

MOOSE MURHEAD IS GOING TO FLY, SO IS H. FLUHRER

Two well known residents of this city and valley have become bird-minded and full of desire to soar through the air above their home town, and view the orchards from aloft. They are Moose Murhead of this city and Gohl Hill, and Henry (Heinlo) Fluhrer.

Murhead, who won athletic fame as a sprinter for Old Oregon in his college days, has twelve flying hours to his credit, and with a licensed pilot handy has steered a plane hither and yon. He has also made a couple of landings, which were declared good for an amateur. Mr. Murhead figures that in ten years everybody will be flying, and he might as well learn now as then. He is able to speak learnedly of the vital parts of an airplane.

Fluhrer has been more cautious to date, but is overflowing with lectures on the gentle art of flying. He has made no ascension to date, but will soon. He was scheduled to rise this morning, but had to go to Yreka.

There are ten or twelve more local citizens about ready to enroll in the Rankin school of aviation. Harold Sanders, instructor, declares.

CARNIVAL DANCE TO BE GIVEN BY LOCAL ARTISANS

A carnival dance to be given Saturday night at Hilary hall by local Artisans was one of the features of the convalescent program outlined at a meeting last evening held at the Craterian hotel.

Four hundred visitors from Portland are expected to arrive here Friday morning at 9:30 on a special train. Delegates from Seattle and Everett, Wash., and various California areas will also be in the city during the convalescent.

Friday morning's schedule includes registration of guests and sightseeing. That evening there will be initiation ceremonies and conferring of Al Azar degrees at the armory, followed by entertainment furnished by committees from various lodges represented at the meeting.

One of the final events on the program will be a parade of fraternal bodies led by Medford Post No. 15, American Legion drum corps. The line of march will be from West Main and Oakdale to the Hilary hall, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The dance will then complete Medford's first annual Artisan convalescent. Last year the convention was held at Seattle.

Mrs. Minnie Schmid of Portland is general chairman in charge of all plans for the celebration. She has spent the past few weeks in Medford. Other Artisans who are assisting Mrs. Schmid include J. Ernest LaPine and Frank DeArcey, Portland, and Jack Hamilton, Medford.

The local Chamber of Commerce will act as host for a large number of guests who will be taken to Crater Lake early Sunday morning in a special caravan of cars.

"A Night in Spain" Colorful Revue at Craterian Monday

Coming to Medford after its sensational 29-week run at the Four Colman theater, Chicago, "A Night in Spain" will hold forth at the Craterian theater next Monday night, August 13.

The production is the same as that offered at the New York Winter Garden while the cast remains exactly as it was in both Gotham and Chicago. Those who will be present are Phil Baker, Ted Healy, Albee Stanley, In Gertrude Hoffman, Helen Hunter, Victor & Frances Paul and Ferral, Paul Brown, Sid Silver, Mabel Ash, Bob Stanley, George Anderson, Glen Dale, Barbara Veranda, The Coral, Bobby Pinkus, Sam Brown, Larry Pine, J. Chivil Dunn, Lillian Smith, Andreini trio and what are said to be "seventy sweetly seductive satirical scenarios."

CITY ORDINANCE TO CONTROL RADIO IN CITY LIMITS

An ordinance, which will be witnessed by the many hundreds of owners of radio sets in Medford and the valley was introduced at the city council meeting last night by Attorney Frank DeSouza on behalf of the radio users, which because of the stress of other business, the council received, but took no action on, as the city officials desired to look it over and study its provisions carefully. This ordinance will come up at the next council meeting, next week hence.

It has long been recognized by owners of radio sets that some such ordinance should be passed for their protection. The ordinance introduced last night provides for the minimizing of radio interference, demands an emergency which means that it passed it would go into effect at once, and provides penalties for violations.

The ordinance, among other things, would make it unlawful for any person to operate apparatus that interferes with radio broadcasting and reception, including any apparatus generating or causing high frequency oscillations, which interfere with radio broadcasting or receiving apparatus, without a permit to use the same, and sets forth how such permits must be obtained from the city electrical inspector. As the construction of radio sets the ordinance makes it unlawful for any person to construct, maintain or use any aerial, or other device or apparatus, which shall cross any street or alley, or which shall cross or be within 100 feet of any high tension electric wires, carrying in excess of 100 volts at any time; that any or all aerials hereafter constructed must be equipped with a lightning arrester or switch of some standard design, and that all aerials heretofore constructed shall, within 30 days of the passage of the ordinance, be repaired or replaced so as to conform with the provisions of the ordinance.

CRATER LAKE GETS FINE PUBLICITY IN CO. ADVERTISING

Crater Lake National park and Medford, its official gateway, will receive wide publicity throughout the United States as a result of a recent trip to southern Oregon by C. W. MacFarlane of the George Harrison Photo Service, a Los Angeles agency. While in this city, Mr. MacFarlane accompanied by Clyde Eakin, made the trip to Crater Lake where photographs were taken showing the new Dodge Brothers Victory Six on the rim of the lake.

