COL. ALLEN GIVES CITY AND VALLEY PRAISE AT LUNCH

Colonel H. M. Allen of Portland said today in speaking to the local Kiwanians at their noon meeting at the Hotel Medford, "This town and the valley have a wonderful reputation and all that anyone can ask of you is that you live up to that reputation."

The army official is spending several days here on a business and pleasure trip. He is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kloeker whom he visited here several years ago.

Brief reports of the Pacific Northwest District Kiwanis convention held at Aberdeen, Wash., August 19, 20 and 21, attended by Carl Tengwald and Jack Thompson from the Medford club, were given today.

It was stated that there are 1735 Kiwanis clubs in existence today. At the convention there were 404 delegates from 75 clubs with at least seven states being represented.

One of the principal matters stressed at the big meeting was the importance of community service which can be carried on by the clubs everywhere. Activities in which the underprivileged child may be aided were suggested. Mr. Tengwald reported and gave several interesting instances where Kiwanians had been instrumental in helping boys who had no one to guide them. In many cases the Kiwanis clubs work jointly with the county courts in this activity.

A visiting Kiwanian today was W. R. Rice of Bellingham, Wash., who is in the city for the purpose of inaugurating his system of business penmanship in the Medford schools this fall.

Mr. Rice spoke about the importance of service clubs and Kiwanis in particular and pointed out what members of the Bellingham organization are doing for the benefit of the community and city. "It is no longer possible for individuals to accomplish much as such, but they must cooperate in groups for results," he stated.

The attendance prize today, 10 gallons of gasoline, was awarded to Carl Tengwald and donated by D. Lower.
