NO FARM HOMES DESTROYED OR MEN ENDANGERED

With a new fire reported this morning a half mile west of the first fire, which broke out Wednesday and was thought to be practically under control early yesterday afternoon, the forest fire situation in the Galls creek section near Gold Hill was reported as unsatisfactory this afternoon. Both fires are out of control and the first one at 5 o'clock last evening was reported to be covering 1000 acres and a considerably larger area today.

While two or three vacant buildings in the path of the flames were destroyed, no farmers so far have lost ranch buildings. The J. O. Pierce ranch house, occupied by Joe Hammerly, reported last evening as probably being destroyed, was not damaged, according to reports from Gold Hill this afternoon.

More fire fighters were rushed to the scene late yesterday by District Fire Warden Dwight Phillips, who is overseeing the efforts of the state men, in addition to volunteers recruited from Gold Hill and nearby farms. The fire is not in a heavy stand of timber but is burning rapidly in thick brush and scrub oak, making the valley hazy with smoke. Smoke is also drifting into the valley from fires which are burning near Powers in Douglas county.

Local forest officials this afternoon were without new information on the Galls creek fires. Forest fire lookouts on the Crater forest were called for information, but they reported the atmosphere too smoky to spot the Galls Creek area. The Crater forest is free from blazes, according to the local headquarters office.

In addition to burning the vacant buildings, the Galls Creek fire also destroyed considerable cut wood and burned over hay and stubble fields, according to unofficial reports.

Why They Are for Hoover

I have been asked to say why I support the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for president.

I have known him personally for twenty-six years; and, while during that period, I have not known him intimately; still, through many mutual friends, and through my relations with the engineering firm of which he was long a member, I have been able to watch his career very carefully.

He is known to his most intimate associates as thoroughly honest, capable, energetic and with superb reasoning facilities that enable him to go to the bottom of any question that confronts him and the will and tenacity to do so. Everyone knows that he is public spirited, that he has a wide knowledge of domestic problems that are likely to arise during his administration and such an intimate acquaintance with foreign affairs as is probably not equalled by any other man in this country.

I believe Mr. Smith's ideas as to the evils of our present prohibition law are more advanced than Mr. Hoover's; but that whenever a thorough study of the available data leads Mr. Hoover's reason to tell him that this "experiment" is not along the best lines for the benefit of the nation, he will be as ready as anyone to point out a lawful remedy.

ALBERT BURCH, Black Oak Ranch, Medford, Oregon, Aug. 17. (Note: Mr. Burch is a mining engineer of national standing, well known all over the west, but particularly in California and Washington, who is now making his permanent home on his ranch west of the city.)

JUDGE THOMAS WILL OPEN COURT HERE

The fall term of the circuit court will convene Monday, September 15, and over 50 civil actions are scheduled to be heard. A number are also pending. There will be a light criminal docket. Circuit Judge C. M. Thomas will occupy the bench during the September term of court, which is expected to last well into November.

HORSE RACING FAIR PROGRAM IS COMPLETED

The horse racing program for the annual Jackson county fair has been completed and calls for four races on the first and last days of the fair, and for three races daily on each of the other two days. The program will probably have a special race on two or three days, as the rivalry between owners of various horses warms.

Over 70 horses will be stabled at the fair grounds for the races, and it is declared many of the racers were at Tia Juana last winter and spring.

The buildings at the fair grounds were recently treated to a coat of cream and black paint, and the new structures will be ready long before the fair opening, according to Secretary Dan Herring.

LOCAL VISITOR IS A HOOVER BOOSTER

A. L. Bixby, columnist of the Nebraska State Journal Lincoln, Nebraska, who recently visited his brother, R. H. Bixby, of Jacksonville, writes that later that on his trip to California he secured an audience with Herbert Hoover and he found the nominee friendly, sincere, and the possessor of an impressive personality, with none of the artifices of a politician. Mr. Bixby was much impressed, he wrote, by the nobility and strength of character of Mr. Hoover.

Mr. Bixby, who signs his contributions "Bix," is known to, and has been read for many years by, several local people, including Dr. Spatz and Lew Reynolds of the Hotel Holland, both being former Nebraskans.

LEGION, NOT ELKS, OPPOSED TO JAPS

It was not the Elks lodge that took up the fight several years ago against the importation of Japanese labor from Sacramento to work at the 401 orchard, but the Medford American Legion post instead, according to R. E. Wilson, foreman of the 401 orchard, who telephoned in the information this afternoon. Mr. Wilson stated he wished the Legion to receive full credit for their work during that time. The Elks were given credit for a contribution, which appeared in last night's Mail Tribune and which was written by Mrs. H. G. Bliton against the present alleged importation of California labor during the fruit season.

THREE MINOR FIRES IN CITY EXTINGUISHED

The fire department yesterday afternoon was called to action three times, the first fire destroyed the R. Dubbs garage on Mac street, killing a number of chickens and burning up a supply of wood. The department, which sent its chemical truck to the scene, used 47 gallons of chemical on the flames, which also threatened other buildings, after the department was called to a rubbish fire shortly before 1 o'clock, behind the Salvation Army church and at 5 o'clock was called to the Faking garage to extinguish a blazing automobile.

No Wasted Moments

Ordinarily retail sales people are idle part of their time. Between customers they are not always engaged in constructive work. Safeway salesmen anticipate the things their customers are going to want and in slack moments they weigh, wrap and tie these items in the desired quantities. Having these things ready enables them to serve you more quickly in rush hours, cuts the sales force and saves you money.
