SALEM, Ore., June 9.—(AP)—The Oregon National Guard, three thousand strong, will start its annual two weeks of intensive field training next Wednesday. Tuesday afternoon troop trains from all parts of the state will move toward Portland, preparatory for the movement to Clatsop plains Wednesday morning. Eight special trains will be required.

Brigadier General George A. White, commander of the guard has completed an inspection of Camp Clatsop and Fort Stevens and pronounced everything in readiness. He looks for a 100 per cent attendance.

About $50,000 has been spent by the government at Camp Clatsop for twenty new mess halls, an administration building, a warehouse and road improvement and an extension of water and electric light system.

FORMER WEATHER OBSERVER HERE GIVEN PROMOTION SET THIS WEEK

Herbert M. Little, U. S. government meteorologist and aeronaut formerly in charge of the Medford weather bureau, and who left here last October after about a year's service, during which he made many friends in the city, to look after frost warning and research work at California points, recently accepted another transfer in the weather service, which brought him quite a welcome promotion of importance.

He was promoted to have charge of the weather bureau of all the airways west of Salt Lake City, a job of no mean proportions, and which will keep him heading in order to properly look after the airways in this immense territory. It is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Little will be seen frequently in Medford in the course of his inspections of the various airway stations.

Mr. Little, who assumed charge of the Medford bureau and local airway when Mr. Little was transferred from here to frost work in California last October, hoped to meet him at his headquarters in the San Francisco weather bureau office on his airplane trip to that city last week. However, he had to forego this pleasure, as Mr. Little was away in the south establishing some new airway stations.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—President Coolidge accepted today the resignation of Robert E. Oids from the under-secretaryship of state effective next July 1.

DEFINITE DATE OF CRATER OPENING SET THIS WEEK

Preparations for the opening of the Crater National park season will get into swing this week with tentative removal by Superintendent J. G. Thomson and his office staff from the park's winter headquarters in Medford to the summer headquarters or government camp in the park, next Friday, and the expected arrival of R. W. Price, of Portland, vice president and general manager of the Crater National Park company, which holds the lodge, stage and other concessions in this city tonight.

It is expected that on his arrival here Mr. Price will give out the definite date for the opening of the lodge to general visitors. All that is now known is that the lodge will be opened June 25 to entertain the members of the California Press association for its three day convention there, to be immediately followed by the Oregon Editors association meeting.

The road has been cleared of snow thru the park as far as government camp, and Colonel Thomson is ready to have his road cleaning force hustle the snow off the road all the way to the lodge by June 22nd, as he some time ago promised Mr. Price, or even earlier if Mr. Price should decide to have it cleared sooner. Superintendent Thomson is chaffing to get his forces at work completing the big road improvement work, and the extensive

GALA DECORATIONS FOR LEGION MEET BY LOCAL POST

Medford will be the scene of a most elaborate scheme of decoration when the American Legion state convention takes place here next August. At last Wednesday's meeting of the legion convention commission the many plans and bids of various decorating companies were discussed and it was decided to award the contract to the American Flag & Decorating company of Portland. This contract calls for the decorating of 31 whole blocks in the business district with special efforts at the principal street intersections, also the armory and Elks' temple where the legion convention sessions will be held. This will be augmented by the individual decorative efforts of every local merchant and business institution and the whole ensemble is bound to attract much favorable attention from the thousands of visitors who will be here from all parts of the coast. As a special feature the local legion post is planning to sell a large number of residence flags to home owners throughout the city who wish to decorate their homes for this big event as well as future patriotic holidays.

Flag Day will be officially observed at next Monday night's meeting of the local American Legion post and Post Commander Eromley urges every Legionnaire to attend. A huge American flag, 18336 feet in size will be presented to the post in behalf of Mrs. Roy Catching of this city and an address on "Our Flag" will be made by Don Newbury. A number of important business matters will be discussed during the evening and plans for the coming
