HELEN KEEPS HER TENNIS HONORS IN SWIFT GAME

WEST SIDE STADIUM, FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Helen Wills today retained her national women's tennis championship, defeating Helen Jacobs, 6-2, 6-1.

It took Miss Wills just 33 1/2 minutes to down her fellow-Californian and take the title for the fifth time, adding it to the English and French championships which she has won already this year.

A crowd of 2,000 persons looked on at a match filled with thrills and harder fought than the scores indicate. Miss Jacobs made her bid on a daring net game mixed with canny shot strokes and lost largely because of Miss Wills' success in splitting this style of attack. She was considerably wilder than Miss Wills who also was her superior in speed of drive.

the role of his country, the Honorable Mr. Kellogg is able to measure with just pride all the road covered in so short a time since the epoch when we examined, both of us, the possibilities of realization of this vast diplomatic enterprise.

"None is better qualified to take part in the negotiations today brought to a happy ending, the preponderant part of which was his and which will always stand in his honor in the minds of men, his optimism and tenacity have overcome human skepticism, his loyalty and good faith, the good will he brought to dispassionate and precise explanations, the legitimate misgivings, have won for him the confidence of all collaborators and his clear sightedness has shown what one can expect from governments which are guided by a profound aspiration of their peoples.

"What greater lesson can be offered the world than this spectacle of reunion where for signature of a pact against war, Germany of her free will and on an even footing takes her place among the signatories, her former adversaries. The occasion is all the more striking when it is given to a representative of France to receive for the first time since more than half a century, a German foreign minister on French soil and give him the same welcome as all his foreign colleagues.

"I would add gentlemen when this representative of Germany is named Stresemann, that one can believe me particularly happy to render homage to the highness of mind and to the courage of this eminent man of state who during more than three years has not hesitated to engage all his responsibility in the work of cooperation for the maintenance of peace."

M. Briand concluded with a quotation of President Coolidge's sentiment: "An act of war in any part of the world is an act which causes prejudice to the interests of my country" he added:

"The modern law of interdependence of nations imposes on every statesman that he take for himself this memorable word of President Coolidge."

RAND OPPONENT FOR HIGH BENCH HITS LEGAL SNAG

SALEM, Oreg., Aug. 27.—(AP) The certificate of nomination of Loyal H. Graham of Washington county as an independent candidate for the supreme court has been presented to the secretary of state, but will not be filed until an opinion is given to the correctness of the certificate from Attorney-General VanWinkle. The attorney-general is on his vacation, but will be back by the middle of the week.

Graham asks that after his name on the ballot the words "Favors non-partisan judiciary, independent" be used. But since the certificate does not show that the assembly that nominated him declared for this principle, the attorney-general is to be consulted.

A certificate of nomination was received today for James A. Chinook of Grants Pass, who was nominated by the Josephine county re-tornado, which swept across Mills, Pottawattamie, Cass and Montgomery counties late yesterday.

All known casualties were reported from Elliott, Montgomery county, where James H. Jervis and his five-year-old son were killed as the tornado demolished their farm home. Mrs. Jervis is in a critical condition from injuries received at the same time. Mr. and Mrs. George Smith and baby were also seriously injured at their home nearby.

The town of Oakland, Pottawattamie county, is believed to have suffered the most damage with all telephone and telegraph lines down throughout the district, only meager reports filtered out. A statement that six persons had been slightly injured and that the congregational church and store buildings had been destroyed could not be verified early today.

ELLENVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The neighboring village of Nanamoch and some other places were isolated today because a Sunday cloudburst of an hour's duration converted Rantout creek into a surging river, which leaped its banks and spread over an area 20 miles long and seven miles wide.

JAPAN REJOICES THAT PEACE DAWN FOR WORLD NEAR

TOKYO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Kellogg-Briand treaty marks the dawn of a new day, said Baron Giichi Tanaka, premier of Japan, in a statement today.

"Japan hails that dawn and she rejoices in the prospect of an age of continuous peace," the premier declared. "The treaty will ever mark an epoch in history. It always will stand as the portal to an era where in it is officially proclaimed that war is unworthy of civilized man."

The enterprise and initiative of America in the fields of humanitarian and pacific effort never appeared to better advantage than at conclusion of the war renunciation treaty, the baron added.

