FOUR DEER GRACE WAKEFIELD AUTO; PERRY GETS TWO

F. W. Wakefield, Republican war horse, game agent, and insurance agent, returned this morning from a hunt in eastern Klamath county, and all the while he was a hard-up policy, and no fires, for the fruits of the chase were four mule-deer.

For many years Mr. Wakefield has been doing hunting, and returning with nothing strapped onto the fenders of his auto. On a recent empty-handed jaunt he has returned by way of the back streets and after the shades of night had fallen.

Today he came as a conquering hero, on the main street, and in the full glare of a sun just peeping out from fog banks. He stopped his car in front of his place of business, where a throng gathered to wonder and comment upon the horns, the fatness and the heft of the mule-deer. Mr. Wakefield ran up the stairs to his office twice, and across the street seven times, and bounded in and out of Heath's drug store frequently, and even Charlie Palm, who has long scoffed at the hunting ability of Mr. Wakefield, got excited and wanted to call on the "Eike" band and put a triumphant touch on the big hunt in the life of Mr. Wakefield, who was as proud as a June bride with a chest full of silverware.

Mr. Wakefield could not be located at his home after the achievement, as he was searching around the neighborhood bashfully telling the news, and his office force said they had only seen him there through his office twice.

It is believed Mr. Wakefield will calm down sufficiently to eat a venison steak by the first of the week.

J. A. Perry accompanied Mr. Wakefield on the great deer hunt and confessed that he had shot two of the deer.

JUDGE THOMAS EXPLAINS JURY PARTIAL REPORT

The following statement, from Circuit Judge C. M. Thomas was issued today by Frank P. Farrell, secretary of the Republican County Central committee.

Dear Sir:

In answer to your request I am writing in regard to the so-called partial report of the recent grand jury.

One day the grand jury returned a number of indictments into court. While the indictments were being received, the grand jury remained seated and I proceeded to examine the indictments returned. Among the indictments there was a sheet of paper, marked "Partial report of the grand jury," and signed only by Katie M. Griese, forewoman. Assuming that this document had been properly voted upon in the grand jury room, I examined it and found it to be a series of questions, which if answered by the court would undoubtedly create the impression that I was not impartial in the investigation then under way. I told the grand jury that I would send the document to one of the assistant attorney generals, acting as attorney for the state, and the grand jury, and that he would answer them at the next meeting. The grand jury then left the court room and I returned to chambers.

A few moments thereafter the bailiff notified me that the grand jury desired to see me in the court room. I went to the court room and there found five new members of the grand jury. The forewoman was not present. One of the grand jurors asked me what I intended to do with the document. I repeated that I intended to send it to the assistant attorney general and ask him to answer the questions.

The five men then informed me that while the forewoman had hastily read it to them in the grand jury room, that they never had voted on it, nor consented to its being either reported or filed. They requested that it be not filed. I was amazed at this revelation. The document was sent to the assistant attorney general, who read that each one of the questions had been discussed and answered many times in the grand jury room and for that reason he refused to answer them again.

The press was from Friday to Wednesday. On the latter date, with the grand jury together, I informed them of the reply of the assistant attorney general, and then asked them if the document had been voted on by the grand jury. They all answered "no." I then told them that nothing hereafter should be reported out until after discussion and vote and directed them to take the document to their room and vote on it. I explained to them that if they voted to return it into court and did so, I would file it and it would then be a public document.

They took the document and returned to their room for deliberation. In a few minutes they returned. I asked them what they had decided to do with the document. They said they had voted against reporting it. The document remained in the grand jury room and for that reason was never returned and never filed.

C. M. THOMAS, Circuit Judge.

September 16, 1928.

As members of the grand jury we wish to verify the above statement of facts, as set forth by Judge Thomas.

COMPLAINT FILED ON COPCO RATES

A telephone message to the Mail Tribune this morning from Casey & Harlan, public utility experts of Portland, stated that, acting in behalf of the Portland Power Cement company, with a plant at Gold Hill, a complaint protesting the power and light rates of the California Oregon Power company had been filed with the state public service commission and that a hearing involving all of southern Oregon would be called. Officials of the California Oregon Power company here said they knew of no developments of the protest, except what had been printed in the newspapers.

SECOND ATTEMPT MADE AT SUICIDE

J. I. Petruska, who, two weeks ago tonight attempted suicide by firing a rifle bullet into his face with under special guard at the Sacred Heart Hospital, following what was believed by attendants to be a second attempt to end his life. His condition, according to Dr. L. D. Inskip, county physician, is growing steadily weaker, although the man shows remarkable resistance, having thrown off serious complications, including a case of septic infection which crept down into his lungs, as a result of the condition of his face.

Wednesday night, Petruska took another desperate step toward ending his suffering by trying to jump from his bed. A special guard from the sheriff's office has been placed in the room with the patient to see that he does no violence to himself.

JUBILEE QUARTET IN CITY WEDNESDAY FINE ORGANIZATION

Principal B. H. Conkle says the Dixie Jubilee quartet, which sang at the Medford high school two years ago, was the most popular feature ever presented before the school. He endorses the quartet as a high class organization at that time and believes it is even better this year.

Fortunately, this negro quartet has been secured to sing at the Presbyterian church next Wednesday, October 10, at 8:15.

They are said to be old timers with well trained voices and genuine humor and geniality so natural to the negro.

While the plantation folk songs are well featured, the program offers also classical, popular and humorous numbers. Each man is called the "Black Paderewski" soloist, the tenor and bass being the guitar is used to give added perhaps the favorites. Stewart is color to certain melodies.
