HOOVER IS GREETED IN OLD SOUTH

Tennessee Virginia and North Carolinians Gather to Hear Candidate—Hoover Discusses All Issues—Introduced by Former Governor Taylor.

By James L. West
Associated Press Staff Writer
HARMON FIELD, Elizabethton, Tenn., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Before a cheering throng of Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolinians gathered here today in this natural amphitheater, Herbert Hoover made his one and only personal appeal to the people of the south for their support for the republican national ticket which he heads.

Coming from Washington to attend a historical and industrial celebration, the presidential candidate discussed practically every issue of the campaign and declared to the city Democratic stronghold, the solid south, that he wished the eighteenth amendment to succeed because it was designed "to protect the American home."

Hoover declared it to be "the sacred obligation" of the president to secure its honest enforcement and "to eliminate the abuses which have grown up around it."

The nominee himself made no reference to either the religious questions which have stirred the south or the "whispering campaign" but former Governor Alf A. Taylor of Tennessee, in presenting him to the audience, referred to the latter and the crowd cheered him to the echo. The 50 year old veteran, who read a long prepared speech, said it has been "whispered" that Herbert Hoover had applied for British naturalization and quoted an official document to disprove that.

"I will have my head chopped off and be cremated before I will give up my American citizenship," Taylor quoted Hoover as having said when he was offered British naturalization during the war.

That brought a roaring cheer with hats waving from the throng which crowded the mountainside at the base of which the speaker's stand was erected, and extended far out in the rain soaked meadows, where men and women alike stood in mud to listen to the Republican candidate.

"I have had the honor of introducing two presidents to the people of my state, Harrison and Roosevelt," Taylor said. "I now have the extraordinary pleasure of introducing to you a third president to be, Herbert Hoover."

As the Republican standard bearer advanced to the microphone, a deafening roar of approval and cheering, waving hats and caps. The demonstration lasted a minute and Hoover turned around to wave his hand to the folks at his back, who were grouped on the mountainside. As he turned back to those who faced the speaker's stand another cheer went up, but the nominee stifled it by raising his hand. Still there were cries of "Hoover, Hoover."

"I thank you," he said, and again the crowd was off in a cheer. He finally obtained quiet and immediately launched into his prepared address, his voice going out to the crowd by amplifiers and beyond the mountains to the south, east and middle west by radio.

The Republican candidate emphasized his statement of the proposal of his party for farm relief; that of creating a government financially aided federal farm board to take care of the surpluses and otherwise aid the agricultural industry and the crowd rose in his declaration with renewed cheering.

Rosamond Gaston Hits Propaganda Against Mrs. Al

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Rosamond Pinchot Gaston, society girl who played the role of the girl in the play, "The Miracle," believes Mrs. Alfred E. Smith would make an ideal first lady of the land.

"During the whole of this campaign there has been a great deal of what I think is shameful propaganda directed against Mrs. Smith," she told members of the Junior Democratic league at a tea at Democratic national headquarters yesterday. "It must be admitted that this unsportsmanlike attack has lately been carried on by women. I therefore think it is largely up to women to fight it."

"Anyone who has actually seen Mrs. Smith, and, better still, has had a chance to talk with her, would realize as I did immediately how preposterous it is to attack her on social grounds."

Mrs. Gaston characterized Mrs. Smith as "distinctly pretty" and "very sweet."

Mrs. Gaston is a niece of former Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

WISNER, NEUSTADT, Austria, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The rattle of musketry and the tread of marching troops were heard today in Wisner Neustadt as this industrial center 30 miles south of Vienna prepared for possible disorders and bloodshed when two rival political organizations meet tomorrow.

Last minute preparations were being made for separate propaganda meetings of the social democrats, who rule Vienna, and the so-called Home Defense league of Christian socialists who control the Austrian government. Thousands of the 35,000 inhabitants were temporarily abandoned the city, which has taken on the appearance of a gigantic armed citadel.

The Austrian government sent 12,000 troops and gendarmes armed with rifles, bayonets, machine guns and artillery. The governor of lower Austria assumed command of the security forces. Under the direction of the chief of police troops were firing round after round of ammunition in target practice in the suburbs.

