

CITY AGREES TO SELL WATER TO BERRYDALE AREA

Following a discussion at a joint meeting held by the city council and city water commission last night, during which the councilman and mayor were opposed to the general idea of any of Medford's surplus water supply being sold to communities outside of the city, it was agreed that solely as a health measure the city would sell water from the city mains for the Berrydale district, which now only has wells for domestic use. The plan is now for the about 400 people, who reside in 118 houses in that mill district, which in general reaches north of the P. & E. tracks as far as this side of the Howard school, to form themselves into a water district at a cost of approximately $20,000, buy their own water mains, etc., and then buy their water supply for those mains of the city of Medford.

This water supply will all come from the city mains thru a master meter, and hence Berrydale district will pay Medford for only what water it consumes. It is figured at the price for water charged the community by the city that this will cost Berrydale about $1000 a year.

The city will contract to furnish Berrydale its water supply, only as long as it has a surplus of water and if at any future time it should possibly be found that the city could no longer spare water, the contract would be abrogated. Another thing the contract will provide for is that only the present territory of Berrydale can buy the city water, and not a house outside of those present limits.

The city water system has an immense amount of surplus water going to waste night and day, even in the warm weather and with the local consumers using all they want, and it is from this surplus that Berrydale will be supplied. Frank Dillard, the city water engineer, declares that at its rate of use since the new water system was established, Medford has enough water to supply 24,000 people, and therefore double its present size.

ENGLISH TEACHER AT HIGH RESIGNS

H. C. Terrell, member of the English department of the Medford high school for the past two years, has accepted a position as English instructor at Pacific college, Newberg, Oregon, for the coming year. Mr. Terrell will instruct classes in essay, composition and short story, in the English department. He will be dean of men and also have charge of the men's dormitory.

Herbert Hoover, who formerly lived in Newberg, attended Pacific college, which was at that time known as Pacific academy. He did not graduate, however, as he only attended two years.

DANCE BAND TO BE HERE TONIGHT

Whit Barton and his noted dance band, arrived today from Lewiston, Idaho, to fill a special engagement at the fair grounds pavilion during the fair. This popular dance orchestra scored a big hit with the music lovers of southern Oregon last spring and local dance fans will welcome their return appearance. The management of the fair grounds pavilion has gone to considerable expense in bringing this famous dance-band here and are to be commended for their efforts in securing such a high class musical attraction.

Wedding Bells

One of the most impressive fall weddings, was solemnized on Saturday evening a tight of clock at the Free Methodist parsonage, when Miss Hazel Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stevens of Medford, was united in marriage to Eivind M. Nelson, Rev. J. E. McDonald performing the ceremony. The rooms were tastefully decorated, the bridal party standing before an altar of roses and greenery. Mrs. Wilbur Stevens sang, "At Dawning." Little Miss Esther Stevens, very dainty in pink crepe de chene, carrying a basket, scattered rose petals for the bride. Mrs. Vaughn Beere, presided the bride as maid of honor attired in beige georgette. The bride, unattended, came to the altar wearing white silk crepe Roma, her beautiful veil being a family heirloom, and carrying a bridal bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. Wilbur Stevens accompanied the groom as best man. Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal couple received good wishes and congratulations from the twenty-five guests present.

LIONS SPONSOR PLAN FOR MORE PARKS IN CITY

Medford needs parks and playgrounds. Members of the Lions club are ready to start the ball rolling according to a motion passed unanimously at the noon meeting today at the Hotel Lombard to the effect that the Lions favor an extensive program for the development of sections of the city for outdoor amusement centers. Attorney John H. Carlin, chairman of today's program, designated several prospective sites for parks and playgrounds on land owned by Medford. Following the meeting several carloads of Lions personally inspected six locations in various sections of the town. Several of these were generally approved and will probably be mentioned at a meeting of the council in the near future.

Within the past year the Lions club has been instrumental in establishing a children's playground just off East Main street, and fixing up tennis courts for public use.

Lion Roy Elliott is chairman of the civic improvement committee which is sponsoring the movement for parks and playgrounds. At the next meeting of the club, September 19, action will be taken on the matter.

Previous to the business program today Don Miguel, of Los Angeles, harmonica expert who has entertained KMED radio fans at various times, played several numbers including "The March of the Mulligan Guard," "Stars and Stripes Forever," an interpretation of "The Wreck of '87." Don Sloan played a banjo solo, "St. Louis Blues" and sang "Happy" with banjo accompaniment. Mr. Sloan expects to give banjo lessons in Medford during the winter months. The musical program today was given through the courtesy of Witham's Shop.

E. R. Brophy was an additional guest at the luncheon. The program committee for next week's meeting is E. L. Scott and Dr. L. D. Inskeep.

OLD LANDMARK ON SIXTH RAZED

Another coming improvement in the downtown Sixth street district became known today when workmen began razing the old dwelling house at the northeast corner of Ivy and Sixth streets, and immediately adjoining the Fehl business building on the east.

