LITTLE APPELATE WINS DECISION IN IRRIGATION CASE

A memorandum opinion was handed down by Judge O. M. Thomas of the circuit court yesterday in the suit of the Little Applegate Improvement company against J. J. Munsell and wife, granting the plaintiffs the relief they sought at law, and further holding that Munsell was not entitled to damages.

The action grew out of the use of water in the Old Gallagher ditch built in pioneer times, and a landmark of the Applegate country. A controversy arose between Munsell and users of water in the ditch, allegations being made that its flows was checked, that it was not servicable, and that crops were endangered by inability to secure water.

The case has been pending for some time, and the hearing of testimony occupied two weeks. The court ordered that a decree in conformance with his memorandum opinion be drawn.

The Little Applegate company was represented by Evan Roumes, and the Munsells by Kelly and Kelly.
