19 CARS PEARS SHIPPED OUT AS PICKING STARTS

The Bartlett pears have been ripening so fast that they are all practically coming on at once. While many of the orchards have been picking today and all the packing houses making last preparations for receiving the large crop as it is brought to them for shipment to canneries or the eastern markets, or to be held in cold storage until the market situation financially improves, more will be picking tomorrow, and by Wednesday all orchards will be picking and the packing houses working to capacity.

From then on, for weeks, the pear harvesting activities, with their enormous pay roll, will be at fever heat. There seemed to still be a surplus labor supply today, as the government employment bureau this forenoon, Chris Gotlieb, manager, had to turn away over 100 applicants for pear picking jobs, but the activities of the next few days may absorb the excess supply.

The pears that will be sold to the canneries must be picked soon, but many of those that will be held in cold storage can be picked later, as quite a number of growers who called at the county agent's office today with sample pears from their trees to be tested, learned they could wait.

Up to today eight cars of Bartlett had been shipped from the Van Hoevenberg orchard, and 11 from the Palmer Corporation orchards.

TOURIST TRAVEL TO MEDFORD IS NOW AT HEIGHT

The peak of the auto tourist season is now on, as soon the auto tourists from distant eastern, mid-western and southern states must be turning back homeward for the usual beginning of school in September, and also because of the general summer vacation period closing by the middle of the month. Also the Crater Lake season closes on September 20.

The presence of the big state American Legion convention here last week, which filled up the hotels and local auto camps of the valley, no doubt turned many tourists away temporarily, but they began showing up at the hotels in noticeable numbers again yesterday and today, including quite a number of distant state tourists traveling by train.

This forenoon by 10:30 o'clock over 60 out-of-state cars, including many from distant states, had registered at the local state auto traffic bureau in the Chamber of Commerce building, with more steadily arriving throughout the day.

California from all parts of that state continue to come in force and among the arrivals yesterday and today were many from Los Angeles and other parts of southern California. The auto tourist travel from California, Washington and other Pacific and Northwest states is expected to continue heavy until about September 15.