The authorities commended the large municipal hospital with 300 beds in case it should be needed during the rival meetings. Present patients were being evacuated. All available physicians in Vienna were ordered to be in Wisner Neustadt tomorrow.

Valuable property was being banked about with sandbags against any possible bombardment. The 443 factories of the city ceased work. Business men barricaded their shops. Electric signs on the streets were removed.

There has been no assembly already a social-democrat having shot the former burgomaster of the town of Weissenau twice through the chest.

BYRD AWAITS SHIP ARRIVAL LOS ANGELES

Explorer III With Cold—Whaler Larsen Expected Tuesday, Then Party Embarks for Antarctic Adventure.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Although ill and fevered by a bad cold, Commander Richard E. Byrd today stood on the threshold of his next great adventure, eager to be off on his Antarctic mission of filling in the blank spaces on the map.

Commander Byrd contracted the cold on his westward train ride which ended with his arrival here yesterday where he will remain resting and conserving his strength until the arrival, probably Tuesday, of the whaler C. A. Larsen, which will carry him, some companions and his four airplanes to the Antarctic.

With his little white dog, which was his companion on his polar expedition, by his feet, Byrd yesterday sat for a few minutes and told interviewers of his hopes and plans for the present venture. The undertaking, he pointed out carefully, is not a dash to the South Pole. That point which has been the target for other explorers will be just an incident in the year and a half, two years or even three, that he hopes to spend studying and mapping the great region of ice.

"Had I wanted to make a dash I could have prepared in a month or so, started much sooner than we intend to," he said. "Instead, we have been preparing for three years. When we get there, we shall stay and work."

"We can stay a year and a half easily, two years without difficulty. I should like to stay for three years. Perhaps we shall. We might have to live on seals and penitence—but that's all right."

An important part of the work, according to Byrd, will be meteorology, the study of air strata, air movements and climatic conditions which scientists believe may give knowledge of the world's weather that is coming, perhaps several years in the future.

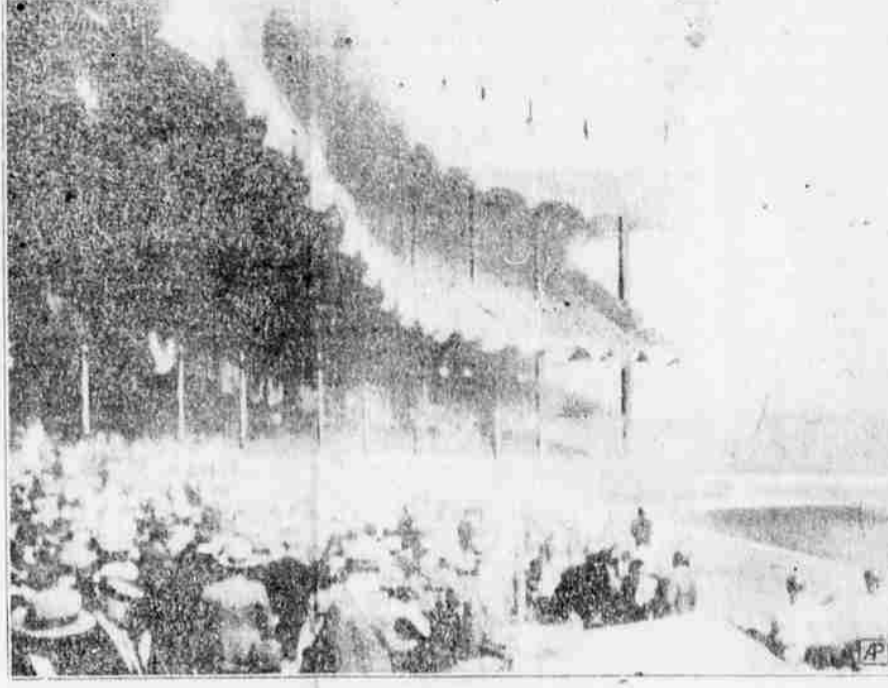

Because of his illness, Commander Byrd said he would be forced to decline the many invitations to farewell functions in Los Angeles. He said he did not dare fire himself too much before the start.

