

TRANSPORTATION
BROOK TROUT TO STREAMS SOUGHT

An opportunity that has come rarely to southern Oregon sportsmen and fishermen was the announcement made today by W. R. Coleman, state superintendent of fish screens, that Eastern brook trout may now be obtained upon demand for nearly any amount for planting in local streams, provided that co-operation is shown by local residents interested in fishing.

All that is necessary, said Mr. Coleman today, is the willingness of a few car owners to transport the fish from Medford to the streams in which they are to be liberated. If enough motorists cooperate, Mr. Coleman, accompanied by C. L. Roadman, in charge of egg-taking stations in Jackson county, will bring 10,000 9-month-old trout to Medford next Sunday in a game commission truck from the Crooked Creek hatchery at Fort Klamath.

The truck will arrive at the Chamber of Commerce building at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon and the cans containing the fish will be distributed among the waiting sportsmen, who are to take the trout to the appropriate section for liberation. However, if enough sportsmen do not get in touch with Mr. Coleman, the fish probably will not be brought over and, with that thought in mind, fishermen of Medford and Jackson county are urged to see Mr. Coleman as early as possible to insure the delivery of the fish.

This distribution is made possible through Matt L. Ryckman, head of state hatcheries, who has shown wonderful co-operation in the planting of fish in the southern Oregon streams.

275 A. IRRIGATION
LAND SOLD SAYS
REALTORS REPORT

At today noon's meeting of the Realty Board it was announced that 275 acres of the Medford irrigation district land has been sold to date at approximately $37 an acre.

D. M. Rosenberg, a guest at the luncheon, explained the method of payment for the land and described some of the most desirable tracts not already sold.

A total of over 250 acres of the irrigation district land is now for sale. Members of the real estate board discussed various plans for publicity in connection with Rogue River news and unanimously agreed that the exhibits at the fair this year are better than ever before.

Walter Leverette displayed samples of black and white signs, with the words "This is a great country" in the center and "Medford, Oregon" at one end, which will be sold to the real estate dealers of the city for use on their cars or elsewhere.

Mr. Rosenberg told of receiving numerous letters asking for information about the pearls of this valley as a result of recipes printed on the labels on pear boxes shipped from his packing plant this year. Several of these were from South America and other distant places.

WORLD'S CONFERENCE
ADVENTISTS SEPT. 25

Bishop Morris Lukens, president of the Pacific Union conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, of which southern Oregon is a member, will lead the delegation of clergymen and other church leaders of this union who will attend the convention of the world's general conference in Springfield, Mass., Sept. 25 to Oct. 4.

Rev. T. B. Westbrook, president of the Southern Oregon conference which has 29 churches in its territory, will head the delegation from this state.

Great stress will be laid on the foreign mission program, and the delegates from this state will go to the convention prepared to name young men and women qualified to respond to calls to go abroad as missionaries.

Members of the church throughout this state will be exceedingly interested in the proceedings of the coming convention because of the fact that they gave $14,913.83 during the past year to a fund established for foreign mission enterprises, and it is understood that a total of about $5,000,000 will be appropriated for the advancement of the denomination abroad. The North Pacific union conference, which includes Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and Washington in its territory, contributed $12,499.96 to foreign missions last year.

Other union conference officials going to the convention from this union include N. N. Conway, field missionary secretary; R. W. Peterson, educational secretary; and E. M. Oberg, home missionary secretary.

Rev. W. A. Spicer, president of the World's General conference who has also made several visits to this state, will be the chairman of the convention.

KMED BROADCAST
BY MR. GREENLEAF
OF 'IF I WERE KING'

William Lee Greenleaf, well-known actor of this valley, will continue his radio performance tonight from KMED at 8 o'clock, when he will be heard telling the second half of the fascinating story "If I Were King," by Justin H. McCarthy. The program will be sponsored by the Brown & White real estate agency.

The setting of the story is in France during the reign of Louis XI.

An unsavory den known as the Firecave Tavern is the place of the first scene which was described last Friday by Mr. Greenleaf.

King Louis visits the tavern and overhears Villon telling his comrades what he would be doing if he were king. Being disguised as a common citizen, his presence makes no impression on the revelers.

The entire story is filled with romantic situations and plenty of action. Greenleaf is capable of holding radio audiences from the beginning of the hour to the end of the last scene. His recent broadcast of "Rin Wan Winkle" was one of the cleverest programs ever heard from the local station, according to reports of several who listened in on the monologue story in which the actor characterized young and old men with equal skill.

WOMEN BUILDING
EXHIBITS INTACT
TILL 9 P. M. SAT.

All exhibits in the woman's building will remain intact until 9 o'clock Saturday night, September 15, after which time all exhibitors are requested to present their pink entry slips and call for their articles after the hour set for closing. Those who fail to call for displays on Saturday night may get them Sunday morning between 9 and 11, according to announcement from Miss Jane Snodgrass, chairman in charge of the building.

All flowers used in the floral department will be given to the churches and city hospitals at the close of the fair unless the owners request otherwise.

Many compliments are being received by the women in charge of the flowers and art work in regard to the artistic arrangement of the exhibition, which is said to be far superior to any ever shown at previous Jackson county fairs.

The grade of work on display, particularly in the needlework section, is reported by the judges to be of unusually high quality.

Hostesses at the woman's building tomorrow will be residents of Ashland.

A miniature lake, surrounded by ferns and green trees, won the special prize offered for a community display.

LEGION LEADER
FLAYS BROOKHART
ON PENSION PLAN

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart's proposal that the Iowa American Legion endorse a plan to pension world war veterans was voted down by the Legionnaires in convention yesterday. Hantford MacNider, past national commander of the Legion, led the opposition to the Iowa Republican's resolution.

The resolution providing that ex-service men be allowed the same pension as Spanish-American war veterans had been carried to the floor, when MacNider, former assistant secretary of war, criticized "politicians who want to promise us something which they know they cannot deliver."

Senator Brookhart leaped to his feet and retorted:

"I'll not be bluffed. I know the interests behind this talk. I know what money will wage the fight against me. I'll not be bluffed by anyone at any time."

"I am making no accusations," MacNider replied, "but the greatest enemy the Legion has in this or any other fight in Washington is the man who always comes out with some other bill just as we are trying to get our own through."

"I simply submit that if the senator has any excess energy to put in for the care of the disabled that he seem to it that this bill who stood before us landless and sightless yesterday he paid more than a measly $50 a month before he worried about us with two legs to walk on and two eyes to see where we are going."

MacNider said he did not know whether the resolution was offered as a reputation of the Legion stand or prompted by lack of information on the Legion's policy to aid disabled veterans.

LIFE TERM FACED
BY EX-CONVICT

SALEM, Ore., Sept. 14.—(AP)—By a court order from Judge J. A. Fee of Pendleton Patrick Bushman and Tony Borrelli, prisoners in the state penitentiary, were sent to Pendleton yesterday to appear as witnesses in the case of the state against Andy Bushman, brother of Patrick. Andy Bushman is on trial under the habitual criminal act, and it is understood the two convicts will testify in his behalf.

The two Bushmans and Borrelli were involved in the same offense, the theft of an automobile. Patrick Bushman and Borrelli pleaded guilty and were sentenced to serve five years each, being received at the state prison July 3 last.

The two convicts left here in charge of Sol Worden, a prison guard.

Andy Bushman has twice served time in the Oregon prison and once at Walla Walla for serious crimes.