George Harrison Photo, advertising counselors for Dodge Brothers, have prepared an attractive layout of these pictures and an interesting news story which is being sent to newspapers in practically every city in the United States. A brief description of Crater Lake is outlined in the publicity story and the fact is emphasized that Medford is the convenient gateway, joined with 81 miles of surfaced, gently graded roads. The advertising feature of Dodge Brothers cars remains in the background and the attention Crater Lake National park will receive throughout the country from this publicity feature will prove of incalculable value in further popularizing southern Oregon's national park as a tourist attraction.

NEW AUTO PARKING RULES ARE MADE

In order to eliminate traffic congestion in the packing house district, the city council last night, upon the request of the city traffic department, passed a resolution governing traffic conditions in that district between August 1 and November 1, and which must be observed by all motorists having business in that district.

The parking limit was cut down to 10 minutes on Fir street from Eighth street to a point 250 feet beyond Twelfth street, or to a point corresponding to Thirteenth. The 10-minute parking rule is also in effect on Eleventh street between Fir and Front. This traffic ruling, which will be in effect during the rush of the fruit season, was made necessary due to the fact that packing house employees parked cars in the congested district for a day at a time, making the driving of trucks and parking of same for unloading purposes difficult.

The new parking limit will be rigidly enforced by City Traffic Officer G. J. Prescott, who will direct special attention toward the packing house district.

IN BAD HEALTH FOR SIX YEARS

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Gave Her Strength

Arpahee, Okla.—"I want to tell you just what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in bad health for about six years. My nerves were all to pieces. I could not sleep and wasn't able to do my housework. Now I feel so much better! I sleep like a baby. I can do all my housework, washing and ironing and feel fine all the time. I help my husband some in the field, too, so you see we have something to praise the Vegetable Compound for. I will gladly answer all letters asking about the Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine."—Mrs. LUTHER HIGGS, Box 665, Westwood, California.

NOTED COLUMNIST TO VISIT HOOVER

Expecting to visit his friend, Herbert Hoover, at Palo Alto tomorrow, A. L. Hibby, well known columnist on the Nebraska State Journal at Lincoln, Neb., will leave this valley after spending several days as the guest of a brother, Wm. Hibby at Jacksonville. When the presidential nominee was a young boy the two became well acquainted. In talking with a Mail Tribune reporter, the newspaperman expressed admiration and respect for Mr. Hoover and stated that he was "all for him." "I only stayed here four days because I believe that short visits good friends make," the columnist said. After leaving Palo Alto, Mr. Hibby will spend a short time with Walt Mason, fell ow humorist, at La Jolla, Cal.

T. E. DANIELS BACK FROM ALASKA TRIP WITH FISH IDEAS

Encouraging progress is being made in building up the depleted salmon fisheries of Alaska which were at one time threatened with extinction, according to T. E. Daniels, member of the Western Food and Game Fish Protective association, who recently returned from a month's trip to Alaska for the purpose of making a special study of the industry and its administration in the northern districts.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniels made the trip from Seattle on the United States fisheries ship "Orion" as the guests of Henry O'Malley, U. S. commissioner of fisheries. They covered all of the Alaskan fisheries on a cruise of over 5000 miles. The local sportsman praised the conservation work being done under the direction of Mr. O'Malley.

The White bill, passed by Congress in 1924, giving the department of commerce broad powers in regulating Alaskan fisheries, the first law restricting fisheries to be passed by Congress since 1906, has been responsible for changes in fishery regulations that will save a $10,000,000 industry in this country," Mr. Daniels stated in an interview today.

Previous to the passage of the new law, commercial fishermen on the Yukon river had so depleted the salmon runs that the natives were unable to get enough fish for their personal use and to keep their dog teams alive in winter. Within a few years in the interior of Alaska both natives and whites would have difficulty in surviving, Mr. Daniels explained.

Mr. Daniels explained, Governor George Parks was compelled to shoot a fine team of dogs at one time when he was in the interior on the Yukon because of the lack of food for them during the winter. "As a result of the unsatisfactory condition of the Yukon fisheries, the department of commerce closed the Yukon to all commercial fishing for export and the industry had been practically wiped out of that section. "Before the new regulations under the White bill were put into effect, commercial fishermen confined their work to small bays and rivers. Fish traps were permitted within 1500 feet of each other and the industry was carried on by the competing cannery men and fishermen with the idea that if one company did not get the fish another one would. The practice was rapidly wiping out the salmon fishing," Mr. Daniels pointed out. "No fishing is permitted in any stream or at the mouth of any stream in Alaska under the new regulations, the practice of the big fish trap being gradually being eliminated farther from the mouths of streams and small bays. During this year alone 25 per cent of all fish traps in Alaska have been refused permits to operate, according to official reports. At first canneries and fishermen opposed the strict rules. The prohibiting of fishing in and near the mouth of rivers is in contrast to operations on the Rogue river, and is, Mr. Daniels believes, a good answer to one phase of the continual Rogue river controversy. "The Alaska fisheries will be prosperous this year with a pack of approximately four and a half million cases, each case containing 15 tons of one pound each, it is estimated by authorities. "Open fishing seasons in some areas in Alaska are as short as 30 days with a closed period of 26 hours each. In other places where the fishing season is longer closed periods extend to 80 hours. "In many streams the govern-
