anything to help bill mout smoking, motorcycle wat the other sales would never have passed either the Senate or House.

So poor Mrs. von Sweatter in dessays they can't. So I am hoping would never have passed either the Senate or House.

The best evidence that a majority of the farm-loyers were not sincere in this farm-subsidy erusade is the fact that when President told them he would sign the McNary-Haugen bill withont the equalization fee provision, they made no effort to eliminate it. More than that, they made no effort to devise a farm the minimum thereoff, the treatment hereoff, person can't need by get there relief bill the President would sign.

The plain truth is they didn't want the MeNary-Hauger.

The plain truth is, they didn't want the McNary-Haugen bill passed, and the fullity of their scheme of overcoming the law of supply and demand laid bare. They merely wanted to hand a gold brick to the disconfented farmer, and have the President step in and prevent the swindle, while they could was specifying the remedy and the dose president step in and prevent the swindle, while they could was specifying the remedy and the dose is that fatter experience has tought President step in and prevent the swindle, while they could wait at that little experience has tought today.