Accompanying him was his wife, who will remain here until her husband departs on the whaler, probably Tuesday or Wednesday. Also in the Byrd party were several other men who will make the trip with him: Willard Vanderveer, photographer, who took Byrd's pictures in the north; Charles Lofgren, his personal officer; LeRoy, Ralph Shephard, an army man, navigation officer and scientist; Russell Owen, New York newspaperman; Sergeant Benjamin Roth and Richard G. Bronby, business manager.

Both Charlie Ebs of the Vandals and Clipper Smith of the Bulldogs have spent considerable time during the last week polishing the rough spots brought to light in last Saturday's games.

For the same period records of 192 mills show: Production, 182, 291,887 board feet; orders, 191,194, 116; shipments, 179,165,787.

EIGHTEEN SIGN FOR PASSAGE IN GRAF ZEPPELIN

Dirigible Passenger List Full for Maiden Voyage—$3000 Fare Charged—Interior Minister May Come—Weather Rules Flight.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Eighteen passengers will be carried by the Graf Zeppelin, new German dirigible, on its voyage to the United States. The start has been set for anytime after Tuesday, depending upon the weather. Several of the passengers will pay the regular fare of $3000. The Zeppelin works have received many more applications than could be handled.

Prussian Minister of Interior Albert Ziesenheim hopes that his official duties will permit him to make the trip, the ministry's press department announced today. He has made a reservation and if he goes it will be in the capacity of a representative of the federal government.

The dirigible will be represented by Dr. Ludwig Kaas of the center party, who has repeatedly been a member of the German delegation to Geneva.

Another passenger will be Director Von Tzaska, representing leading German insurance companies, who will make the voyage to gain a personal impression of the dirigible's airworthiness as a basis for fixing passenger insurance rates for future crossings.

VANDAL-BULLDOG FEUD IS RENEWED SPOKANE TODAY

SPOKANE, Oct. 6.—(AP)—With both teams snarling under narrow margin defeats in their games last week-end, the University of Idaho Vandals and the Gonzaga Bulldogs are waiting to tear at each other's throats in the 1928 edition of their 15-year-old football feud.

Both Charlie Ebs of the Vandals and Clipper Smith of the Bulldogs have spent considerable time during the last week polishing the rough spots brought to light in last Saturday's games.

LONDON SLUMS SEEN BY AIMEE

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Aimee Scobie McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, toured the slums of London last night and newspapers today quoted her as saying: "London is no so wild as Paris or as many other big cities. I have been in."

Mrs. McPherson visited night clubs, public houses, coffee stalls and saw the Piccadilly, Soho and Lambeth districts. She also tried the doors of several ancient churches tucked away in the slum district. She told her guides, who were English newspapermen, that the churches ought to be kept open at night instead of being filled only with shadows.

After viewing a public house where women lined the bar with men, Mrs. McPherson commented that there was nothing like that in America, even before prohibition. As a result of columns of news and comment, Mrs. McPherson is the most advertised personality in London at the moment. All boxes at Albert Hall have been sold at West End theatre prices for her first sermon tomorrow. The rest of the great hall will be opened to the public several hours before the service.

MAINTHELD, October 6.—(Special to Mail Tribune)—At the end of the first quarter in the Medford-Maintheald game this afternoon the score was 13 to nothing in favor of Medford. Touchdowns by Melvin and Boxerman, following long forward passes, resulted in the scores. The Medford team outweighed the locals 20 pounds to the man. A large crowd came to Golden field to see the state championship team for years in action.

EUGENE, Oct. 6.—At the end of the second period, the score was 13 to 6 in favor of Stanford.

Stanford made its first touchdown when a punt by Woodie was blocked. The second touchdown was made on line plunges by Hoffman and Fleishacker.

Oregon scored a touchdown when Wilson missed the kick-off and McCutcheon, guard, fell on the ball back of the line. The try for extra point failed.

