

U. S. AMBASSADOR BECOMES POETIC OVER PEACE PACT

PARIS, Aug. 25.—(AP) Robert Underwood Johnson, former American ambassador to Italy and long a champion of various efforts towards peace, has written a "hymn for the pact of peace," which he has inscribed to Foreign Minister Briand of France and Secretary of State Kellogg.

It reads:

"Lift up your heads, ye peoples. The miracle has come. No longer are ye helpless. No longer are ye dumb."

"Those whom he craved to lead you."

Your path of yearning dare The few rejoice with feasting. The millions praise with prayer.

"Lift up your hearts ye peoples. Cheer every doubting soul. That found the road a barrier. Betwixt you and your goal."

"Go say to him that feareth, 'That peace is the world's friend. Not rulers but the people Shall lead the peoples' faith."

"Lift up your hands ye peoples And take the sacred vow To war's age-honored moloch. No longer will ye bow."

"Your leaders who have followed, Arise and follow them. Oh hear ye not the angels Singing of Bethlehem."

REPORT ON EAGLE POINT IRRIGATION DISTRICT PRESENTED

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 25.—(AP)—A special board to make an economic survey of the Eagle Point irrigation district in Jackson county has filed its findings with the state reclamation commission. The report will be used as a basis for a reorganizing and refinancing plan to be prepared by the district bondholders' committee, which has been appointed by the commission.

The economic survey was made by the Oregon experiment station in co-operation with the United States department of agriculture. The officials making the survey were T. A. Ewing, irrigation economist with the federal department of agriculture; W. W. McLoughlin, associate chief in the division of agricultural engineering; and W. L. Powers, chief of soils at Oregon Agricultural college.

The bondholders' committee expects to submit its plan directly to the bondholders before asking them for a deposit of bonds. This is a departure from the usual plan, which is to ask for the bond deposit first.

The district has 6,000 irrigable acres and a total debt of $452,000.

Passing of the Early Pioneer

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 25.—(AP) Sidney Horn, a pioneer prospector and one of the first white men to enter the John Day country in northern Oregon, died in a hospital here yesterday. He had resided here for about 20 years.

Horn in 1854, he crossed the plains to Stockton, Cal., in 1862 with his parents behind an ox team. After some years in California, they continued on to Oregon.

Surviving relatives are his widow, three daughters and two sons, including Mrs. Charles Cole and Sidney Horn, Portland.

HOOPER TO REST

Jersey and Ritchie of Maryland, late today viewed the state National Guard regiments in encampment here on a wide stretch of ground between Mr. Moore's summer home and the Atlantic ocean.

It was estimated that more than 100,000 persons would turn out for the "governors' day" affair, which is arranged each year and which Governor Smith has attended three or four times before.

Since the nominee's campaign speaking plans still are in the making, and the event is an open air one, Governor Smith planned merely to review the troops and to stick to his determination to steer clear of outdoor speeches as much as possible.

Escorted by a group of motorcycle police of this state, the nominee arrived at Spring Lake to find another great crowd waiting for him at the doorway and on the balconies of his hotel. Later with Mrs. Smith and other members of his family he came down to the dining room, where hundreds in evening dress had gathered before going to the ball.

While the governor's party was at the table the lights went out for about five minutes. Those in the Smith crowd passed the time by lighting matches from cigars, while a New York special policeman lit one match after another and held it over the table until the lights came back on.

As several thousands waited for the big social event of the evening, the nominee received several of his political associates. Later he came down the staircase to the ballroom, beside Mrs. Moore and after a few minutes left his box to go for a walk on the board walk, but the crowds go to think he had to seek seclusion in his room again.

GREATER MOVIE SEASON OPENS MEDFORD SHOWS

Celebrating the 32nd anniversary of the birth of motion pictures, today marks the opening of the annual "Greater Movie Season" for Medford and will be observed by the Craterian and Rialto theatres by the presentation of bigger and better productions at both show houses, in addition to the distribution of five passes each, by airplane.

The airplane distribution will be the same as last year, but during the present season will also take in Gold Hill, Central Point, Talent, Phoenix and Jacksonville. A plane will fly low over Medford, as well as the other points of distribution, and tickets will be cast into the air and will admit those who find them. The dates and time of flying will be announced early next week in this paper.

With the arrival of "Greater Movie Season" each year finds the moving picture industry further advanced in Medford, with the introduction of the Vitaphone and moviegrams at the Craterian, the feature of the past year's program carried on by George A. Hunt, Medford's pioneer in the moving picture business and one of the most well known in the state. Medford is included among the comparatively few cities in the nation that enjoys the distinction of Vitaphone movie, and is the only one between Salem and San Francisco.

A late count shows that only 400 theaters in the United States have such equipment at the present time. This number is expected to be increased to 1000 by early next year. In cities in the southwest and east many times the size of Medford, the Vitaphone and moviegram have not been introduced and when they are introduced into cities of such size, it is a banner event.

