

WEDFORD MAIL TRIBUNE

Daily, Sunday, Weekly... MEDFORD PRINTING CO. 16-37-19 N. 2d St. Phone 14

AMERICAN ATHLETIC SUPREMACY ENDS

TIMES have changed. Not so many years ago, track and field events at the Olympic games were little more than contests between members of the American team.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Rippling Rhymes

(By Walt Mason.) INCURABLE HEROISM

Dad Binzo soared to Artland, for he was led to understand there was a continent of land to be discovered; he crossed the Pole in ardent haste, and then above a dismal waste where humus foot was never placed, for days he hovered.

JIM REED SAYS BOURBONS MUST VOTE FOR WETS

KANSAS CITY, July 31.—(AP)—Back in his home town and state Senator James A. Reed has plunged into the state political campaign with the declaration that democratic state nominees must be in harmony with the ideas of Governor Alfred E. Smith on prohibition.

the demonstration, which have involved police clashes. As news spread of the wholesale roundup, a crowd estimated at 10,000 gathered about the police station.

COOLIDGE OUTLINES HIS HELP FOR HOOVER

ST. LOUIS, Wis., July 31.—(AP)—President Coolidge feels that the best contribution to Hoover's campaign is to continue to so conduct the affairs of the nation that the record of the republicanism party may commend itself to voters.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or otherwise credited in this paper, and also to the local news published herein.

Ye Smudge Pot

By Arthur Perry

The civic Delight and Delirium in Dismay and Disgust (deep), because Mr. Hoover came, and the sacred seat of the League were all looking the other way.

QUILL POINTS

Alas! Those who use perfect grammar seldom have anything worth using it for. Ah, well; the business of outlawing war is progressing as well as the business of warring on outlaws.

HABITS, MORRIES AND HEALTH

No. 2.—Eating at Bedtime.

Anyone who does honest work or plays actively should eat heartily and to the satisfaction of his appetite and as soon thereafter as he feels inclined to go to bed and sleep in assurance that he is doing the natural, healthful thing.

Fat Girl.

I am a fat girl, in high school. The girls seem to like me, but you know fat girls are not overwhelmed with "dates." Is marmalade harmful to one's health? Are there any reducing compounds safe to take?

Abe Marlin

of the eighteenth amendment has sent out 1,200,000 letters.

It might send out 1,200,000,000, 000,000,000 letters and still the eighteenth amendment would not be repealed. PROHIBITION WILL STAY IN THE CONSTITUTION.

TEXTILE STRIKERS HERDED INTO JAIL ARE GIVEN HEARING

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 31.—(AP)—Worried and hoarse after a night of confinement at police headquarters during which they sang and cheered almost continuously, 250 textile strikers arrested yesterday afternoon and last night, went into district court today for arraignment.

YOUTHFUL BIFOCALS

The reading segment of the Nokrome Bifocal is practically invisible. As a result, glasses with Nokromes have the same handsome youthful appearance as the single vision lenses worn by the young people of today.

Non-Horse Bromley

Non-Horse Bromley was bereft of his muscles last evening, by force it was only a question of time until Justice overtook the victim of the outrage, who has been flaunting an eyeglass on his upper lip, in the face of lovers of the beautiful, for what seemed like an hour, a fitting appreciation should be rendered the proprietors of the brilliant stroke, Copco movies of the devastation will be shown at the next meeting of the Tolo Community club.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Complete Words and Musky. I saw an article in your issue May 24 about injecting a fluid in the veins for varicose veins. Please send me full details and all necessary information.—Mrs. A. K. I.

Brisbane's Today

(Continued from Page One) how do I know that I can sell it at a profit? And why doesn't the man keep it and take the huge profit himself?

BOY VANDALS IN GRAVEYARD ARE ARRESTED

CALIFORNIA, Mo., July 31.—(AP)—Three boys were being held without bail today on charge of intoxication and tipping over 40 tombstones and wrecking a cemetery in Latham, Mo., a small community.

MUTT AND JEFF—Jeff Displays Real Horse-Sense

Trottin' Jeff, you wait here while I go in and inhale an ice cream soda!

By BUD FISHER

HE DIDN'T TIE ME TO THE HITCHIN POST SO I JUST ROAMED OFF! NOW YOU SEE IF YOU CAN CATCH ME!

Correct this sentence: "Post cards addressed to a neighbor were placed in our box by mistake," said she, "but I didn't read them."

With the head of General Motors as national democratic chairman this year, "business" is going to show less excitement about the outcome than in some former campaigns.

More Mysteries

Who discovered that autos in man for two will carry six or seven? Why does a cat's tail get so big when a fight is brewing? What is the man wearing who beats his lost shirt?

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

One of the secretary processes of digestion is the secretion of insulin by cells in the pancreas. The insulin enters the blood stream, and is essential in the assimilation or metabolism of the blood sugar, which is the form all carbohydrate food takes in the body.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint when they suffer from insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to give more temperance.

Correct this sentence: "I'd like to take you," said the flapper to her boy friend, "but the front seat has room for only two."

People who shouldn't take the extra nour