Cardinals to Get Big Hand in Home-Coming Parade—Hotels Crowded—Yankees Tie Winning Streak Record in Classic

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The roar of airplanes and dirigibles as well as the blaze of brass bands and plaudits of the multitude will follow the St. Louis Cardinals this afternoon on their home-coming parade through the downtown streets.

Store windows are ablaze with the cardinal colors and posters of the team and individual players vie for attention. Arriving on a special train from New York about 4 o'clock this afternoon, the Cardinals, making their first appearance in St. Louis since September 12, when they departed on their final road trip which ended with the National League pennant tucked away will be whisked through private entrances at Union station to decorated automobiles. Commissioner Landis will head the parade, with the Cardinal players, two in a machine, following.

A dozen airplanes from local airports and army dirigibles, from Scott field will float overhead as the procession follows a brass band through the streets. The celebration fund was at $2,000 to day and the home-coming committee expected to receive $1,000 more.

The New York Yankees, arriving on another special train about the same time, will not take part in the parade.

NEXT SMITH TALK DATE LOUISVILLE

First Speech of Second Tour in Kentucky Saturday—To Go to New York Monday—Tennessee Conferences Next Week—Deny Reported Chicago Date.

By Harold Oliver.
Associated Press Staff Writer
ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Governor Smith will deliver the first speech of his second campaign tour at Louisville, Ky., next Saturday night. Beyond that engagement the governor was unprepared today to say where he will go for the second week of the tour.

The Democratic presidential nominee, in announcing the solo speaking engagement for next week, said he would leave here for New York City Monday or Tuesday and start by special train from there next Tuesday for Tennessee, where he will visit Chattanooga and Nashville for conferences with party leaders. He will make no speeches, however, in Tennessee.

The governor's announcement made at the daily press conference at the executive mansion, came as somewhat of a surprise since it was general supposed that he would make at least one address before going to Louisville and that Tennessee had been selected for the first speech. No explanation was forthcoming as to the decision to make that border state only a stopping place for conferences with Democratic chieftains. Neither was the nominee ready to say which Tennessee city he would visit first.

The governor characterized as "the best publicity campaign" that he would speak October 13 from a class-engaged platform on Soldiers Field, Chicago.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6.—(AP)—A charge involving the sobriety of Governor Smith, which is reported to have been made last August in Indiana by the Rev. Manning E. Van Nostrand, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist church of this city, was a subject of controversy today between Edward G. Griffin, counsel to the Democratic presidential nominee, and the Albany minister.

In a statement issued from the executive chamber at the state capitol, Mr. Griffin said a communication had been received these some time ago saying that the Rev. Mr. Van Nostrand had made a statement at a Bible conference in Winona Lake, Wisnna, Ind., that Gov. Smith "was an intemperate when he was trying to talk over the radio immediately after he was nominated at Houston that two men had to hold him up."

Immediately upon receipt of this communication, Mr. Griffin said, the minister visited the executive chamber and asked the governor's request, and was asked, in the presence of the governor, himself and George H. Graves, the governor's secretary, after the letter had been read to him, the direct question: "Did you ever make any such statement about me?"

Mr. Griffin said the minister, then asked the governor whether the writer of the letter said that he (the minister) had made the statement "directly to the writer," whereupon the letter was again read and the question repeated. "I never said it," the Rev. Van Nostrand was quoted as replying.

Coop, Pasadena, first vice-president; Chief Charles Swanson, Everett, Wash., second vice-president; Jay Stevens, state fire marshal, secretary; Chief Joe Wood, Renton, Wash., treasurer; Mark Ryan, Chief George Mantor of Seattle, and Chief Vern Stewart of Vancouver, B. C., members of the executive committee.

CHICAGO HOMES BOMB DAMAGED

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—(AP)—A bomb last night wrecked one home and caused another to be damaged by flames. Police said rivalry among gasmen filling stoves operators may have been responsible for the bombing.

Harvey Zuckerman, whose home was ruined by the blast, said he had been warned to stop selling gasoline at 15 cents a gallon. Recently he had been urged to join a filling station owners' association, he said. The adjoining residence of Albert Hart was damaged by fire which spread from the Zuckerman home.