Declaring his only regret to be that due to work and distance he was unable to accept the invitation to be present at the signature ceremony, he said: "I most assuredly am there with Count Uchida in spirit and with all my heart I utter these congratulations."

Baron Gonsuke Hayashi, former minister to China and former ambassador to Rome and London, made the following statement:

"It is a matter of worldwide felicitation that the great nations, following the initiative of the United States, have assembled envoys in Paris to sign a compact to abandon war as an instrument of national policy. Once more, as in Washington in 1921, the powers must gratefully acknowledge the enlightened leadership of America."

ANTI-WAR PACT SIGNED

es of photographers to get their plates out to waiting messengers who sped by motorcycle to the airfields to send them to Berlin, London and other European capitals. Some American photographers longed for trans-Atlantic fliers to carry their prints to the United States.

Within a few minutes after the treaty was signed telegraphic messages were sent to the American diplomatic representatives all over the world to present to 47 states invitations to adhere to the pact. Twenty-four of these were sent from the Paris embassy and 22 were to be sent from the state department at Washington. The invitations had previously been mailed and telegraphed to all the points affected so they might have the document ready when word was wired that the treaty was signed.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Crowds began to gather along the river embankment in front of the Quai D'Orsay at noon today to witness arrival of the plenipotentiaries at the foreign office to sign the renunciation of war pact.

Shortly after the lunch hour spectators increased greatly and police began clearing the streets bordering the ministry of foreign affairs. There was no considerable show of force but the police were alert.

Communists through their organ L'Humanite, declared they would not permit police to stifle their "anti-war protest" and their manifestation of "solidarity with the Soviets" making much of the fact that Soviet Russia was not invited to the first signing of the treaty. There was a police clean-up during the night and 53 arrested for placarding walls with posters against Kellogg's "anti-Soviet plot" and "pact of war."

Count Uchida of Japan, dapper in a silk hat and cutaway, was first to arrive but Secretary of State Kellogg, Ambassador Herriek and Mrs. Kellogg who drove up behind, were, through politeness of the diplomatic protocol, allowed to be technically first. They were met by Benq de Fouquieres, master of ceremonies, and escorted to Foreign Minister Briand who had been waiting their arrival for nearly an hour.

Mrs. Kellogg appeared much surprised when M. de Fouquieres, bending low, kissed her hand. There was something of a shock to the Americans also when the chief usher, in blue jacket, red breeches, white stockings and pounds of gold lace, brought down his halberd roundly on the stone floor three times for each of the three Americans as they passed.

The pressure for cards of admission was much greater for today's ceremony than even for the signing of the treaty of Versailles nine years ago. There were 70 formal requests for cards by newspapermen or those who managed to show some title to being "writers" anxious to describe the ceremony, but only 100 were admitted.

The crowd of guests was democratic despite the gold lace which was particularly noticeable on many of the gorgeously dressed ushers. They wore a few high hats, Ambassador Claudel, French envoy to the United States, was the first to come with a topper. But even the silk hats were worn with great disregard for the sartorial conventions with frock coats, cutaways, and even sack suits.

Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, was among the last to arrive. He was pale and clearly showed the effects of his recent illness. Neither he, nor the other plenipotentiaries was cheered and the crowd of spectators was very quiet.

The signers came into the clock room promptly at three o'clock and within three minutes Foreign Minister Briand rose for a short address of welcome and tribute to the high principles of the pact.

The plenipotentiaries came in a procession preceded by the master of ceremonies and by an escort of ushers, one with Alahberd leading the march. They took their seats quickly and then there was a dazzling moment when blinding lights were turned on for the motion picture men who were filming the historic event.

There were 73 gold chairs in all for distinguished spectators, such as Premier Poincare who sat with Mrs. Kellogg on his right on the front row facing the hollow end of the horseshoe table where all could see the signers face to face.

Rising and facing the plenipotentiaries Foreign Minister Briand said:

"I would rather have had each one rise simply and in the name of his country attach his signature to the greatest collective act born of peace, but it would be to acquit myself badly of my duty to my country not to tell you how much it appreciates the honor of being host to the signatories of a self-ordained pact of renunciation of war.

"If this honor has been left to France as acknowledgment of the moral standing she enjoys thanks to her constant effort in the cause of peace, I gladly accept such tribute on behalf of the government of the French republic and I express the gratification of the whole people, happy that the utmost reassurances of their national psychology should at last be understood by the world."
