WELFARE WORK IS DISCUSSED NOON MEET OF LIONS

Community welfare work being done by Lions clubs in various parts of the state was discussed by Frank Tate, district secretary of Portland, at today's Lion luncheon meeting at the Hotel Holland.

Several cases where the Portland Lions have recently relieved destitute residents were described by the speaker who mentioned the fact that the Medford club is favorably known throughout the state for its activities.

The 2500 Loy Scouts of Portland owe much to the Lions club whose members have supported the projects undertaken by the troops, Mr. Tate said. He also described boys' bands sponsored by clubs in different parts of the state, in suggesting ways and means of building up the citizenship of communities.

Previous to visiting Medford today the Lion secretary spent some time at Grants Pass where a Lions club was recently organized as a result of the efforts of the local group.

A group of solos sung to the accompaniment of ukelele music by Paul Davenport, recently of Los Angeles, and now employed by the Witham Music company, was an interesting feature of the program.

J. E. Schmidt, of the Valley Hardware store of Grants Pass, and a member of the Lions club at that place, was a guest at the luncheon. He expressed his appreciation for the help of the Medford men in organizing their group.

Lion Cub Harry Jacobs, who returned this week from a motor trip to New York, described conditions in the east in comparison with industrial activities in this part of the United States. The coming presidential election has affected business to a great extent, he reported, some of the factories ceasing operations for short periods because of political strife.
