BISHOP'S HOMER IN NINTH SAVES GAME FOR MACKS

By HERBERT W. BAUKER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Thanks to Max Bishop, the Philadelphia Athletics have been saved from utter rout in the now famous battle of the Bronx.

After smashing the A's into defeat in the first three skirmishes of the crucial general engagement, Miller Huggins' Yankee brigade ran afoul of Bishop's ninth inning home run in the fourth clash yesterday. That dramatic blow carried with it a 4 to 3 victory for the Mackmen and enabled them to beat a dignified, if somewhat hasty retreat from the Yankee stadium.

The Yankees then saw their American league lead clipped to a game and a half, a margin the Athletics hope will prove not impossible to overcome when the two clubs invade the west on Saturday for the closing games of the season. The Yanks have 15 games and the A's 13 west of the Alleghenies.

A crowd of 49,388 saw the end of the series, swelling the total attendance for the four games to 117,113.

While the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs were idle, the St. Louis Cardinals stretched their National league lead to three games by defeating Cincinnati, 2 to 1, in the last home game of the season at St. Louis. The Cardinals got only five hits off Donohue and Kolp, but bunched two of the m with a walk, a balk and a stolen base to tally twice in the fourth. The Reds scored their run off Grover Cleveland Alexander in the first inning by means of them with a walk, a balk and a stolen base but "Old Pete" was invincible thereafter.

In the only other National league engagement of the day, the Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Philadelphia, 6 to 1. William Watson Clark, Dodger southpaw, scored his second victory over the Phils in three days, giving them only five hits. The Robins banged three Phil pitchers for 17 hits, four of them going to Babe Herman.

HOLLYWOOD LEAD CUT TO ONE GAME

(By the Associated Press.)

Ray Keating and his spitball presented the Senators with victory, 4 to 0, over Hollywood and allowed the Senators to move within one game of the league leaders. Only five hits were chalked up for the Shells and no two in any one inning. Johnny Couch, on the Hollywood mound, pitched ball that would have won any ordinary game and during his eight innings gave only two runs. The other two counters for the Solons were scored off Dick McCabe in the ninth. Batteries: Keating and Severide; Couch, McCabe and Bassler.

Herman Pillette was boss of the situation when there were men on bases and though he allowed Oakland nine hits while the Bells only got seven from Specs Shea, the Missions won, 5 to 0. As a result of the victory, the two teams are exactly where they started in their argument for the fourth place position as each have one victory in the series. Only two of the five runs were earned and the Bells chased over four counters in the fourth on two hits. Batteries: Pillette and Brenzel; Shea and Lombardi.

Rain prevented San Francisco and Portland from meeting at Portland, while Los Angeles and Seattle were still on the trek to the Indian encampment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The view that the church "should hold itself aloof from politics," is expressed in an editorial to appear in the coming issue of the Review and Herald, official organ of the Seventh Day Adventists. It was made public today by the church authorities.

STOCK EXHIBIT AT FAIR BEST IN MANY YEARS

Indicative of growing interest in the Jackson County Fair, which opened yesterday, especially by stock raisers, is shown in the livestock division, where two carloads of entries were turned away because of lack of space to care for the animals, some of which were to have come from Silverton and Harrisburg. Like the livestock division, the rabbit and poultry divisions also revealed remarkable growth over previous exhibitions.

Entries in the boys' and girls' club work, which is in charge of Robert G. Fowler, were numerous and included exceptionally fine appearing hogs, cows and sheep. In this division over 25 calves alone were exhibited, which is a decided increase over the last exhibition. The calves were carefully groomed and youthful owners yesterday afternoon were still making efforts to force their entries appear the best in the stock sheds by the patient use of clippers, horn polishers and currycombs.

One club member, Ernest Lathrop of Central Point, was so engaged yesterday on two calves, and his two brothers, John and James, were likewise engaged. Fred Lofland of Central Point, Katherine Lathrop, Delmer, Harold and Dorothy Smith, Donald Patterson and Castle Wolverson are among other county club members who have entries on display.

Two monster pigs from the E. Upton ranch near Central Point are attracting much attention in the stock show because of their weight, which when weighed together yesterday morning, was over 1200 pounds. The pigs are of the Poland-China variety and are rated as very good pork producers. H. A. Klinger, well known hog raiser of Ashland, has 11 pens of hogs on exhibition, including only purebred stock. Among other hog exhibits are two sows, each with a large litter of pigs, which provide considerable entertainment for the visitors in their antics about their pens. It is the fifth litter for one sow and the first for the other. March pigs are also on display and the breeds include Berkshire, Poland-China, Chester White and Durocs.

In the same shed are several pens of sheep, including the Romney, Hampshire and Shropshire. The latter two are black-faced sheep and the first is white. Included in this division are entries from the Boggs ranch near Coleman creek and the Lathrop ranch near Central Point.

