

MOTHER OF 14 CHILDREN DOES NOT SPARE ROD

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 10.—One of Vermont's five master farm fairs-makers honored in a special ceremony at the University of Vermont, is the mother of 14 children, and she has a very definite way of handling the "self expression" of modern youth. She is Mrs. Fred A. Mark of Rochester, who lays a heavy rod where and when it is needed. "I am for old-fashioned," she admitted in discussing her views, but she believes a little spanking now and then.

The other women selected for their excellence in rural home-making were Mrs. Alice O'Connell, South Duxbury; Mrs. Mary Blanchard, South Duxbury; Mrs. Leda F. Dutton, Greensboro; and Mrs. Alvin W. Lawrence, Greensboro.

Awarding each of the five medals a gold pin was described as the state's first public recognition of the farm woman's job as a professional.

Outstanding facts concerning the group reveal that all five are good mothers of this and twenty they follow definite health practices for their families, they train their children in religion, in business methods and in love of country living, they provide for recreation and social development in their homes, and they are active workers in church, farm organizations, home economics clubs and junior club work. All of them voted at the last election.

She Flies High
ROCHESTER, N.H., July 10.—(AP)—Lady Heath, a noted woman flier, accompanied by Miss Cecille O'Brien, today created what is claimed to be an altitude record for a light metal airplane. Their ascent, according to the official report, showed that the machine reached a height of 13,400 feet.

MEDFORD LEGION AUXILIARY IS LEADING STATE

(Contributed)
The Medford unit of the American Legion Auxiliary is in receipt of a letter from the department secretary which carries the good news that the unit is ahead of the state with 282 members, which is not only the largest in the state at this time, but the largest that has ever been in the department. Too much cannot be said, according to the organizers, in regard to the spirit shown by every legionnaire who was approached, for to a man they were eager for their mothers, wives, sisters and daughters to be a part of this wonderfully fine organization. The auxiliary is fortunate in having a very enthusiastic and untiring personnel among the members, who, with the piece set by the legion in all civic undertakings, hospitalization and child-welfare work, have a very tangible service to sell to the citizens, and such has been the case during the two membership drives in March and June.

Many charter members are still very active in the unit, giving valuable advice and assistance when needed. It was a matter of gratification to have better than 25 per cent of last year's enrollment re-instated again this year.

ASHLAND'S ART SCHOOL HELD AT THE JUNIOR HIGH

ASHLAND, July 10.—(Special)—The summer art school classes will hold their sessions at the junior high school building on the Boulevard. The building was chosen because it is more centrally located and more convenient in every way than the Washington school. The seats in the Washington building are small and not suitable for adults. Moreover, the school is more conveniently located to work in conjunction with the normal and the Lincoln training school.

Mr. and Mrs. John Layfield of Missoula, Mont., recently made a brief visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ambrose on Fairview street. The visitors were on their way to Los Angeles to visit with Mr. Layfield's brother, who was a delegate from London, Kan., to the world's Sunday school convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Tuel of Grants Pass were Ashland visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson on Graham street.

Mrs. Rachel Harris, a former Ashland resident, was a visitor in this city Sunday from Medford. Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Caldwell and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Redford, with their children, spent the week end on a fishing trip to Lake creek and report reasonably good luck.

Miss Edith Dodge was a bridge hostess on Friday evening when she entertained with four tables of bridge in progress throughout the evening. Miss Margaret McCoy won a lovely prize for holding high score, while Miss Genevieve Swedenburg was awarded the consolation.

The hostess served delicious refreshments at the close of the evening. Those who enjoyed the pleasant affair were Misses Katherine Vincent, Marian Ady, Isabelle Murray, Isabelle Silver, Genevieve Swedenburg, Eleanor Swedenburg, Clara Will, Irma Best, Elna McKeown, Helen Evans, Margaret McCoy, Frances Pratt, Janet Balin, Frances Strange, Kathleen Silver and Mildred Besson.

Mrs. Ulrich Johnston of Seattle, Wash., is visiting in Ashland at the home of her daughter, Mrs. McAlister, on Iowa street.