Medford theatre goers enjoy the advantages of the city dwellers in seeing big productions nearly as soon as they are released and often before they are shown in the more populated centers. This feature of Mr. Hunt's movie program has caused many visitors from larger cities to wonder how such service could be possible, and is done through Mr. Hunt's desire to give Medford the best of motion picture entertainment and entails considerable expense in procuring big productions to show here early.

The present "Greater Movie Season" will witness numerous productions of unusual importance and being to Medford the best that the moving picture industry has to offer.

Copco to Present "Rip Van Winkle"

A novel radio program which is bound to attract widespread interest will be presented by the California Oregon Power company over station KMED next Tuesday night. Upon this occasion, Copco will present William Lee Greenleaf well known actor-reader in his first radio performance as "Rip Van Winkle." Mr. Greenleaf needs no introduction to Southern Oregon people as he is a resident of the valley and has appeared before local audiences on several occasions in the past. He has made many tours of the coast in recent years appearing in all of the large cities and will leave early in September on a tour of California where he has a number of bookings with some of the leading universities and high schools. Tuesday night's radio program will be his last appearance in Medford before leaving for the south and a large radio audience is already assured.

Josephine County to Have Big Fair September 5 to 8

F. G. Hooper, secretary of the Josephine county fair, spent today in Medford, advertising the thirtieth annual renewal of the attraction which opens September 5th for a four-day run.

The Josephine county fairgrounds, near Grants Pass, were re-located last year and this summer several new and commodious buildings have been erected. A wide range of entertainment features will attract fair visitors this year, according to Mr. Hooper, who also stated that horticultural and agricultural exhibits will be the most extensive in the history of the fair.

FOREST G. LAWYER TO RUN AGAINST JUDGE J. L. RAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Backed by a nomination received at a meeting of citizens held here last night, Lloyd H. Graham, Forest Grove lawyer and member of the state legislature, was in the field today as a candidate for the supreme bench at the election November 6.

Under the Oregon law, action of this kind is necessary to nominate one who was not a candidate at the primary. Mr. Graham has been a life-long republican. He will be designated as an independent candidate.

Announcement from Mr. Graham's headquarters today said: "Dissatisfaction on the part of many voters with the nomination of Judge Rand in the primary caused the citizens to meet and nominate Mr. Graham for this position. It is felt that Mr. Graham's long experience in the law and his record as a legislator render him an especially desirable man for the supreme bench. He has served as representative in six sessions of the Oregon legislature, where, as a member of the standing committee, he made an outstanding record."

PROBE HOLOCAUST

"What was that?" those on the station platform asked themselves. Then a shriek, rising to a pitch of terror which made those who heard it shudder, came out of the darkness. A cloud of smoke rolled back into the station, throwing those on the crowded platform into a panic, and out of the smoke cloud staggered blackened, bleeding victims of the disaster.

A detective on a northbound train which had just passed the scene of the wreck, springing from the car and dashed up the steps to pull the lever on both the fire and police alarm boxes.

Policemen stationed along Broadway and Seventh avenue also had heard that dull, far away boom, and deserting their posts rushed into the crowded station and started herding passengers out.

In the dim light of the overhead lights, the sparks from the third rail and the sickly gleaming emergency lights, the police and firemen who were quickly throwing the tunnel saw the enormity of the task ahead of them.

Terror and Confusion

There on the floor of the tunnel were the two crushed cars, from whose windows came the moans of the desperately injured, while those still able to move screamed as they fought to get through the shattered windows.

In the upright cars of the train, men, women and children were struggling to break out the windows and escape from a peril they only sensed, many of them half-stunned by being thrown to the floor of the cars.

On the street above, excited throngs milled about as all available fire and ambulance equipment of the city came rushing to the scene.

Nurses and doctors grouped themselves about the kiosks as the police and firemen and many volunteer helpers carried out the dead and injured. Some bodies were mangled almost beyond recognition. Those who could walk were led from the stalled train to the nearest exits and helped to the street.

All the power on the west side line was shut off and many other trains were stalled between stations, their excited passengers adding to the confusion which extended up and down the subway for miles.

Paralyzed by Freight

Emergency electric light lines were strung from street connections and searchlights played over the smashed cars. The big lights picked out several terrified passengers clinging to the sides of the two overturned cars, paralyzed by fright to move or make a sound.

Acetylene torches were brought into play for cutting away the tangled steel of the shattered ninth car. All of the dead and critically injured were either in this car or the eighth car.

Hampered by the smoke and dust which swirled about them, the rescue workers entered the cars and carried out those who, either killed or rendered unconscious, still lay in the shattered cars.

In one end of the ninth car they found the body of a baby, decapitated, and that of a woman, almost all the clothing stripped from her body by the rush of injured and uninjured passengers seeking to escape from the shambles.

The Cotton Blossom Singers at 1st Methodist Church, Sunday Eve.

The Cotton Blossom Singers, girls' quintet from Piney Woods school, Piney Woods, Miss., will give a concert of negro spirituals, southern melodies and dialect readings, Sunday night August 26, at 8 p. m., at the First Methodist church, Rev. Temple pastor. The girls have been singing over the United States for two years and are on their way to the Piney Woods school in Mississippi, via California.