In the dairy and beef division, entries are more numerous than ever before and include the Guernsey, Ayrshire, Jersey, Shorthorn and Angus breeds, which comprise practically all the main breeds of value. A carload of Holsteins were to have been placed on exhibition from Harrisburg, but had to be refused because of lack of space, even though a new cattle barn was constructed only this year. Additions will be found necessary to house next year's expected entries, according to Robert Fowler, in charge of the livestock division. The barn is more than 30 feet longer than any of the other barns on the grounds and is much better constructed. Herds from the Mountcrest and Campbell ranches, which have attracted so much favorable attention in previous years, are missing this year, the former being shown in exhibition in the northern part of the state and the latter herd was not brought in because of the fear of the owner in playing his stock in the same barn with strange stock.

The Kirkland farm at Central Point, as usual, has its creditable display of cows, bulls and horses, including one bull which weighs over 2,200 pounds and heads the Shorthorn exhibit. Another bull of merit was offered by John Bohner of Central Point, who has won prizes at practically every county fair here for the past five years in the livestock division. He was formerly closely associated with the boys' and girls' club work.

Thomas Harrison of the Oakleigh farm at Central Point has 17 milking Shorthorns on display, and after the local fair plans on showing the stock at the International Livestock show at Portland, and possibly later at Kansas City and Chicago.

In the horse division, W. Lawton, former Medford fire chief, has several large stallions on display from his holdings in the Fort Klamath section.

Rabbit Division. In no uncertain way, exhibits at the rabbitry reveal a remarkable growth in the interest of the rabbit industry in Jackson county, as over 400 rabbits entered by nearly 75 raisers, are on display—an increase which nearly tripled over the last showing. This division is in charge of Harry Lowe, who yesterday afternoon stated that rabbit growing is rapidly becoming an important industry in the county, inasmuch as the animals are quickly raised and in addition to having palatable meat, have marketable fur.

Breeds in this division, which is housed in a new building completed just in time for this year's fair, include American Blue, Himalayan, French Silver, American White, Chinchilla, New Zealand White and Red, Froy, Steel and Black Flemish, White Bevern, Belgian Hare, Ancora, Silver Martin, Silver Sable, Blue Bevern, Lilac and Dutch. This assortment includes practically every breed known to the rabbit industry. The entries are kept in neat cages and are given very good care.

Poultry. If next year's entries keep in step with this year's entries, an addition to the poultry building will be found necessary, according to A. H. Willett, in charge of the division. While the coops were not all filled, Mr. Willett explained yesterday afternoon the entire building had been contracted by exhibitors, but 50 or 60 entries were unable to be brought to the fair because of rain which made roads slippery in the Lake Creek and Brownsboro districts, where Mr. Willett had spent a day or so in lining up entries from that section.

However, the present showing is very creditable and among its outstanding exhibits included among the 400 birds on display are Rhode Island, White Leghorn and Barred Rock chickens, geese, turkeys, wild turkeys, bantam chickens, and ducks. Day-old chicks were also on display.

Judges completed their work in the division yesterday afternoon and blue ribbons, as well as white, today classify the winners.

The wild turkeys were placed on exhibition by the state game commission, which in special coops also has pheasants, grouse and quail on exhibition.

The livestock, rabbit and poultry divisions this year offer the best displays ever seen here, and each division is kept in wonderfully good order and sanitary condition. A visit to this section of the fair is alone worth the price of admission.

The largest can manufacturers in the World... use UNION

The American Can Company has "success-tested" this non-detonating fuel.

MANUFACTURING tin cans is one of the largest industries in the world... Through this carrier fruits, vegetables and fish are supplied to all corners of the earth during every season of the year. Under the Pacific Coast offices of the American Can Company fifteen great factories are running at the capacity rate of 1,225,000 cans per day. and five factories in the Hawaiian Islands... The American Can Company is one of the oldest customers of Union gasoline. They are successful...they have "success-tested" this non-detonating fuel.

What "Success-Tested" Gasoline Means to You

Of course you can't laboratory test the gasoline you use, but great institutions who do check results for mileage, economy and power, can be your yardsticks in measuring gasoline quality. These firms not only use Union for its brilliant performance but for its absolute uniformity...Drive up to a blue and white Union pump today and try this "success-tested" gasoline.

"I'd rather have a Chesterfield"

Mild enough for anybody... and yet they Satisfy*

WHEN we sign our name to a statement in an advertisement, we mean just that. To us, signing an advertisement is in no way different from signing a contract.

There is no double meaning, no half-truth, no false note in our statement that Chesterfield Cigarettes are mild enough for anybody—and yet they satisfy.
