JACK ROLLER HERE; HAD EXPECTED TO WRESTLE STRANGLER

Thinking that he was matched for the Strangler Lewis world's championship bout here next Thursday evening, Jack Roller, well-known southern California heavyweight wrestler, arrived in Medford Saturday evening to begin training for his Lewis match, but due to the fact that Billie Shaw, Ohio state champion, has already been billed, Roller will not wrestle. However, he plans to stay in Medford several weeks and will probably be the headline event in a match to be held some time this month.

Roller had been wrestling in Phoenix, Ariz., and received a wire last week from a Los Angeles promoter to come to Medford to wrestle Lewis for the championship. Immediately upon the receipt of the wire, he left for this city and upon arriving here received a sudden surprise in reading posters advertising the Shaw and Lewis match. The mistake in sending Roller here is blamed on the Los Angeles promoter, who says a month ago wired Jack Wood, local matchmaker, that Roller would not be able to wrestle here in response to a message sent by Wood, asking Roller to be Lewis' challenger.

SUMMER SCHOOL HERE IS OPENED; 87 REGISTERED

Although the public schools closed last Friday, about one hundred of the students will have a short vacation period, for the six weeks' summer school of the Medford public schools, at the junior high school building, from June 4 to July 12, opened today with 87 pupils having registered up to early this afternoon and more to register today and tomorrow until the total anticipated enrollment will have reached 100.

The summer school, which will be under the supervision of Chas. Glenn Smith, head of the high school mathematics department the past school year, assisted by Miss Esther Van Camp, assistant principal of the junior high school, who also had charge of last year's summer school, and there will be three other teachers in the faculty, who will not be appointed until the registration has been completed.

This summer school is for both high school and elementary grade subjects, and its primary object is the doing of review and make-up work. The school will settle down to instructional and study work to-morrow.

There will be very little formal class work. The school will be organized mainly on the individual method plan and every effort will be made to give each pupil the special coaching and attention he most needs. Teachers from the regular staff will be used.

For elementary grade pupils the object is to afford an opportunity to do make-up work in one or two subjects in grades first to eighth, which they may have failed to complete during the regular year, and necessary to enable them to go on with the next higher grades in September.

In the same manner high school students may have an opportunity to do make-up work in one or two subjects selected from English, history, civics, mathematics, science and Latin.

INDIA PROBLEM IS DISCUSSED AT KIWANIS LUNCH

Stressing the importance of a better understanding of India by other countries, H. R. Prasad, native of that country and a graduate of Wisconsin university, now an electrical engineer, spoke at the Kiwanis club meeting today. Movements in France, Germany, Italy and Russia which are especially recognizing India, were described by the speaker who told about the special departments in universities which are devoted to study of India's economic, political and social life.

"Apart from the missionary spirit of spreading peace on earth, it is imperative that, from a business point of view, neighboring countries know about the economic conditions of a country which holds one-fifth of the population of the world," Mr. Prasad pointed out.

Recent books of the nature of "Molter India" were criticized and labeled as "purely sensational political propaganda." A request was made to members of the club was an open forum discussion on the subject of Nancy Ann Miller's marriage to the Maharajah of India, many questions being asked and answered.

The speaker maintained that the situation in India is the sending out of a special business agent with each ambassador. The reason for the decline in literacy of the country during the past 10 years was given by Mr. Prasad, who said that the teachers formerly were content to teach for the joy of teaching. Now the situation is different. Cost of education is high and there is no compulsory law for attendance.

Plans for the Kiwanis convention at Seattle this month were discussed. The attendance prize, a pound box of chocolates, was won by E. H. Hedrick, school superintendent. President R. B. Hammond drew the first lucky number, but as he donated the candy another drawing was made.

LOCAL WEATHER MAN IS ENTHUSED OVER AIR TRAVEL

L. Walter Dick, the meteorologist of the local weather bureau, and who is also in charge of aerological work of the local airport, who returned by airplane yesterday afternoon from an airplane business journey to Portland on Saturday forenoon, leaves tomorrow morning on a round trip by airplane to San Francisco, where he will confer with the U. S. government weather and aerological officials there, in regard to the work of the Medford port, and return to Medford next Thursday by plane.

It was the first airplane ride he had ever had, and he made the trip going and coming in one of the large Bolling passenger ships, Mr. Dick is so very enthusiastic about his air rides to Portland and return that he will probably return from the San Francisco round trip a confirmed air riding addict.

He says the experience was wonderful and beyond his most sanguine expectations. What impressed him most was the ease with which the ships glided thru the air, with hardly any vibration being felt by the passengers, and with much less than that felt by the passenger on the easiest riding railroad coach.

En route to Portland the plane flew at an average height of 6000 feet, but the return trip was made at a higher altitude, the highest point reached being 8500 feet. He enjoyed the panorama both ways. The faster the planes flew the easier was the riding, it seemed to him. On the trip back, on looking down he discerned several forest fires, one of which was of considerable dimension, but being unfamiliar with the territory, he did not know in just what locality each was located.

