

KANSAS PLEASED WITH G.O.P. TICKET SAYS S. S. SMITH

WICHITA, Kan., June 18.—(Special Correspondence)—Kansas are delighted with the selection of Senator Charles Curtis, although they were disappointed that he was not chosen as the leader of the ticket. It is the impression here that Curtis' nomination will be a great help in keeping the farmers of the middle west in line for the republican ticket. Curtis, representing one of the greatest agricultural states, has always been with the farmers and they have great faith that he will help the party in affording relief to the farmers, and believe they can only expect relief through the party that already has done so much for them.

Hoover of California and Curtis of Kansas exploded the long-cherished idea that the party nominees—or at least one of them—must come from the east. It's the first time both of the standard-bearers have been from the middle west and northwest.

The writer has known Charles Curtis through his political career of 25 years, during which time Curtis has been a member of the house of representatives or senate exceeding six years.

In 1892, when he ran for congress the first time and was elected, I had the honor of first introducing him to the republicans of Butler county, Kansas, as a candidate for the nomination. I remember well after that when Joe Briskow defeated Curtis for the nomination for senator for a second term in Kansas and Curtis was urged to run against Briskow on an independent ticket. He refused and stumped the state for Briskow. He stayed by his party, "being a good Indian."

When the nomination for the other senator for Kansas came up Curtis was a candidate. The party then stayed by Curtis; he was nominated and elected, and has been in the senate since 1914. His term does not expire for two years.

I had the pleasure of a nice visit with the next vice president when attending the convention this week. Senator Borah was one of the powerful men in the recent convention, not only in writing the prohibition plank, but in party conferences and in making the closing argument in opposition to substituting the McNary-Haugen idea of farm relief for the majority report of the committee on resolutions. It was a clean-cut, powerful presentation of what the republican party has and is doing for the farmer, the demarcation of the basic principle of the McNary-Haugen bill as unconstitutional class legislation and not what the farmers want in the way of relief, and an appeal to the farmer that will solve the farm problem and solve it in their interests.

The convention was just seven minutes in getting rid of Nicholas Murray Butler's fight on the 18th amendment. He talked five minutes for his substitute to the platform, and in two minutes more

OPINIONS OF MANY NOTED SCIENTISTS QUOTED BY MAKERS OF "SOFT DRINKS" TO PROVE PRODUCTS ARE WHOLESOME

Dr. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Prof. J. H. BUCHANAN

Dr. W. W. SKINNER

Quotations from the public statements of many noted scientists will be the feature of a national advertising campaign to be conducted in more than 800 newspapers this summer by the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, the national association of the industry. The makers of "soft drinks" recently decided to concentrate their national advertising in newspapers instead of following their previous practice of using magazine space.

Among the noted authorities on health and dietetics who endorse the food and health values of bottled carbonated beverages are: Dr. Royal S. Copeland, former Health Commissioner of New York City and now United States Senator from New York; Dr. W. W.

Skinner, Assistant Chief, Chemical Research, U. S. Department of Agriculture; Prof. J. H. Buchanan, Professor of Food Chemistry, Iowa State College, and others.

Dr. Skinner, who is regarded as one of the world's foremost authorities on beverages, in a typical statement says: "The dietetic value of bottled carbonated beverages is due: (1) to their content of easily assimilated, energy-yielding food material; (2) to the tonic and stimulating properties derived from fruit juices and extracts, the fruit acids, and the carbon dioxide gas present; and (3) to their wholesome character insured by the excellent sanitary precautions generally exercised in their production.

"I think I can say without reservation, and with an experience from twenty years contact with food industries, gained in the enforcement of the Federal Food and Drugs Act, that it is my firm conviction that bottled carbonated beverages are about as clean and healthful and produced generally under as good sanitary conditions as any packaged goods on the market."

republican national convention recognized this fact and called attention to the progress in its platform. It's Madford's chance to stay on the map, and I am sure the people will maintain the progressive spirit known all over the country. S. S. SMITH.

Despite the speech of the governor of Nebraska in favor of the McNary-Haugen bill, his state gave a majority against the proposition, as did Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and other middle western states.

The disappointment of the convention was the fact that Lowden was a poor loser. His message to the convention complaining of its platform and withdrawing as a candidate certainly displeased a large majority of the delegates. It was Lowden's second defeat for the nomination for president. He refused the party's offer of vice president four years ago.

The famous campaign circular, "The Truth About Hoover," which was a pack of lies, distributed to the rooms of all delegates and alternates, as well as on the streets, was the most disgraceful piece of literature ever circulated and did more to injure the "allies" than it did Hoover.

It's still raining in Kansas and the gentle zephyrs are blowing, but the state will produce the second largest wheat crop in its history, has a wonderful chance for a big corn crop, the weather is nice and cool, the next vice president will hail from the Sunflower state, the banks are bulging with money, and why should the people not be happy?

I see the campaign will soon be on for the new airport. Not only is the spirit of aviation manifested on every hand here in the "Detroit of aviation" but it predominates everywhere, and the NOTED ORGANIST IN CONCERT HERE TOMORROW P. M.

(Contributed.) It would be a wonderful event if Medford might have the pleasure of hearing the New York Symphony orchestra. Since this is not possible, however, we are to be congratulated on having with us tomorrow night that member of this famous organization whose instrument can most nearly approximate an entire orchestra.

Mr. Sealy has for many years been the official organist for the orchestra and a close associate of its noted director, Walter Damrosch.

No doubt it is in part, his long association with this organization and his familiarity with orchestra which enables him to get such varied and marvelous effects from the organ.

Two of the numbers on the program which Mr. Sealy will play here tomorrow night are actually orchestral, the overture to Athalia by Handel and the nocturne for wind instruments by Spolier.

Mr. Sealy, who is also a well known composer for the organ, has been requested to play the "Song Without Words," his own composition, on his program.

26 KILLED WHEN BOILER EXPLODES

MEXICO CITY, June 20.—(AP)—Twenty-six bodies had been recovered today from the ruins of four buildings destroyed by the explosion of a boiler in a bath house. Thirty persons were known to have been injured.

The bath house was in one of the poorer quarters of the city. An American, H. Kenneth Fournier, employed by the Mexican Telephone company, was among those injured. His condition was not believed to be serious. The force of the explosion was so great that the bath house and a building adjoining it and other buildings across the street were reduced to debris. Rescued workers found that other victims might be buried beneath the ruins.

A part of the boiler, hurled across the street, knocked down a dwelling, killing a mother and her two children. Walls along the street collapsed and many passers-by were caught beneath the falling blocks, mortar and wood.

VOICE TELEVISION STUNT SUCCESSFUL

CHICAGO, June 20.—(AP)—A successful broadcast of voice and television at the same time was made last night over station WCFL, the Chicago Federation of Labor, during an experiment under a permit issued by the federal radio commissioner.

A view of the head and shoulders of E. N. Nockels, secretary of the Chicago federation, was broadcast with his voice and received by the inventors of the process, M. J. Hayes and Ulysses Zarabria, over their apparatus located several miles distant.
