

AL TREATS THE CROWD AND SWIMS

Democratic Nominee Frolics On Week-End Vacation and Turns Somersaults—Texas Girls Walk From Home to Make Donation—Mingles With Small Boys.

HAMPTON BAYS, N. Y., July 28.—(AP)—With political cares dismissed from his mind for a few days at least Governor Smith came to this seashore resort on the southern fringes of Long Island today for a week-end vacation. He was accompanied by members of his family, who motored with him from New York. Arriving at Canoe Place Inn which will be his headquarters while here, late in the afternoon, the democratic presidential nominee lost no time in taking a swim, his favorite sport. Less than half an hour after he had reached the end of his 100-mile trip, he was enjoying himself in Great Peconic bay which dips far inland from Long Island sound, almost meeting the ocean.

Before returning to New York and then to Albany the governor hopes to get in some golf and tomorrow plans to motor to the east tip of Long Island to inspect Montauk state park.

With the top of his automobile down the presidential nominee set out just at noon today from the Hillmore hotel where he lives while in New York and where last night he discussed the political outlook with Governor Ritchie of Maryland.

Wearing a Panama and a tweed suit of brown, Smith sat on the front seat with his chauffeur, the object of a brief demonstration from admirers outside the hotel before the procession of fifteen motor cars making up his party got under way with two state troopers blazing the way in a small automobile.

Hiding in the rear seat of the governor's car was Mrs. Smith, Miss Rose Pedrock, her secretary, and Mrs. Mary Collins, a close friend.

In the automobile following were Major and Mrs. John A. Warner, his son-in-law and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Quillman, daughter and son-in-law and behind them in their own small car riding alone were Arthur, another son of the governor, and his wife.

Halfway to the destination, Smith's car turned into Riverside Inn and the others followed. Smith climbed out and as the women members of the party went to the veranda for a rest he called to the newspapermen and others to join him.

In a small room where for half an hour three men were kept on the jump serving ginger ale, soda water, cigars and sandwiches, Smith was master of ceremonies urging everybody to have a cooling drink on him.

"Don't take any money from these men," he told the proprietor, "I'm running for alderman and I need their votes."

As he sipped iced soda water and puffed a cigar, the governor pulled from his pocket a five dollar bill given to him just before he left the Hillmore by two girls who said they had biked from Houston, Texas, to make that contribution to his campaign fund.

Smith, it developed, had accepted the bill on which the girls had written their names and in exchange he had given them another one with the suggestion they turn it over to the treasurer of the democratic national committee.

When he reached the beach, the governor found a crowd of youngsters in swimming and a small battalion of camera men waiting for him. He showed them that he could really swim.

Walking into the still salt water, Smith started out with an overhand stroke once he was in water of swimming depth, and later turned a few somersaults in the water. Finally he made his way out to a float, pulling up there with him a number of adventurous youngsters who had gone out that far.

ation. This he continued, enabled bootleggers through connivance with railroad employees to reroute the car to a different American point than the one originally intended. Once this was done he added, the blue seal could be torn off, thereby removing any sign that the car had recently been in international transit and placing it on the same basis as the thousands of other American freight cars.

Lowman expressed the belief that under the new regulations the movement of cars would be as rapid as at present, declaring that the plan had been worked out with the cooperation of officials of the roads affected. He emphasized that the treasury in no way intended to imply that these officials had been connected with bootlegging and that the government's suspicion was directed solely at minor employees.

SELLS SERVICE TO SALESMEN

A community business office has been added to the various forms of community activity at Kansas City, Mo. Miss Ethel C. Feltenstein, above, a young woman in her teens, has opened a "business service" office where salesmen, in town for a few hours, can receive telephone calls or have letters written. Local businessmen also avail themselves of her services.

CARS NEEDED FOR LEGION VISITORS

The transportation problem which confronts the local Legionnaires is a serious one and every Medford citizen is urged to cooperate with the convention commission in this connection. Transportation to and from the fair grounds on Thursday afternoon and Friday night will have to be provided for nearly 400 members of the Legion drum corps and bands as well as for many other visitors who arrive on trains. This detail was well taken care of in the recent Medford Jubilee and resulted in much favorable publicity for Medford's hospitality and it is now up to Medford to attain "make good." All citizens who will give their services and a car for any time during the three-day program should turn in their names to Harry Moore, chairman of transportation or to Legion convention headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce building. AERIAL SHOWERS TO HERALD MEET

Thousands of brightly colored dodgers advertising the Medford Legion convention were scattered over the various communities of the valley yesterday afternoon by Harold Sanders, local pilot. The local convention commission is taking every advantage of modern advertising mediums to attract a record attendance to Medford on August 2, 3 and 4. Present indications point to the largest crowds that have ever assembled in any city of southern Oregon.

CANNON FALLS, Minn., July 28.—(AP)—Most of the 1500 inhabitants of this village turned from normal tasks today to complete preparations for the most important function in the town's history—the visit tomorrow of the president of the United States.

TEXAS CONVICTS LURK IN SWAMP AS HUNT NEARS

HOUSTON, Tex., July 28.—(AP)—One hundred and fifty armed men with 35 bloodhounds, late today were searching swamps near Richmond, 20 miles from here, for four escaped convicts. Four others of the original band of eight, who shot their way to freedom, killing one officer and wounding three others, were captured last night and today.

As the possemen, many of whom deserted ranches and farms to join the hunt, drew tighter their cordons about the lowlands, the injury toll mounted. So far the outbreak has resulted in the following casualties:

Dead: Don Sergeant Henry Ward, of Imperial Farm No. 2.
Critically wounded: Deputy Tom Davis.
Slightly wounded: Jim Geter, prison farm guard, and Deputy Frank Bell.
Captured convicts: R. H. Tucker, held responsible for the slaying of Ward, R. R. Carter, Alvin Ireland and Bill Tompkins. All of the captured convicts were wounded.
Convicts still at large were Irvin Davis, Harvey Williams, Johnny Collins and Fred Burdett, serving terms for burglary and theft.
The escaped prisoners, most of whom were classified as incorrigibles were believed to be heavily armed. They raided the home of a negro trapper, taking two shot guns and a rifle, in addition to the weapons they had taken from Guard Geter and Don Sergeant Ward.

R. J. Flanagan, manager of the three prison farms at Sugarland, and leader of the posse, issued the order to all men in the hunt to "shoot to kill" if they found it necessary.

Today all of the remaining 474 prisoners on Imperial Farm No. 2 were kept in their cells instead of going to the fields, since all available guards had joined the posse.

The break occurred when eight prisoners, who had been cultivating cotton in a field overpowered Geter and took his guns from him.

many's interest flashes with that of his city, his state or his country.

"I realize and I am saddened by the fact that the Tammany record faces a man who is the epitome of a major party in the highest office in the gift of American people. I make no claim here that Smith is a Tammany plug-ugly. I honor him for having risen from the debasing servitude of those who in the days of his youth sweat shame from the brow through those that prey upon the poor—the saloon keeper, the boot and the prostitute.

This record is, of course, an old record of a young man, but the young man case on this record, and today the issue is forced upon the electorate that made this old record—the record of the saloon, which Governor Smith as a young man defended so ably, so consistently, so loyally. But the Tammany system goes on today as it went on 100 years ago, and indeed it will go on in all of our American cities unless Governor Smith and the statesmen behind him are overthrown. Tammany is indeed Tammany and Smith is its making machine."
