

O'WEN OREGON OUT TO BEAT MEDFORD IN SUNDAY'S GAME

Sunday's ball game will give the fans a chance to see how the Owen-Oregon Lumber team compares with the Medford club. Manager Black of the lumber camp has strong hopes of either leading the Medford bunch or at least giving them a hard name. The week position are being strengthened this week, in order to give a good account of themselves. They will pitch either Michels or Valencia. The only change in the Medford line-up will be a new outfielder from the U. of O. The Medford team is capable of playing good ball but has not shown much in the last few games.

Manager Hall will not concede that his team is inferior to either Weed or Dunsmuir. But for the breaks his team should have won last Sunday, he says.

BUTTER ADVANCES PORTLAND MARKETS

PORTLAND, Ore., June 29.—(AP) Reflecting strength of outside butter markets, local quotations were higher today. Advances of a cent on cube standards and prime firsts to 42 cents and 41½ cents respectively and of a half cent on firsts to 40½ cents were made at the session of the dairy exchange late yesterday. Print butter was a cent higher today in sympathy with the rise in the price of standard cubes.

Butterfat was also quoted higher this morning, local creameries offering 46 cents per pound delivered in Portland, 45 cents at station and 44 cents on track at country points. Egg prices were unchanged today by trading was active and the market tone firm. The first shipment of eggs direct from this market to Ecra was slated to go out today. Local commission men look for steady movement of eggs to Peru hereafter as Pacific coast points hold an advantage over New York in freight rate.

Pork was higher on the country dressed meat market this morning, best light hogs fetching 15 to 15½ cents. Veal was also in excellent demand but prices were not quotably higher. Lambs continued drab. Poultry prices were steady and unchanged.

BOY FLIER UP FOR ENDURANCE MARK

The elevator, bathroom and bedroom doors in the apartment are close together and identical in appearance.

GOOD WILL TRIP OF CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—(AP) Directors of the San Francisco chamber of commerce today voted to make a good will trip to Oregon next September. Officials expressed hope that Governor C. C. Young would head the delegation.

ROBINSON NOMINATED

sided as the presidential poll by which Smith himself was named last night.

Senator Bratton of New Mexico was chosen to make the nominating speech for Senator Robinson. For that purpose, Arizona, high on the high list of the states, consented to yield to her neighbor, giving New Mexico and Bratton right of way on the program, close to the beginning of the roll call.

Barkeley Is Active
Despite the manifest pickup of the Robinson movement, supporters of other candidates, notably Senator Barkeley of Kentucky, remained active. A Barkeley banquet paraded through the aisles of the hall before the session opened and was cheered by the assembling delegates.

As the 10 o'clock convening hour came and passed with the convention officials conferring on the platform and making no move to call for order, Senator Robinson, who for some time had been in the crowd that had put their heads together on the speaker's stand, left the convention hall for his hotel. He was retiring from the physical presence of the honor the convention seemed about to pay him. He turned the gavel over to Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Smith four marshal, who was designated to open the session.

After the opening itself, the gavel however fell to Senator Harrison of Mississippi.

It was 10:16 o'clock when Roosevelt pounded for order. The delegates mostly were late arriving and there was much confusion both on the floor and among the spectators. The new chairman could not get them quiet for several minutes.

Roosevelt finally got the convention in attention by ordering the band to play "The Star-Spangled Banner." When the anthem was completed the opening prayer was offered by Rabbi Nathan Blechman of Temple Bethel of Houston.

Divis Is Sung
After some routine announcements, Miss Melvina Pasmore of Houston sang "Divis" to a cheering convention, and then the roll call for vice presidential nominating speeches began.

had an escort of two other donkeys carrying small boys single file behind the leader.

The delegation chairman, upon arriving at the Mississippi section near the front of the hall, did not dismount until he had equated with a successful gesture General Pat Harrison of Mississippi, then presiding. Harrison smiled but made no effort to quiet the rumpus caused by Casteel's unconventional arrival.

When he had finished his salutations to those of his friends he was able to recognize close about him or far away in other delegations, the Mississippi not off his mount and suffered it to be bed away.

When the roll call was resumed, Arizona yielded to New Mexico and Senator Bratton placed the name of Senator Robinson formally before the convention. A crash of applause that seemed to sweep nine out of ten delegations greeted the name of the Arkansan.

Robinson Demonstration
Bratton reviewed Senator Robinson's career at great length, praising him for his "fueled honesty" for his sagacity and for the record of his legislative accomplishments. He declared there was not one objection that could be urged against him.

At the close of the speech the Arkansas delegates started a procession around the hall. Pennsylvania, Washington, North Dakota, Arizona, Utah, New Mexico, Montana, Iowa, West Virginia, Arkansas, Georgia, Colorado, Oklahoma, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts, Mississippi, South Carolina, Delaware, Nebraska, Michigan, New Hampshire, Ohio, North Carolina, Oregon, Maryland, Texas and Virginia were among the states who sent their standards into the parade, so closely ranked that it looked as though the whole army of delegates had almost come over ensemble to the banquet of the Arkansan.

It was not a very noisy parade, for the delegates were almost cowed after the cheering and demonstrating of the past two days, but it was impressive enough in the representative character of its personnel.

After the demonstration had continued for more than five minutes, Senator King, the acting chairman, pounded for order and directed the delegates to their seats. Then he nominated Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, who, in a five-minute address, seconded the nomination of the democratic leader of the senate for the vice presidency.

The Massachusetts senator urged the convention here and now to destroy the spirit of sectionalism and to demonstrate that the democratic party is ready to name candidates irrespective of locality, whether from the southland or other parts of the country.

DRY EVILS PLAYED

ciples of local self government and states rights, real temperance and respect for law might be secured. While telling of the changes he would like to have made in the prohibition situation, Governor Smith said that if it was the will of the people for him to take the oath as president to protect and defend the constitution and laws he would execute that oath to the limit of his ability.

SMITH ON FIRST

Smith into a nomination by acclamation.

The others were Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and Texas, representing the remnants of what the anti-Smith leaders had once hoped to build into an impossible home dry and anti-Tammamy plank against the nomination of the governor.

The final totals of the official ballot, revised to show switches to Smith after the nomination became inevitable, tells impressively the margin of his victory:

Ohio Swing Convention
Smith 549 2-3; Senator George of Georgia 52½; Senator Ross of Missouri 52; Representative Hull of Tennessee 48 1-2; Jesse Jones of Texas 43; Chief Justice Watts of South Carolina 18; Senator Harrison of Mississippi 1-2; Evans Woolen of Indiana 7; Governor Donahay of Ohio 5; Representative Ayres of Kansas 3; former Senator Pomeroy of Ohio 3; former Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska 2; Huston Thompson of Colorado 2; Governor Bilbo of Mississippi 1; not voting 24.

It really was Ohio that consummated the nomination. When the first call of the roll had been completed, Smith's total stood at 724 2-3, or nine short of the number needed to nominate. But having paid their tribute to their respective favorite some a half dozen states were ready to change their votes and get aboard the band wagon. For several minutes a presidential nomination hung in the air while delegation chairmen from all sections of the hall tried to shout each other down in their rival attempts to be first to switch to Smith. Chairman Meeker of Ohio, standing on his chair in the right center of the delegate section went out and cast for the New York governor 34 Ohio votes where he had but one on the initial roll call.

Mississippi, Indiana, Nebraska, Kansas and Tennessee quickly followed, giving Smith votes he no longer needed and reducing the anti-Smith residual to but 250 of the convention's total strength of 1,100 delegates.