The school was founded by Laurence C. James, a graduate of the state university of Iowa. It was founded in 1910, under a cedar tree, but at the present, the school owns 1500 acres of land, its own post office, station stop and electric light plant and several other growing plants, which makes the school twice as large each year.

Sunday night at the First Methodist church the story of Piney Woods will be told in a most thrilling way. Don't miss the opportunity of the south.

An invitation to visit the school is extended to everyone passing that way. We have room for all who wish to stop and you can stay as long as you wish, with something different, to see every day and for your first dinner, you will have as one an opussum, rianked around with yams.

FATHER KILLS DAUGHTER AND SHOTS HUSBAND

BATH, N. Y., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Louise Dart McGowan, 22, was slain and her husband, Claude McGowan, seriously wounded early today by the young woman's father, William Dart, at Gibson's Landing, north of here. Dart surrendered to authorities and admitted the shooting.

The shooting occurred at the Dart home where Mrs. McGowan had been living since an estrangement three months ago.

Last night McGowan called at the home and his wife dressed and went downstairs to talk to him. The two walked up the road and Dart, who said he feared trouble, picked up his shotgun and went outside.

"Father, father, come! he's killing me," the young woman cried in a few minutes, according to Dart.

He ran up the road where he saw the two struggling. As he threw the gun to his shoulder his daughter said: "Don't shoot, father, it's me."

He heard the cry too late. The charge from the shotgun struck the girl in the head and McGowan at the base of the skull. She was killed instantly.

Dart returned to the house, called the sheriff's office and was taken into custody by Sheriff Lynn Kellogg.

The McGowans had been married four years and had a three-year-old son.

Physicians at Bath hospital said McGowan's condition was critical.

Slain Girl Identified

ELKHORN, Wis., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Exhuming the body of the young woman found strangled in a culvert here Friday morning, Dr. E. T. Ridgway, coroner's physician, found a scar on the left shoulder corresponding with one said to have been carried by Lenora Abitz, Milwaukee domestic, missing since June 19. The curiosity of a dog led to the discovery of the body.

PIRATES NOT OUT OF RUNNING FOR NATIONAL TITLE

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Baseball predictions are dangerous.

When the New York Giants swept the Cardinals into defeat in three straight games at St. Louis, some of the boys thought the National league battle was all over, but the shouting. And when the New York Yankees came out of their extended slump and eased their way back to a five-game lead over the Philadelphia Athletics, it was freely predicted that Connie Mack had started his bid in the American league too late to do any good.

But today the Cardinals are back on top in John Heydler's circuit again. They lead the Pittsburgh Pirates, in fifth place, by only five and a half games. The Yankees still hold the crest in the American league, but their advantage over the A's has dwindled to three games.

McGraw's clan now trails the Cardinals by a game and a half. Yesterday the Corsairs, still very much in the pennant race, flogged the Giants into a disastrous 16 to 5 defeat, clouting five New York pitchers for 15 hits, good for 29 bases. Burleigh Grimes, hanging up his 22nd victory of the year, beat the Giants for the fifth straight time this season.

The Cardinals took advantage of this break by downing the Phillies, in a great pitcher's battle between Jess Haines for the Cards and Bengie Walsh for the Phils. The only score of the game was a home run by Ernest Orsatti, recruit Card first baseman.

Taking a double bill from the Boston Braves, the Chicago Cubs vaulted back into third place, only three and a half games out of the lead, 4-1 and 4-3.

The A's clipped a game and a half off the Yankees' lead by downing Cleveland for the fourth straight day, 1 to 0, while the champions were losing twice to the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 2 and 3 to 1.

Rube Walberg not only held the Indians to six hits, but scored the only run of the game at Philadelphia in the third inning.

The Yankees' double defeat was directly due to some extraordinary pitching by Alvin Crowder and George Backholder.

After dropping four straight games to Detroit, all by one-run margins, the Boston Red Sox turned on their tormentors and administered similar medicine to the Tigers in the final game of the series, 2 to 1.

TILDEN BARRED FROM TOURNEYS

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—New York Tilden, 11, giant veteran of the tennis courts, has been barred indefinitely from amateur competition.

The lanky Philadelphian, veteran of nine Davis cup campaigns, 30 times holder of the national singles title and by many regarded as the greatest tennis player of all time, was found guilty early today of violating the amateur player's rule of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

The committee, at the same time, made it plain that Tilden's suspension from amateur competition in "no way affects his personal standing as an amateur."

CHARLEY CHAPLIN IS SINGLE AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The final bond between Charles Chaplin and his divorced wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, was severed today when the attorney for Mrs. Chaplin filed the final decree, one year and one day since the film comedian's actress wife obtained an interlocutory decree.

Mrs. Chaplin did not move for her final decree yesterday when the legal year was ended, on advice of the court. It was pointed out that the exact time intervening between an interlocutory and a final decree, whether a year or a day, and a day, never had been definitely established through a high court decision in California.
