W. Conger, honoring Mrs. E. T. Weed, who is leaving with her husband to spend the winter in Denver, Colo.

Merry kid games and all-day suckers were enjoyed and stunts performed by each one present. Mrs. Weed was placed in the seat of honor to receive a basket of gifts which proved to be a handkerchief shower with good wishes from each giver, which Mrs. Weed read aloud. And to the surprise of all present a very large package under all others was found and opened, containing a large red bandana handkerchief with an original poem with sincere good wishes, saying he knew the handkerchief was not the right color but large enough to do, and "what not"—from Bro. Conger, who was not present. An abundance of delicious refreshments were served and the 25 Rebekah kids present had a merry time, but all present regretted the departure of Mrs. Weed, even though only for the winter.

Wives of U. S. Oficials Entertained Past Week

An offering was taken up at this meeting for sufferers in Porto Rico.

FIFTEEN BRIDES IN WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Should Florence Trumbull, daughter of the governor of Connecticut, be married to John Coolidge in the executive mansion she will be the fifteenth White House bride.

The last wedding there was that of Eleanor Wilson to William Gibbs McAdoo, then secretary of the treasury. That was May 7, 1924, and Miss Wilson was the fourteenth White House bride. Her sister, Miss Jessie, defied superstition and became the thirteenth bride when she married Francis B. Sayre, in the east room November 25, 1913.

A president himself, nieces daughters and a ward of a chief executive have taken their vows in the stately colonial mansion.

Washington is keenly interested in the prospects of a Coolidge-Trumbull wedding in the White House. No announcement has been made, however.

Nellie Grant and Alice Roosevelt chose the east room for their weddings. They had so many guests that this was the only room large enough. When President Cleveland was married to Frances Folsom, the blue room was used, as the guest list on that occasion was rather limited.

A White House wedding before Mr. Coolidge leaves office would be regarded as a social climax to a season that so far appears to be one of brilliance.

Lucy Payne, widow of a nephew of George Washington and sister-in-law of President Madison was the first White House bride. She was married March 11, 1811.

The other eleven weddings in the mansion were:

Anna Todd of Philadelphia, cousin of Mrs. Madison, wife of the president, and Rep. Edward B. Jackson, a great-uncle of Stonewall Jackson, 1812.

Marie Hester Monroe, daughter of President Monroe, and Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur of New York, 1820.

Mary Hellen, niece of Mrs. Adams, and John Adams, son of President John Quincy Adams, February 20, 1828.

Mary Lewis of Nashville, Tenn., a daughter of one of President Andrew Jackson's famous "kitchen cabinet," and Alphonse Joseph Yver Pageot, secretary of the French legation, 1829.

Emily Martin, niece of President Jackson, and Lewis Donaldson, a grandson of Jefferson, 1831.

Mary Easten, of Tennessee, niece of President Jackson, and Lucien B. Polk, a relative of President Polk, 1837.

Elizabeth Tyler, third daughter of President Tyler, and William Waller of Williamsburg, Va.

Nellie Grant, daughter of President Grant, and Algernon C. F. Sartoris, May 21, 1874.

Emily Platt, niece of President Hayes, and General Russell Hastings, formerly lieutenant colonel of the Twenty-third regiment of Ohio Volunteers, June 19, 1878.

Frances Folsom, the president's ward, and President Grover Cleveland, June 2, 1886.

Alice Roosevelt, daughter of President Roosevelt, and Rep. Nicholas Longworth, February 17, 1906.

Save the eyes—A pair of cheap dark glasses kept by the laundry door, to slip on when hanging out white clothes, is a saving on the eyes.