Mrs. Waldo Gill entertained on July 5, serving a o'clock dinner to a group of friends. The table was beautifully decorated with centerpieces of blossoms in pastel shades. Covers were laid for twelve. Those who enjoyed the affair were: Mrs. Mary Neher, Mr. and Mrs. Hal McNair and son James McNair, Mrs. J. L. Warner and daughter, Mrs. Revere and granddaughter Rose Mary Revere who are visiting here from San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Sam B. McNair, Jean Hills of Klamath Falls and Mary Lou and Lawrence Gill.

Miss Virginia Priaul of Chiloquin, Ore., has been a visitor at the home of Mrs. Mary Wilshire on Granite street.

Miss Beulah Medley of Tacoma, Wash., is visiting in Ashland at the home of her mother, Mrs. Roy Taylor, on Harrison street. Miss Medley formerly lived in Ashland, being a graduate of the high school. She is at present employed as bookkeeper in the Tacoma Times office.

Eugene Leads of Los Angeles, who has been visiting with Ashland relatives for several days, has returned to his home in Los Angeles. He was accompanied home by Wilfred Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Wagner, on Granite street, who came north with Mr. Leads to visit his home. Wilfred expects to enter college in Los Angeles next week.

J. N. Bateman, who has had charge of the Union Oil company distributing plant in Ashland, has been transferred to Centralia, Wash., and will leave with his family for his new home about the middle of July. Mr. Bateman has been instrumental in increasing the Union Oil sales in this territory since he has been stationed here and in 1927 the Ashland territory had the largest percentage of gain of any area in the system.

Percy Morse of Eugene arrived in Ashland Sunday to take his daughter, Elizabeth Morse, home with him. Miss Morse has been attending the Southern Oregon normal school for the past year.

Mrs. Katherine Carter of Eugene arrived in Ashland Saturday on a brief visit to Ashland relatives and friends. Mrs. Carter was a former Ashland resident and is well known here. She was a house guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Galey on Sherman street.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Cherry and their five children left Saturday for their home at Cottage Grove. They spent the holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Werch on Alta avenue. Mrs. Amanda Cherry, mother of Mr. Cherry, accompanied them to Eugene.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith and son, Jamie, returned to their Oak street home Friday after two weeks spent with friends and relatives at Belington, Wash. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Mary Barrington and her daughter, Betty Anne, of Yoncalla, Ore.

J. V. Miller went to Klamath Falls Saturday to bring Mrs. Miller home. Mrs. Miller has been visiting there at the home of her sister and mother.

Russell Cripe, who was athletic coach of the Ashland high school for the past two years, will teach next year in the Glendale, Cal., high school. Mr. Cripe is now attending the summer session at the University of Southern California.

PROTECTION plus!

For more than a third of a century the UNITED ARTISANS LIFE ASSOCIATION has been giving its members unsurpassed protection fortified with friendly services as important as the protection.

This Protection Plus is ARTISANSHIP and it means a number of things. For the sick—medical attention and care. For the bereaved—assistance with all details, financial as well as sympathetic. For the aged or broken—loving care and attention to free them from worry. For the youngsters—the foundations of good citizenship and an insurance program that assures their education. For the growing boy and girl—a share in social activities. For the grown-ups—a sense of Artisan duty in helping others over the rough spots. For some a program of drill team work. For others—dances, picnics, and similar social functions. For any and all—educational activities, art, music, drama, etc., and friendships that last beyond the assembly. For the business man or woman—new contacts and renewed old ones that mean much in life, especially in a new country where Artisan-ship helps you pick up the thread where you dropped it in the old. Let Artisan-ship and its friendly protection guard you and serve you as, for more than a third of a century, it has guarded and served tens of thousands. Insurance is protection, but Artisan-ship is the protection plus that you need.

Artisan insurance policies are unassailable—absolute protection with more than full legal reserves—a non-profit-making association—twenty millions of insurance in force—at a lower cost—for men, women and juniors.

Evidence of Artisan-ship—the beautiful Al-Azar Temple in Portland, and the Artisans Home where loving care and attention are dealt with a lavish hand.