CHARGE PORTLAND AGREEMENT ON WHEAT PURCHASE

SEATTLE, June 4.—(AP)—Testimony that Portland grain buyers apparently worked under some agreement in buying the products of farmers in the Columbia basin, occupied the attention of the interstate commerce commission in their grain rate hearing here today.

W. J. Snelcoth and Troy Lindley, Columbia county growers, took the witness stand to demand a parity of grain rates in place of the 10 per cent now favoring Portland over Puget Sound ports.

Snelcoth quoted an instance when three Portland buyers offered him $1.20 1/2 a bushel for wheat he sold the next day to a Lewiston, Ida., buyer for $1.32. The ton, Ida., buyer for $132. The ton, he noted him $312.50 more than the Portland price, he said.

Portland buyers refuse to bid against each other, the growers said. Other charges made by the growers were: That Portland buyers had broken every attempt at cooperative grain marketing by refusing to bid such grain; and that when Portland newspapers showed an increase in the wheat market, Portland buyers were active in parity territory but refused to bid on differential territory, realizing that they could pick up this grain at their own prices.

Parity in rates is desired, the growers testified, even if it would result in an increase of rates to Portland.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 4.—(AP)—Fifteen more witnesses were yet to be heard in the fight of Puget Sound ports for parity in grain rates with Portland, as the I. C. C. hearing opened for its third week here today. Samuel J. Wetterick, attorney for the Seattle chamber of commerce, said his witnesses included grain dealers, growers, engineers, traffic experts, transportation men and manufacturers.

Witnesses already placed on the stand by Wetterick strongly opposed the existing 10 per cent differential in grain rates favoring Portland dealers on all grain grown south of the Snake river.

It was expected that the testimony on the Columbia basin angle of the I. C. C. investigation would require at least another week, and that the commission then would spend a week or ten days on the Montana case.

REV. E. P. LAWRENCE GIVES REPORT OF 5000-MILE TRIP

Rev. E. P. Lawrence, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Medford, returned Sunday morning from a 5000 mile trip in attendance at the 14th meeting of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A. The meeting was held in Tulsa, Oklahoma, which Mr. Lawrence reports as one of the fastest growing cities in the country. Being in the very heart of the great oil section of Oklahoma it has grown from a small town of 2000 population in 1902 to a wonderful city of 140,000 population in a quarter of a century. The oil business there has produced upwards of 70 millionaires, one or two men having accumulated from $5 to 50 million dollars.

As a result some of the most up-to-date business blocks towering to 20 stories in height have been and are being erected. The great Mayo Hotel is one of the finest in the land. This was the headquarters for the assembly, being the stopping place for the leaders in the church and prominent communities. The Tulsa Hotel and Tulsa Club whose wealthy members voluntarily turned over their own rooms and all the wonderful appointments of their club to ministers who could not get rooms in the other hotels, were crowded to capacity. Every hotel and rooming house in the city was overcrowded so that many had to be entertained in private homes in homes. One thousand commissionaires including ministers and elders were present. In addition there were also from one to two thousand visitors from all over the land. Fifty commissionaires were present from foreign lands, representing every mission station under the foreign mission board of the church. These missionaries were called to the platform one evening and were honored by the assembly rising and greeting the foreign workers with rounds of applause.

On Saturday afternoon, the banks and other business houses of the city furnished cars and busses and transported the entire assemblage out thru the oil fields and country for miles around and then thru the city with its beautiful and attractive homes and parks and schools and great business blocks.

The city is remarkable for its churches and the deep interest shown by a vast host of the people in the religious life of the city. The South Methodist people are erecting a magnificent church to cost $1,000,000. The North Methodist church cost $750,000. One party has just presented the same church with a $50,000 pipe organ which was just being installed. The Christian and Baptist churches also have beautiful buildings. The Presbyterian church had just completed a beautiful new auditorium with a seating capacity of 3000 costing $750,000. The great auditorium was filled at almost every service. On Sunday morning every church in the city was packed to overflowing, the pulpits being supplied by the visiting clergymen.

Hotels, restaurants, boarding and rooming houses and business houses did everything in their power to make the visitors feel at home. Welcome signs were up everywhere.

Mr. Lawrence reports a pleasant visit with friends and relatives in his home city of Yates City, Ill. A brief stop was made at Galveston, where old college scenes were reviewed and friends of college days shaken hands with.

At Tulsa, many friends of seminary days at Princeton seminary of 28 years ago were met and old times talked over.

The return trip was made by way of El Paso, Texas and Los Angeles where a boyhood friend and college chum, a prominent attorney in the city, gave him the glad hand and acquainted him with the sights of the city among which was the famous Angelus temple and school.

Many people were met on the trip who had been to Medford, or knew of it thru literature, friends or personal visits.

While it was a fine trip yet Mr. Lawrence reports that there is no place quite like home.