Earl H. Fehl, owner of the property, was questioned this forenoon as to why the structure was being razed, said the construction of a new business building on the site, to conform with the Fehl building, would be begun in the near future.

CITY CLEANS LOT AND PAYS FOR IT

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 12.—(AP)—"I have a right to have poison oak on my property if I want to," So declared L. J. Bergman at the city council meeting today. "It doesn't bother me."

No one disputed Bergman's declaration. What's more the city will give him $18,000 and 6 per cent interest for a year or so, all because the city cut the weeds, poison oak and shrubbery on a lot Bergman purchased from the city in Leumont.

Neighbors complained about the weeds. The city cut the weeds and shrubbery off the property. Bergman said he purchased the property because of the wild shrubbery on it.

The city agreed to take back the property and to refund him the purchase price with interest.

LOCAL BROADCAST OF MISS NORRIS' PLAY IS PRAISED

When radio fans turned the dial to KMED last night at 8 o'clock they were greeted by the voice of Earle Davis announcing the meaning of "The Actual Difference." Miss Helen Norris' two-act comedy drama which was broadcast from the local studio through the courtesy of Copeo.

Fully as interesting as the performance of the KGO cast in the same play put on the air recently from Oakland was the opinion of several who heard the comedy last night.

The action of the play centered about the actual difference between single blessedness and married life. A young man and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Homes, typified just the usual routine in moderate circumstances—the woman reviling at household duties—the man criticizing her changed appearance since their marriage.

Smart and pretty were the two friends of Marie Homes, the Misses Louise Mason, played by Miss Thelma Gamaway, and Grace Parker, portrayed by Miss Ivel Edwards.

After a family quarrel the young married couple leave on a motor trip and the small child is left with the two girls who decide that a baby is after all a human being and even rather nice. The parents return. It seems that they were afraid that their friends would spoil the baby.

The last act ends with one of the girls engaged and everyone happy. Ruell Ryans played the part of the boy friend, Earl Davis' interpretation of the misunderstood and misunderstood husband was particularly good. The character of Mrs. Homes was cleverly played by Mrs. W. F. Quisenberry.

BRAE BURN COUNTRY CLUB, NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 12.—(AP)—George VonElm of Detroit, 1926 champion and on of the tournament's biggest favorites, was the victim of a sensational upset in the opening round of the national amateur golf championship today. He was beaten by Arthur W. (Ducky) Yates of Rochester, N. Y., by a margin of 3 and 2 in the first 18-hole match of the day, and summarily eliminated.

Playing par golf in a delirious rain, Yates obtained an early lead on VonElm, made the turn at the ninth three up and settled the issue on the sixteenth to eliminate the player who had been generally expected to reach the finals and meet the defending champion, Bobby Jones. VonElm's rugged work around the greens was the principal cause of his downfall.

"ANTI-PREXOL Is Used Exclusively at L. A. Receiving Hospital for BURNS"

I know of no other remedy that can compare with it.

(Late E. G. Goodrich, M. D., 20 years Chief Surgeon, Los Angeles Receiving Hospital) "IT is with much pleasure that I can acknowledge to all what a wonderful boon that ANTI-PREXOL has been to humanity. Being Police Surgeon in the Receiving Hospital, where we use nothing else for burns, etc., I have had an opportunity to observe the effects from its use. I know of no other ointment bar none, that has as soothing effect when first application is made. Another point in its favor is the ease with which dressings can be made, placing the patient in no discomfort whatever. I always use it on my private cases and recommend its use upon consultation. I do not feel that the highest endorsement that ANTI-PREXOL has received in the past, or what it will receive in the future, will be in the least bit exaggerated."

AIELLO BROTHERS LINKED TO DEATH OF 'MAFIA KING'

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—(AP) Possible reprisal for the slaying of Tony Lombardo, a Chicago gangster, and a bodyguard on a downtown street last week, was seen by police today when a man who said he was Joseph De Falco, staggered into a hospital probably fatally wounded and fell unconscious after gasping out the name and a story that he had been shot by robbers in a holdup. He was rushed to the operating table in an effort to save his life. De Falco, 24 years old, was brought to the hospital in an automobile by a man who said he was his brother out who left immediately. The man who was shot through the abdomen said he was wounded this morning by a man who tried to hold him up but the police placed little credence in this story and preferred to believe that the shooting was in revenge for the killing of Lombardo and his bodyguard.

The new development came shortly after John Stege, deputy commissioner of police, had attributed the slaying of Lombardo directly to the feud between the gang headed by Lombardo and "Scarface" Al Capone and the north side gang headed by the Aiello brothers and Jack Zuta.

Stege said the case was completed except for the names of the actual killers and declared he expected to clear it up within two weeks. He disclosed that the detectives have been frequenting gang haunts ever since the slaying looking for Zuta and Dominick and Joe Aiello.
